Is it true the amazing secret of TELECULT POWER AUTOMATICALLY BRINGS YOU ANYTHING YOU DESIRE...

And in 10 seconds starts to draw Riches, Love, Fine Possessions, Friends, Power, Secret Knowledge, and much more into your life? See for yourself!

Yes, a staggering miracle has happened; A brilliant psychic researcher has discovered a secret—so powerful that it is said to bring your desires to you, from the invisible world, like a blazing streak of lightning!

Yes, how would you like to be able to sit in your living room, give the command for love, and instantly have your loved one appear at your side? Or give the command for money, and suddenly find a big, thick roll of dollars in your hand?

Now, a daring new book called TELECULT POWER lays bare this magic secret, and shows how it can bring fortune, love, and happiness. And Reese P. Dubin—the man who discovered it—makes this shocking claim...

"Great Wealth And Power Can Be Yours!"

Admittedly, the concept this book proposes is completely opposed and contrary to normal human knowledge and experience. "But at this very moment," says Mr. Dubin, "I have startling proof that I want you to see with your own eyes! I want to show you..."

- "How diamonds and jewels have appeared, seemingly out of nothingness, shortly after the use of this strange secret!"
- "How a man used this method for a pocketful of money!"
- "How a woman used it to fill an empty purse!"
- "How a farmer received a pot full of gold!"
- "How another user Teleported a gold jewel box to her, seemingly out of thin air!"
- "How a woman used this method to regain her lost youth!"
- "How a man, growing bald, claims he renewed the growth of his hair with this secret!"
- "How a woman used it to bring her mate to her, without asking!"
- "How another woman summoned a man to her—out of thin air!"
- "How a man heard the unspoken thoughts of others, with this secret!"
- "How a woman saw behind walls and over great distances, with it!"
- "How a man broadcast silent commands that others had to obey!"

Let us now clearly demonstrate to you the scientific basis behind the new wonderworking, Miracle of TELECULT POWER!

"How Telecult Power Brings Any Desire Easily And Automatically!"

For many years, Reese P. Dubin dreamed of a way to call upon the invisible forces at work all around us. He spent a lifetime digging and searching for the secret. These investigations brought him knowledge that goes back to the dim recesses of the past.

One day, to his astonishment, he discovered that he could actually broadcast silent commands, which others instantly obeyed. Using the secret he tells you about in this book, he tried it time after time—commanding others to sleep, get up and come to him, talk or not talk—and act according to his silent wishes. It worked every time!

Working relentlessly from this evidence, Reese P. Dubin succeeded in perfecting a new kind of instrument—called a Tele-Photo Transmitter—that concentrates your thoughts, and sends them like a streaking bullet to their destination!

OTHERS OBEY SILENT COMMANDS! Writing of the success of this method, one user reports the following experience:

"I willed her to pick up and eat a biscuit from a plate in a corner of the room. She did so. I willed her to shake hands with her mother. She rushed to her mother and stroked her hands..."

"I willed her to nod. She stood still and bent her head. I willed her to clap her hands, play a note on the piano, write her name, all of which she did."

"No one can escape the power of this method," says Mr. Dubin. "Everybody—high or low, ignorant or wise—all are subject to its spell! And unless the person is told what's being done, he will think the thoughts are his own!"

HEARS THE THOUGHTS OF OTHERS! Experimenting further with the Tele-Photo Transmitter, Reese P. Dubin soon found that he could

"tune in" and HEAR the unspoken thoughts of others. He says, "At first, these hearing impressions startled me, and I took them for actual speech, until I realized that people don't usually say such things aloud! And their lips remained closed."

SEES BEYOND WALLS, AND OVER GREAT DISTANCES! Then he discovered he could pick up actual sights, from behind walls and over great distances! And when he "tuned in" he could see actual living scenes before him—as clear as the picture on a television screen!

MAKES WOMAN APPEAR—SEEMINGLY OUT OF THIN AIR! With mounting excitement, Reese P. Dubin launched one of the most exciting experiments in the history of psychic research. He wanted to see if the Tele-Photo Transmitter could bring him an actual material object! He chose, for this experiment, the seemingly impossible: an actual living person!

He simply focused the Tele-Photo Transmitter, by dialing the object of his desire. In a flash the door burst open, and there—standing before him, as real as life—was his long-lost cousin!

He stared and rubbed his eyes, and looked again! There—smiling, with arms outstretched in greeting—stood living proof of the most astounding discovery of the Century!

Dial Any Treasure!

You'll see how to use the Tele-Photo Transmitter, to summon your desires. This special instrument—your mental equipment—requires no wires, and no electricity. "Yet," says Mr. Dubin, "it can teleport desires, swiftly from the invisible world."

When you dial your desire—whether for riches, love, or secret knowledge—you capture its invisible, photoplasmic form, at which point "it starts to materialize!" says Dr. Dubin.

"Telecult Power can work seeming miracles in your life," says Mr. Dubin. "With it, it is possible to dial any desire—called a Photo-Form—then sit back, relax, and watch this powerful secret go to work!"

"Instantly Your Life Is Changed!"

With this secret, the mightiest force in the Universe is at your command! "Simply ask for anything you want," says Mr. Dubin, "whether it be riches, love, fine possessions, power, friends, or secret knowledge!"

Suppose you had dialed Photo-Form #2 for Jewels, for example. That's what Margaret C. did, in an actual example Mr. Dubin tells you about. Rich, glittering diamonds and jewels literally appeared at her feet: a pair of gold earrings, which she found that morning... a surprise gift of a pearl necklace, and matching silver bracelets... a beautiful platinum ring set with emeralds and diamonds, dropped on her front lawn!

"Almost overnight," says Mr. Dubin, "it can start to multiply riches, bring romance and love... draw favors, gifts, new friends... or anything else asked for! It isn't necessary for you to understand why. What is important is that it has already worked for many others... men and women in all walks of life... worked every time... and it will work for you, too!"

Brings A Pocket Full Of Money!

You'll see how Jerry D. used this method. He was broke a week before payday. All he did, he says, was to dial Photo-Form #1. Suddenly he felt a bulge in his pocket. Lo and behold! He took out a roll of money... fives, tens, twenties... and more! Obviously, it had been placed there—but when? And by whom?

A Brand New Car Comes!

Marty C., a taxi driver, reports that he just dialed Photo-Form #4, sat back, relaxed, and waited for things to happen. In a short time, great excitement filled the house. His wife came hurrying in, saying, "We won it! We won a car and a cash prize! They just delivered it!" He got up and went to the window. There, big and beautiful, standing in the driveway, was a brand new Cadillac!

Brings Mate Without Asking!

Mrs. Conrad B. reports that she was tired of "pursuing" her husband, as she called it. She wanted him to voluntarily do the things she longed for, take her places, show affection. But he hadn't looked at her in years. He would fall asleep immediately after supper, or watched the ball games, or read the papers. Secretly Mrs. B. decided to try this method. She dialed Photo-Form #9 for Love! Instantly, her husband's attitude changed from boredom to interest and enthusiasm. And from that day forward, he showered her with kindness and affection! It was like a miracle come true!

The Power Of This Method!

There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of healing, wealth, and happiness with this secret, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. Here are just a few...

- REGAINS HAIR GROWTH! Walter C. had a shiny bald head with just a fringe of white hair showing around the edges. He tried this method, and soon his hair began to regrow. The new hair came in thick, dark, and luxurious!
- ROLLS DICE 50 TIMES WITHOUT MISSING ONCE! You'll see how this secret gave Albert J. the power to roll the dice 50 times, without missing once, and—for the first time in the history of Las Vegas—walk away with $500,000!
- DISSOLVES ALL EVIL! You'll see how this amazing secret revealed to Lawrence M. the people who were trying to make him look silly at work—actually revealed their secret thoughts—made them confess and apologize!

If TELECULT POWER can do all this for others, what riches, what rewards, what amazing results can it also bring to you?

Now—enjoy a life of unbelievable riches, lasting love and constant protection with the secrets in this startling WITCH BOOK—

THE MAGIC POWER OF WITCHCRAFT

Whatever it is you need or want, Witchcraft can get it for you quickly, easily, and automatically, say these experts. You'll discover how it can bring abundant and overflowing wealth, find or bring back a lover, ward off evil influences, and much more—step-by-step in plain English, with complete easy-to-follow instructions!

Yes... Witchcraft! Every time you hear the word it brings with it the feelings of deep occult secrets—secrets that you would like to know so that your life can be better; so that your enemies will stop bothering you; so that serenity, love, power and comfort can be yours!

THE MAGIC POWER OF WITCHCRAFT lays bare these secrets for the first time! Do you want a bank account bursting at the seams with money? A love life that would make a sultan envious? Supreme power to crush your enemies and reward your friends? What would it be worth to you to utter a simple incantation that would cause any pain to vanish? Or say another, and immediately recover some lost object?

What would it be worth to you to fly through time and space, on astral wings, as Witches do... go wherever you wish... do whatever you wish... without being detected... watch the antics of others behind closed doors... hear private conversations... make time run forward or backward... read tomorrow's newspaper in a "black mirror"... find out what really happened in history... make your face old or young at will!

BRINGS AUTOMATIC ASSURED SUCCESS!

Witchcraft can bring your heart's desire! You can use it to heal someone, influence the boss to give you that raise, or make someone stop bothering you! It's easy! The easiest thing in the world! You don't have to be wealthy or super-intelligent to get started! Thousands of ordinary people all over the world are using Witchcraft Power right now!

Witches have known for centuries that people are scared of them and their powers! And rightly so! NOW YOU CAN SHARE THE SAME POWER that gives you literally—life and death control over other persons! Is someone bothering you? No problem at all, with Magic Witchcraft. For example, there is a spell called the "Cross Not My Path" ritual, for people who are having neighbor trouble. When you use it, you know you will never again have trouble with this neighbor!

With these amazing Witchcraft secrets, other people will look up to you—in awe—you'll automatically dazzle others with your power to make things happen at your will, you'll be Master of your destiny, and never have to apologize to anyone for anything!

Whatever you want or need, whatever frustration is bothering you, Witchcraft will help you. It is not evil—nor is it Black Magic. Like electricity, it is simply a power given by nature for the use of men, to make life easier.

You'll see how to get paid without working... how to get expensive clothes and furs FREE... how to get a first-class plane

Now! Let This Amazing Witch Book Bring You INFINITE WEALTH, FINE POSSESSIONS, A COMFORTABLE NEW HOME, FINANCIAL SECURITY, LOVE, CONTROL OVER OTHERS, And More—Easily And Automatically!

For centuries, these Witchcraft secrets were hushed up, so that those in power could stay in power! Feudal lords kept their bondsmen as slaves. Factory owners kept their employees in dreaded sweatshops, because these masters knew they must not allow their workers to realize that they need not labor their lives away. Witchcraft was suppressed because it works! Not because of any "evil" in it. If it hadn't worked, no one would have worried about it. If you want to gain power, all you need is this amazing Witch Book!

By using these Witchcraft secrets, you too can change your life and gain health, wealth, someone to love—or anything else—surely, swiftly and automatically!

• THE WITCH'S MONEY JAR!—You'll discover the secret of the Witch's Money Jar, a mysterious jar that fills with money—whenever you want or need it! • THE WITCH'S MONEY MAGNET!—You'll see how to magnetize a dollar bill so that it multiplies! All you need to make your own Witch's Money Magnet is a dollar bill, a green candle, and the words on page 38. Once you do this, your dollar will double and keep doubling! You'll enjoy glittering luxuries, and start living like a millionaire, as Witches do!

• THE WITCH'S BLACK MIRROR!—Just as your TV set has been called your "window on the world," so the Black Mirror is your "window on the psychic world"—the world of the unknown. Making your own personal Black Mirror takes only a few moments and can open the way to unguessed visions. All you need is a bowl of water, some ink, and the chant on page 23. Suddenly you will see scenes from other places and times, or any scene you wish to see!

AMAZING TECHNIQUE HAS HELPED THOUSANDS!

Witchcraft secrets like these can make you rich faster than anything else in the world! Here's how others have used them to make miracles happen in their daily lives!

You'll see how Yvonne, a man who likes to give a lot of expensive parties, was always short of cash until he discovered the amazing WITCH'S MONEY JAR—now all he has to do is dip in, for it brings him an endless flow of cash! Evelyn, a waitress, was always lending money to friends, and was always broke. Finally, she placed her last dollar on the table, and worked the MONEY MAGNET SPELL over it. All at once, dozens of people who had borrowed money from her, rushed to pay her back!

Hank was perpetually broke. One night he got together with some friends, and they decided to cast the MONEY SPELL. The very next day, Hank received in the mail a check for some $250 worth of insurance. (He had never heard of the company that sent the check, he was not insured with them, and had never even made a claim—but he accepted the money.) Another member of the group that used the spell, a 40-year-old secretary, received an automobile as a gift! All the other members of the group received amazing windfalls of money, as well! You'll see how Dexter, a retiree, lives RENT FREE and receives $200 a week at the age of 78, with a secret you'll find in this Witch Book! You'll see how Claudine, a secretary, was able to wear the finest, most expensive furs—FREE—and spend weekends at an expensive ski lodge in the mountains, where she met wonderful men! How Ruth, a widow—with nothing but a small pension, and a little savings—received her dream house, by using a simple 5-minute ritual on page 38 of this book!

Using the same Witchcraft secrets, YOU can achieve peace of mind and freedom from money worries for the rest of your life!

YOU CAN HEAL YOURSELF AS WITCHES DO!

Feeling sick today? Plagued by a lot of troublesome illnesses? Perhaps some relative is sick and constantly demanding your attention? Or perhaps it is even a pet that needs help? With the MAGIC POWER OF WITCHCRAFT, you can cure anything, say authors Gavin and Yvonne Frost: "In our experience... we have not found a single incurable disease!"

• ANDY DISSOLVES A GALLSTONE!—Andy M. developed gallstones. When his illness became too troublesome to ignore, he went to a doctor. Urine tests revealed that he was chronically alkaline. His body was badly out of balance. Using this Witchcraft method to restore balance to the mind and body—in a short while, X-rays showed that he had no more gallstones! Andy never again suffered the excruciating pain of passing stones!

In the same way, say Gavin and Yvonne Frost, almost all illness can be prevented. You are actually employing an ancient Witchcraft method to remove diseased tissue! Even if you do not have any belief in the results, the power will work for you! One woman, who had been in a wheelchair for 26 years, due to polio and arthritis, used the Witchcraft healing method, and reported that she had no pain and could walk and garden again! A man reported that his son's deep 3rd degree burns miraculously healed overnight!

• SO SIMPLE A CHILD USES IT!—A 4-year-old girl asked if she could try to heal a man who was limping—due to a torn ligament—with this simple Witchcraft healing method. In a matter of moments, she started her chant, laying her hands on the weak ankle. The man was miraculously cured! To skeptics, this should be convincing PROOF that anyone can use it!

AMAZING POWER CAN BE YOURS!

MIND, ORDER, ENERGY.

Which Governs the Universe and You?

What lies behind all existence? Is everything a product of supernatural design? Are humans shifted about by an arbitrary will like pieces on a chessboard? Or does a stupendous energy, without reference to purpose, bring about a ceaseless transformation from atoms to stars and to life itself?

Mind—Order—Energy—may these not be summed up in one word: Consciousness? Behind all a Universal Consciousness, impersonal, eternal. It composes the order of matter, the sensitivity of life, and that personal awareness that is Self.

This is a new age! It is time to reconcile science, philosophy, and mysticism. Truth is found in unifying all experience and knowledge that man has acquired—no longer must man be dealt with separately with prejudice or preference.

THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By Dennis William Hauck

■ The results of the OFFICIAL UFO Readership Survey are in, with some surprises in a number of categories. We were literally swamped with replies from 23 states and 4 foreign countries, but most agreed that the most wanted features (28.1%) were close encounters including alien communication, abductions, unusual creature sightings and physical evidence. However, on the other hand, the least popular item was unsubstantiated sightings (1.6%). I think this says a lot about the quality of our readers! Second place in the preference of our readers was a close tie between technology and UFOs; that is, how UFOs might work and UFO detectors, with 15.5% of the total replies; and the non-extraterrestrial theories—paraphysical, psychic, hollow earth, etc.—which came in with 15.7% of the total replies. The next most popular item was photoanalysis, including comparisons of photographed crafts and new UFO photographs, which cornered 9.4% of the replies. Another close tie was between the people and organizations category (7.7%) and the government and UFOs category (7.9%). Close behind was the 6.3% return for the documented sightings category, which included such areas as flap analysis, well-known sightings and multiple-witness cases. Finishing least in popularity were foreign features (3.1%) and expose articles (4.7%).

The results of the Readership Survey spell out one thing clearly: harder work for yours truly! Obviously our readers are not going to be satisfied with the lightweight bunk which fills so many of the other UFO publications. Our readers are seeking answers to the problem of UFOs! To me this means a renewed effort to bring you fresh, authenticated and important UFO information and ideas. With the help and backing of our publisher, I think I can do just that.

In the future, we will be bringing you more true close encounter cases and theoretical and technical articles on the possibilities inherent in the UFO reality.

A regular feature will be new photographs and computer analysis of UFO photographs, and more exposure to the UFO organizations and the personalities in this fascinating field of ufology.

One thing mentioned in many of the letters received but not included in the Readership Survey questionnaire was the prospect of using OFFICIAL UFO as an active force against UFO debunking and cover-up. Typical was the comment in a letter from Chuck Rochman of Lathrup Village, Michigan: "I strongly feel that some kind of joint effort between OFFICIAL UFO and its readers should be made to encourage our government to form an objective, scientific attitude toward the problems it poses. One way of doing this is by urging your readers to take an active part in the solution of the UFO problem by writing to people in high positions such as the United Nations and the U.S. Congress. If we get no response, then we write again and again until we do get positive results!" Well, Chuck, in the past I would have passed by your recommendation with little notice because of my own frustrating efforts on an official level. But very recently things have changed. The attitude of many of our leaders is changing. UFOs are no longer the subject of jokes, and in many nations throughout the world the subject is being openly discussed by government leaders. Even the United Nations is now giving UFOs some long-delayed attention! I think the time is right for a new "UFO activism." I don't mean we should all start wearing buttons proclaiming "UFO POWER," but by a deliberate program of lobbying and letter writing, of constant pressure for an intelligent UFO research program, we can get results! So all you new-age UFO activists, turn to the UFO News section for details on Round One, and get ready for a long, hard fight for truth. ●

NOW—INVOKE THE AMAZING EARTH FORCES*

... and open the door to a Wonderful New World of Money, Power, Health and Long Life... where your dearest dreams will come true at last!

DESTINY IS TAPPING YOU ON THE SHOULDER...

ARE YOU READY FOR THE SYMBOLS OF POWER?

Here are five of the great Earth Forces symbols. Some of them may look familiar, others may not. Each one represents a Force of limitless power... a power that sweeps everything before it as a hurricane blows dried leaves. You will find them all in the pages of "Ultra-Psychonics"—the first and only book that dares to reveal their innermost secrets!

Pictured here is the astounding Psychonic Memory Sphere—a new way to increase your memory power by over 100%. In effect, it expands your mind into the Fourth Dimension and makes you an instant "mental wizard."

Pictured here are the signs of the Psychonic Zodiac—a startling new kind of "astrology" that produces guaranteed results.

- It can tell you exactly what your chances are of succeeding in any given venture—and show you how to improve them.
- It can protect you from saying or doing anything wrong.
- It can reveal your "lucky" and "unlucky" days—scientifically.

Pictured here is the amazing Mental Organon—an Earth Force that multiplies your mind 1,000 times!

- It can help you flash through math, business, and personal finance problems that have you stopped cold.
- It can load your thoughts with verbal dynamite—make you command immediate attention and respect whenever you speak.

Pictured here is the Master Plan of the Universe—a strange blueprint that shows how the entire Cosmos fits together.

- It can guide you to the entry points into the Alternate Universe—and give you new and unusual psychic powers.
- It can point the way to a new kind of prayer which is much more effective than the "hit or miss" prayers many people use.

Pictured here is the Earth Forces diagram that summons your Psychic Guardian when a simple ceremony is performed.

- It can bring you an invisible spirit bodyguard to watch over you day and night, and shield you from harm.
- It can help to protect you against demonic attack and possession.
- It can help you succeed in whatever you undertake.

ABOUT THE SECRET OF WALTER DELANEY

WALTER DELANEY is one of the world's leading authorities on the psychic and occult sciences. His profound knowledge of the Earth Forces is based not only on his own extensive investigations and years of study, but also on certain psychic secrets passed on to him by his ancestors. "I have travelled to three continents to get the secrets I've put into this book," says Delaney, "and it is the culmination of my life's work. Because I have no children to pass it on to, I am giving it to the world, so that this wisdom will not die."

Yes, it's true! And once you invoke these amazing "earth forces," you start to reap a golden harvest of riches, power, health and love almost beyond belief.

- One woman used these powers to draw a man to her from hundreds of miles away, and made him marry her!
- A man used them to win over and over at the racetrack!
- Another man tripled his salary in less than a year!
- A teacher lived past the age of 150 years!

Whether you want a brand new luxury car, a beautiful new home, expensive clothes, or anything else that money can buy... it's yours for the asking.

You're going to start to make your money supply grow as it has never grown before... quickly running up even the smallest amounts into thousands of dollars... and keep it growing endlessly and automatically!

Illness is cured, and pain goes away... people who looked terrible become the picture of health... tired people find they are bursting with new pep and energy... and healing miracles take place with "food medicines" that cost just pennies to prepare.

WIN NEW FRIENDS, FIND ROMANCE

Yes, when the Earth Forces start working for you, your most cherished dreams start to come true. New friends flock to you, people like and admire you wherever you go.

Your loved ones become more affectionate and responsive, willing to grant you every desire without hesitation... eager to please you and do whatever you want.

- George D. used the Earth Forces on a snooty blond secretary in his office and got a date in just 5 minutes. Now she does whatever he desires.

Dinah B.'s husband had run away with another woman. But when she used the Earth Forces on him, he broke up with the other woman—and turned up at Dinah's door a few days later, begging to be forgiven. "He is a changed man," she reported, "and I don't think he'll ever do that again."

Carol E. was rejected by the people in her neighborhood until she released the Earth Forces on them. Within two weeks, everything changed. People who had been ignoring her suddenly clamored to greet her, and even her most hostile neighbors turned into model friends.

Leo M. used the Earth Forces on the toughest, crustiest banker in his town. To his surprise, he not only got the loan he wanted—the man even offered to lend him more than he had asked for!... and that's just the beginning, friend. For all this and more will come to you the moment the Earth Forces start to help you.

HOW TO CONTACT THE EARTH FORCES

"I believe," you say, "but how can I contact the Earth Forces?" You can do it...

... with a revealing book that gives you the Magic Spells, Secret Names, Rituals and Words of Power that bring these miracles to pass. It is called "Ultra-Psychonics"—and it is perhaps the greatest psychic book ever written. Step-by-step, in complete detail, and illustrated with pictures, it shows you exactly what to do and how to do it: to summon the Earth Forces (which it calls "psycho-atomic energy") and let their mighty powers open the door to a wonderful new life for you!

You'll find a full description of the Earth Forces on page 21 of

LET ULTRA-PSYCHONICS ALSO GIVE YOU FULL CONTROL OF THESE "OCULT" EARTH FORCES:

Freed from Wheelchair!—Eric D., a cripple confined to a wheelchair, found the Earth Forces a true godsend. Once ready to commit suicide, he now uses a new kind of "astral travel" to visit friends and takes journeys all over the world.

Doubles Salary!—Larry S. put the Earth Forces to work during his lunch hour—and doubled his salary, week after week.

Earache Disappears!—A housewife with steady pain in her ear for months, saw doctor after doctor without results. Then she tried a simple Earth Forces healing method. She felt better almost immediately—and after 4 days the pain vanished, and never returned.

SECRET OF "CHARGED" LETTERS

If there is something you really want, but just can't afford, here is a way to get it quickly and easily using nothing more than a few sheets of paper, some stamps and envelopes—and the Earth Forces.

SECRET OF THE POWER PRIMES

If you like to gamble, here's the way to pick a series of magic numbers that greatly increase your chances of winning. Use it with a special Earth Forces timing system, you just can't lose.

Roger B. used this secret with stunning effect in Las Vegas, where he "broke the bank" and practically cleaned out one of the casinos. You can do the same—if you get the Earth Forces to help you this special way.

this amazing book. You'll discover the amazing Force that is charged with ESP—the secret behind telepathy, clairvoyance, magic, prophecy and a host of other occult powers. You'll see the startling Force that some call "Ultra-Hypnotism"—the secret behind control over others, love and romance, job advancement, and friendship. And you'll find out about strange Earth Force particles called "egons" that bring good health and long life.

These—and all the other mighty Earth Forces—stand ready to serve you. They will bring you whatever you want—if you are willing to put in as little as 5 minutes a day to master them!

Yes, you too can call upon the surging power of the Earth Forces to draw life's riches to you! You, too, can reap a harvest of money, power, health and love—almost beyond belief! And, you can discover the secrets of this mystical power entirely at our risk. All you have to do is return the coupon.

CONTACT

Dear Editor:

First of all, I think your magazine exemplifies journalism of the highest degree—namely, your willingness to publish both sides of this enigma we refer to as UFOs. I believe a tip of the hat is in order for OFFICIAL UFO.

Now, if I may, I would like to take issue with Robert Sheaffer and his proposition that together with Phil Klass he has solved the Barney and Betty Hill abduction in New Hampshire. It just is not so.

The technique used by Sheaffer in his presentation is called "card stacking," and it is as old as the grand art of debate. Another way to view this procedure is to take a violin, remove all the strings and then replace them in a different order, hoping to get a tune of a different pitch.

I would like to confine my rebuttal to the last section of Sheaffer's article, where he deals with the hypnotherapy sessions administered by Dr. Benjamin Simon in Boston.

Mrs. Hill was not totally inaccurate in her statement concerning the tapes and their possession by the Library of Congress. As a portion of the hypnotherapy sessions was included in Fuller's book, there is indeed a copy of the "transcripts" to be found in Washington, D.C.

As to why Betty remembered what happened aboard the UFO while Barney knew nothing, this was answered (if one read the book) before they entered the ship. Betty relates under hypnosis how the car was surrounded by uniformed creatures who opened the car door, during which time hypnotic suggestion was given without the use of spoken words. Betty goes on to describe a feeling of "falling down a deep, dark well." It was at this time she started giving herself counter suggestions to the effect that she wished to retain her consciousness. In other words, Barney went into the experience in what is called, in psychology, somnambulism, while through her own efforts, Betty reduced this to a light trance state in which she was passive but awake. Thus Barney recalled nothing while Betty retained portions.

Sheaffer fails to mention (of course) the fact that Dr. Simon had at least some difficulty removing from the subjects the "very" strong suggestion that they not recall the incident in question. In other words, someone at least as skilled as Dr. Simon in the craft of hypnosis had been "there" before he had.

Sheaffer's piece is not entirely without merit, for he did explain some important facts concerning Barney and Betty—that they were not trained observers and that they were not familiar with celestial bodies. But is this sufficient reason to attack Betty's character (Barney died in 1969)? What do the rest of you readers think?

Sometimes the "will to debunk" is so overpowering it interferes with an objective view of the facts that are available. If we ever do get to the bottom of this mystery, it won't be due to the efforts of people like Sheaffer and Klass.

Sincerely,
John J. Le Roux
Glide, Oregon

Gentlemen:

I would like to comment on "The Case For the Multi-Dimensional UFO" by Bill Quinalty in the December 1976 issue of OFFICIAL UFO.

He's very close to being "right on," but a much stronger case by far can be made for the "multiple dimensionality" approach.

Specifically, the entire approach can be fitted onto Everett's many worlds interpretation of quantum mechanics and turned into darn sound physics, totally consistent with the entire experimental basis of modern physics. Specifically, Everett's work corrects a fundamental limitation of the accepted interpretation of quantum mechanics and relativity—i.e., that only a single observer or observation at a time is permitted. Everett considered the problem of multiple, simultaneous observers, and worked out what that did to ordinary physics. The result was a totally new interpretation of the entire subject. If you can convince yourself, e.g., that you and I both simultaneously exist and observe, then I can assure you that physics is totally different from what it is in the ordinary physics textbooks at our universities.

At this point I'd like to call Bill's attention to some of my own work. Frankly, UFO phenomena are never going to be explained by ordinary physics because the ordinary physics book does not contain the physics or science that is being evidenced. The phenomenon is outside our present scientific paradigm. For that reason, with some little effort (about 12 years or so) I finally discovered what may be the key. All our present day science and logic are founded on three simple laws—Aristotle's three axioms of logical thought. With some struggle, I found a fourth law, which contained the negation of each of the other three. The total of the four laws then forms a closed metalogic from which can be derived a new paradigm—one that can fit in the UFO phenomena and explain them in terms of Everett's many worlds interpretation of physics! The problems of metaphysics and philosophy (ontological problem, problem of change, etc.), including the nature of mind and the classical mind/body problem, are also resolved.

For some time now I've been stuffing material into the Defense Documentation Center so that these ideas and concepts will be available to a wide audience throughout the world. Some of the papers include:

Quinton/Perceptron Physics: A Theory of Existence, Perception, and Physical Phenomena. 1973. AD 763 210.

Field, Formon, Superspace, and Inceptive Cyborg: A Paraphysical Theory of Noncausal Phenomena. December 1974. AD/A-005-579/8GI.

An Approach to Understanding Psychotronics. June 1976. AD-A027 866.

Writing with Observer Back Into the Equation. March 1976. AD-A027 867.

The psychotronics paper particularly will develop the concepts for the multi-dimensional explanation of UFOs and show that several major UFO flaps precisely fit the concepts. Jacques Vallee's Passport to Magonia concepts also fit neatly onto the framework. Again, let me accent that this material, although farout, is totally consistent with modern physics corrected for the problem of multiple simultaneous observers, and in accord with Everett's work.

UFO BOOKSHELF

By George W. Earley

■ It is my hope to visit Australia and New Zealand sometime in the next few years. When/if that comes to pass, one man I hope to meet and spend considerable time with is Bruce Cathie. Captain Cathie is an airline pilot in New Zealand. He has seen UFOs on several occasions and is convinced that they are interplanetary vehicles, that he knows why they are here, and that Earth's major governments also know they are interplanetary and why they are here.

He sets forth his beliefs and his thesis in two books, Harmonic 33 and Harmonic 695: The UFO & Anti-Gravity. The second book is co-authored by newsman Peter Temm. Originally published some years ago (1968 and 1971, respectively), they are now available at $9.95 each from book importer Charles Tuttle Inc., Rutland, Vermont 05701.

Somewhat awkwardly written and, at times, frightfully heavy on mathematics, the two books claim that space folks are here to recreate a giant global power grid utilizing, in part, the remains of the old grid which dates back thousands of years. The old grid, Cathie tells us, is buried deep beneath the earth's surface, so don't waste time poking around in the boondocks for bits and pieces. You can, Cathie claims, look at "scars" in the earth where portions of the ancient grid overloaded and blew out, creating massive circular scars. Science officially attributes these craters to impacts by giant meteors—the Arizona meteor crater, Chubb crater in Quebec, Australia's Wolf crater, and others in Mexico, Alaska, Estonia and elsewhere—but Cathie disagrees. He offers strings of equations and plots interconnecting lines on his maps to prove his theory.

He admits to working with poorly scaled maps and models but hopes that he can arouse enough interest "to have the measurements checked by an electronic calculator, using spherical trigonometry." This could be a harder task than it might seem since, not satisfied with the standard English units of measure—hours, feet, minutes, miles, etc.—Cathie has devised new units which he sometimes seems to use interchangeably with the old ones. By manipulating his "new hours," "grid miles," and so forth, he seems able to establish a "grid relationship" between any purportedly anomalous events he wishes to include in his theorizing. I am reminded of prophecies based on the use of "pyramid inches," a unit of measurement invented about 100 years ago by pyramidologists.

Cathie also has, unfortunately, a tendency to sweep up all manner of oddments and weave them into his web of "proof." Into his grid patterns he fits such diverse factors as those ancient meteor craters, alleged gravitational anomalies (the Oregon "vortex" and similar tourist attractions), the Krakatoa eruption, the "Great Siberian Meteorite" (about which more in a future column), and much, much more. Unfortunately, "much more" also includes a number of thoroughly discredited events: Frank Scully's account of crashed UFOs; the five Avenger aircraft "mysteriously" lost in the so-called Bermuda Triangle; Morris Jessup's "invisible" warship story, and other equally specious happenings. Indeed, given time and reams of scratch paper, I am sure Captain Cathie could fit virtually any odd event into his grid theory. Nonetheless, I would still like to meet the man. Perhaps he could change my mind. . . but until that day, color me skeptical.

I don't think Captain Cathie and Jerome Eden see eye to eye on the matter of visiting spacemen. Where Cathie believes that the spacefolk are rebuilding the ancient grid with the eventual intention of helping us create an earthly paradise and going out to join our space brothers, Eden is convinced we are under attack. Unfortunately, his Planet in Trouble: The UFO Assault on Earth (Exposition Press, New York, 1973, 214 pp., $7.50) does not really live up to its title. What we mainly get is all-out praise for the late Wilhelm Reich, and a slashing attack on any who do not believe he was the greatest scientist of this or any other age.

Reich was an M.D., a respected European psychoanalyst who, even before he came to the U.S. in 1939, believed he had discovered a new form of energy—a primordial, pre-atomic force that pervades every living being. He called it Orgone. He also discovered Detrimental Orgone Energy (DOR), which is created from the good stuff by atomic radiation, fluorescent lights, TV and a host of other maleficent 20th century gadgets. Reich invented devices to accumulate the beneficent Orgone Energy and other devices to draw off the evil DOR. And this is where the UFOs come in.

DOR, Eden tells us, is deliberately being dumped into our atmosphere by the saucer people; hence the title of his book. This "cosmic offal," as Eden calls it, is the exhaust material from the saucers, the by-product of the Orgone engines that drive the UFOs. Atmospheric DOR, says Eden, is responsible for a host of ills, ranging from mental depression and physical deterioration in individuals to large-scale, destructive droughts. I suspect Eden will blame DOR for the horrible drought that afflicted England last summer.

Eden also claims that Reich invented a "cloudbuster," a device to "draw off" atmospheric DOR and ground it harmlessly into water, thereby restoring the atmospheric balance and causing rain. At this point, my skepticism comes strongly to the fore. Eden says he has duplicated Reich's devices, including the cloudbuster, and to have successfully used them. He tells us that cloudbusting is risky, not only because high winds and torrential rains can result from careless operation of the device, but because the operation will attract UFOs, and they will attack the cloudbuster operators. Proof, Mr. Eden, proof!

Your book is unillustrated, save for crude sketches diagramming a cloudbuster setup. Where are photos of the actual device? Where are photos of

With their help, you will live a life piled high with the golden riches, the luxurious possessions, the personal honors, and all else you have longed for these many years.

Here are some typical examples of its amazing results:

- Almost immediately after using this secret, D.J. reports finding ten crisp $100 bills in her kitchen drawer! T.A. used the secret of the PROSPERITY PYRAMID for money. In little more than 48 hours, he received a check for $1,000 from an unexpected source! S.W. needed $300,000 for his failing business—but the banks just laughed at him. THE NEXT MORNING, after using this secret, he got the full amount!
- "I was in Tijuana at the dog races," says M.Y. "Just before the last race, I used this secret. IN THAT INSTANT, the numbers 7 and 8 kept flashing in my head. I took the hint, hurried to the window and bet $2, using these numbers. It won and paid me $162!"
- R.H. happily reports winning $75, $500 and $500 in three successive weeks playing Bingo, after using the secret of the PROSPERITY PYRAMID! "Now I'm out of debt and have a savings account for the first time in years! It's a wonderful new life!" she enthuses.
- "Two days after using this secret, my ex-husband voluntarily gave me an extra $300," reports M.H. "I collected some money long owed... my prosperity is growing, and things are looking up for the first time in years!"
- E.G. reports that one week after using the PROSPERITY PYRAMID secret, she sold her property for $15,000 profit, after months of waiting!
- "I am amazed at the immediacy of positive results," writes Mrs. N.I. "My husband had been out of work again, this time for almost six months. THE MORNING AFTER using this secret, he got the best job offer he ever had... A host of minor aches and pains in the family disappeared, and for a caper I won $300 in a contest—the first thing I have ever won in my life!"
- For 8 years, we have been experimenting with this PYRAMID power at the E.S.P. Lab. Thousands have tried it. Magnificent healings, settlement of "impossible" problems, new jobs, windfalls of money, and meetings of "perfect mates" are commonly reported.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

AL G. MANNING discovered, early in life, the basis of UNIVERSAL PSYCHIC POWER. With it, he graduated Magna Cum Laude from U.C.L.A., where he was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Honor Society.

Further use of this amazing power boosted him into the highest levels of business success. Starting at a low salary, he rose to the presidency of a vigorous and growing corporation. At that point, struck by personal tragedy, he left his business career and turned to the study of religious science and became a Doctor of Divinity.

Through these later studies, Al G. Manning began to ascertain the laws of UNIVERSAL PSYCHIC POWER, and formulated a system that could use this power to draw contact with the vast energy source within us. In this book, he presents the culmination of his work for the first time.

"And God said, Let there be Light!
And there was Light."

(GENESIS 1:1)

It works every time—and swift results are guaranteed—when properly applied!

THE SECRET OF PYRAMID POWER!

The secret of the PROSPERITY PYRAMID is that it magnifies the power of prayer—through a mysterious, as yet unidentified form of energy—an invisible "psychic" substance, which the Bible calls the Light. Furthermore, it has been scientifically proven that this Astral Light does exist. The Pyramid captures it! Lassoes it for the first time—and makes it work for you!

Just like Aladdin's Lamp—the genie of the Pyramid serves its master without the slightest hesitation, to bring about whatever message is placed inside it!

With this secret, all the power of the universe is ready and eager to work through you... and your heart's desires can be yours in the twinkling of an eye! You don't need any special education or equipment to use the PROSPERITY PYRAMID. All you need are a few ordinary household items—my book gives complete, easy-to-follow directions.

WHAT SORT OF HELP CAN YOU EXPECT?

Now, with the amazing PROSPERITY PYRAMID, you can expect very real help, indeed! Are you having trouble with your marriage, your love life? Is there someone you long for, but cannot approach? Are money problems plaguing you? Or problems of poor health?

If so, the PROSPERITY PYRAMID can help you! How? Any way you can imagine, and a few ways known only to the Spirit world. Little things—like the phone call from a loved one you crave—in as little as 10 minutes! Also bigger things, like a house, a perfect spouse, a business of your own, or a big promotion... even a million dollars!

It has worked for others! What riches, what rewards, what amazing results will it bring for you! Here are some actual examples—

• Janet S. was the impatient lover type, and had found the secret of PYRAMID power quite effective in getting her boyfriend, Jimmy, to call her on the telephone: it usually took less than 10 minutes!

But he was still the "shy" type. Using the method on page 62, she sent a powerful blast of Pyramid energy, with the words, "Jimmy, you must have Janet now!" Almost before she stood up, her phone rang—and an excited Jimmy begged to see her! Today they are happily married!

• A.F. reports that, since using PYRAMID power, "Every day there are signs of Infinite Love protecting my life!" She tells how, after a narrowly avoided accident with her car...

She noticed something gleaming in the beam of her headlights. "I got out of the car to look, and found a lovely silver necklace full of old Egyptian hieroglyphics etched on charms," she says. "There was absolutely no mud or dirt on the necklace, even though it had been raining. I treasure it as a very special gift from Spirit."

No task is too great or too small for the Light of the Pyramid. Let it flow through you to solve every problem and achieve your every goal. With this mysterious force, you can enjoy a fresh flow of riches, money and personal power into your life greater than you have ever dared dream possible!

HEALING PYRAMID ENERGY!

I truly believe the Infinite Power that works through you can heal anything, and insure your perfect health. The existence of the cosmic Light, used in healing Pyramid energy has been scientifically proven (scientists call it the Kirlian Effect)—and I believe, from what I've seen, that it can heal anything from a hangnail to even more serious conditions, when used correctly.

At the E.S.P. Laboratory, our results have often been immediate and spectacular! I am not a doctor, nor do I claim this as a cure-all. Not even a doctor can do that. All you or I—or anyone—can do is provide conditions that will help the body heal itself. That is the secret of healing Pyramid power! Just look at the results...

• "I was having excruciating pains in my back," a Georgia lady reports. "I couldn't go to the doctor, as he wasn't in his office." So she tried the secret of Pyramid Power, asking for help. "During the ritual I felt a spirit hovering over me... When I got up... the pains were gone. I had a good rest... and have felt wonderful ever since."

• R.F. reports that he asked for relief from bad migraine headaches with the secret of PYRAMID power. Instantly, the headache was relieved. "That one time would be miracle enough," he says, "but it was six months ago, and I haven't had a single attack since!"

• Mr. A.E. reports results in 60 seconds! "My throat was absolutely raw from a strep condition. The soreness was almost unbearable... Now it feels normal; there is no pain at all." IT STAYED completely normal!

PYRAMID POWER OVER GREAT DISTANCES!

My files are brimming with similar positive reports! Perhaps you'd like to help a person who is far away. Excellent results have been reported over a distance, in both healing and the communication of desires!

H.Y. reports: "I used this secret to send healing energy to my mother in a distant city. The whole family had been quite worried. But now the doctor reports a 'miraculous' healing of her heart condition... she is in wonderfully good health now."

Miss J.V. hadn't had a date in three months, and there seemed to be no prospects. Once she discovered PYRAMID power, however, in just minutes she was ready to use it for the very first time! In three days, FIVE eligible men called her for dates!

Yours in Pyramid Light, for a rich new life—

Al G. Manning, D.D.

UFO NEWS

■ Serious consideration is being given to the establishing of a United Nations agency to fully investigate the worldwide UFO phenomenon. In his address to the 31st Session of the General Assembly of the United Nations on October 7, 1976, Sir Eric Matthew Gairy, Prime Minister of Grenada (West Indies), called for a concerted U.N. effort toward the solution of the UFO problem and suggested the establishment within the United Nations of a department or agency for coordinated research into the problem under the direction of recognized scientists and researchers. Sir Gairy stated, "One wonders why the existence of UFOs, or flying saucers as they are sometimes called, continues to remain a secret to those in whose archives repose useful information and other data. While we appreciate that some countries consider this to be in the interest of military expedience, I now urge that a different view be taken, because it is my firm conviction that the world is ready, willing and ripe enough to accept these phenomena in relation to man and his existence on the planet Earth and in relation to the planet Earth and life in outer space."

Secretary General Dr. Kurt Waldheim has stated that this matter now rests with the U.N. member nations and that it is only if a member nation decides that it should be taken up by a U.N. committee can the matter proceed further. Grenada's Ambassador to the U.N., Marie McIntire believes the UFO problem should be placed before the U.N. Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space, and support is currently being enlisted among the other member nations for just such an action.

In the meantime, an international effort has been initiated to secure funding for a UFO research project under the direction of the United Nations. Called Project UNUFO, the first worldwide UFO research project will be under the direction of the heads of various UFO organizations, representatives of the United Nations, and a U.N. Advisory Committee to be made up of contributors to the project. Hopefully such a combination of talent and perspectives will enable real progress to be made toward the solution of the UFO problem. At the present time a survey is underway to determine the attitudes of the 120 or more U.N. member nations and their participation in the project. We hope to be able to report the results of that survey in the next issue.

Contributions can be made care of this magazine or through a number of national UFO organizations, a complete listing of which will also appear in the next issue. Readers' suggestions and comments on this effort will be greatly appreciated. For those of you who would like to express your opinions directly to the Secretary General, you may write him at the following address: Sec. Gen. Kurt Waldheim, United Nations, New York, New York 10017.

On the home front, we now have a firm believer in UFOs in the White House. President Jimmy Carter saw a UFO in 1973 in Thomaston, Georgia that was witnessed by at least 20 people. The object appeared as big as the moon and changed colors several times from red to green. It apparently consisted of three balls of flashing light arranged in a circular pattern. In an interview with Malcolm Balfour of the National Enquirer, Carter said: "If I become President, I'll make every piece of information this country has about UFO sightings available to the public and the scientists." Let's hold him to his word! You can write to President Carter at the White House, Washington, D.C. 20025.

A very effective and easy way of communicating with United Nations and U.S. government elected officials is the "Personal Opinion Message" service of the Western Union Telegraph System. For $2.00, you can send a fifteen word or less telegram from any point in the U.S. expressing your opinion to government leaders. If you feel more verbose, you can send a hundred word or less Mailgram for $2.75 from anywhere in the U.S. ●

On October 7, 1976, Prime Minister Eric M. Gairy of Grenada called for a UFO research project in the United Nations.

Prime Minister Eric M. Gairy addresses the 31st session of the United Nations, calling for a "different view" on UFOs to be taken by the world governments.

Close Encounters Type II: The UFO Fragments

By Lee Frey

UFO fragments could provide positive proof of the UFO reality if they are collected with care and analyzed with precision. OFFICIAL UFO offers its free testing facilities to anyone who believes he or she has found genuine UFO fragments!

■ UFO close encounters of the second kind are cases of physical evidence found in conjunction with UFO sightings. This physical evidence includes such things as large counterclockwise swirls, burnt circles known as UFO rings and fragments possibly of UFOs. The fragments constitute one of the rarest and most important areas of evidence available to the ufologist. For theoretically, at least, if we had but one piece of the material from which UFOs are made, we could make some sort of statement as to how they are constructed and, perhaps, who constructed them.

The discovery of UFO fragments is a rare and special event, but it is not unknown in the literature of ufology. On June 30, 1908, in the Tungus forests of Siberia, hundreds of farmers and villagers witnessed a brilliant ball of fire suddenly appear on the horizon in a fuming mushroom-shaped cloud. Shock waves were felt around the world and 20 million square kilometers of soil and tens of millions of trees were destroyed. Since then nearly 80 expeditions have been made to the site and some amazing facts about the explosion have been discovered. First, the tungus explosion was caused by a cosmic body which changed both its course and velocity in flight. Second, the explosion took place about ten kilometers above the earth's surface and was thermonuclear in origin, having the power of a ten-megaton hydrogen bomb. Soviet scientists recently announced the discovery of metallic fragments buried at the site and have been frank enough to label the fragments "of an unusual nature," but no final report has been issued to the public. Without doubt, many similar cases of fragments from unidentified flying objects have occurred throughout the world with little follow-up and no real analysis. It is only in recent years, with the proliferation of world UFO organizations with a propensity toward scientific analysis, that such cases have received the kind of attention they deserve.

The analysis of physical evidence of UFO encounters of the second kind requires a wide range of scientific skills and equipment. Tests for magnetism and radioactivity are routine, as well as spectrographic analysis and acid tests. Where warranted, the sample should be subjected to X-ray diffraction or nuclear disintegration tests to reveal its atomic structure. Mass spectrometer and thermal gravimetric tests are also important. Although they are all expensive and time consuming, they are indispensable in the proper identification of fragments. The United States organizations with access to equipment for fragment analysis are the Center for UFO Studies (CUFOS), Mutual UFO Network (MUFON), Aerial Phenomena Research Organization (APRO) and International UFO Registry (IUFOR). These organizations will provide free analysis of suspected UFO fragments. In addition, OFFICIAL UFO magazine, in conjunction with Brown University and the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory, will analyze fragments sent in by readers at no cost. With this new physical emphasis on UFO encounters, it is hoped that hard evidence for the reality of UFOs will soon be forthcoming!

For purposes of analysis, UFO traces consist of two kinds: chemical and physical. Chemical traces are often detected in the soil of "UFO rings," the peculiar circular patches of burnt soil and dying vegetation often found in cases of UFO landings. There are over 300 such cases on record and some of them have turned up strange crystalline structures, such as the Delphos, Kansas, case which occurred in November 1971. The soil in the Delphos ring wouldn't even absorb ordinary tap water and reportedly glowed in the dark from the strange energy it had taken on. In another UFO ring case near Erie, Pennsylvania, in July 1966, two policemen found a thick fluid on the ground, clear as water, but which wouldn't seep through the sandy soil. Metallic landing pods caused peculiar indentations near San Juan, Argentina, in November 1968. A large burnt ring of vegetation was also found, in which mushrooms grew to enormous sizes!

Other chemical traces have been reported streaming from UFOs in fly-over cases. One of the earliest occurred in Wolokalamsk, Poland, in April 1832, when a strange object or cloud covered a ten-square-mile area with a soft, transparent oil that burned with a smokeless blue flame. Analysis of the substance revealed a strange acid unknown in the annals of chemistry. The formula was: $10CH + 40H$. More common have been cases of so-called "angel's hair" seen falling from UFOs. Raymond E. Fowler, Director of Investigations for MUFON, has made a thorough analysis of angel hair strands collected in October 1973 in Sudbury, Massachusetts. The strands were collected by Mrs. June Margolin, who saw them falling from "a sort of globe, ball-shaped shiny object in the sky."

Investigator Fowler sent a sample of several laboratories, which found the material to be 95% organic and 5% inorganic. The organic material could not be identified and not one of the laboratories could identify the source of the strange strands. A sample of the material was also given to Dr. J. Allen Hynek, who sent it to a leading scientific laboratory for analysis. Hopefully, a complete report on the findings will be available in the near future.

Physical traces are solid, often metallic fragments from UFOs. A number of institutions have such fragments in their possession. The Mexican National Polytechnic Institute has a metal plate with strange writings on it found in a field by two brothers, Payo and Yago Rodriques, after they reportedly saw a UFO land in August 1965. The Brazilian National Railway Metallurgical Laboratory also has a piece of peculiar metal obtained from a UFO encounter which occurred on the banks of the Paraiba River in the Brazilian state of Sao Paulo in August 1965. A laboratory in England still has metal fragments found after a UFO landing near the village of Scoriton Down in April 1965.

Brown University is analyzing some odd-looking metallic slivers found in New Jersey, in conjunction with UFO sightings in that area. The metal is made up of peculiar heart-shaped crystals. The Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory also has some fragments of an object which exploded over a lake in northern California. Initial geological analysis of the yellow metallic fragments showed that the fragments were resistant to every available acid and could not be melted by a normal carbon arc. They had the appearance and density of pure silicon but were electrical conductors. Further tests sponsored by OFFICIAL UFO at a New York metallurgical laboratory revealed the fragments to consist almost exclusively of iron, with some faint traces of vanadium, molybdenum, magnesium and nickel. Nonetheless, the fragments were non-magnetic, crystalline structures composed of less than .0001 percent silicon! OFFICIAL UFO sponsored X-ray diffraction tests at Brown University, which showed the material might be a rare form of crystalline iron pyrite or marcasite. Hopefully, tests at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory will positively identify the fragments as being either from a meteorite or a UFO, or simply pieces of "fool's gold." The only similar case happened in August 1872 in Zurich, Switzerland, when crystals of iron pyrite reportedly fell from the sky.

The best-known case of UFO fragments took place just outside Socorro, New Mexico, on April 24, 1964. Patrolman Lonnie Zamora was chasing a speeding car when he noticed what he thought to be a car in trouble off the road. Giving up his chase, he turned off the paved road to assist the stranded motorist when he noticed it was not a car at all but a mysterious egg-shaped craft. As he approached, the craft suddenly took off and disappeared, but it had left distinct landing pod marks in the rocky soil. Ray Stanford, now Director of Project Starlight International, was one of the first investigators at the scene and he was able to collect a few metal fragments that had scraped on a rock when the UFO landed. Working with NICAP, the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena, the fragments were turned over to a NASA scientist for analysis. The first reports were that the metal could not occur naturally and that it consisted of a zinc-iron alloy which was not known to be manufactured by any nation on earth. But then the NASA scientists suddenly said they were mistaken and the fragments were just silica. And just as inexplicably they stated that they could not return the sample! The whole story is true and makes fascinating reading (Socorro Saucer In A Pentagon Pantry by Ray Stanford, Blueapple Books, P.O. Box 5694, Austin, Texas 78763, $8.95).

The Socorro story underscores the importance of turning supposed UFO fragments over to competent civilian authorities. Someday, what the government doesn't want us to know will catch up with federal officials and the cries of "cosmic Watergate" will topple government secrecy once and for all! ●

Photograph of glowing UFO taken by Ella Louise Fortune near Holloman Air Force Base, White Sands, New Mexico.

Thanks to modern technology it is possible to analyze UFO photographs almost automatically. Indeed, the computer is fast becoming the ufologist's best friend!

■ Over the years I have been fortunate, or shall I say unfortunate, enough to have viewed hundreds of photographs which purport to show UFOs on film. With the exception of a few dozen of such UFO photographs, most have been obvious hoaxes or simply too fuzzy and unclear to show any detail at all.

At the Fourth Annual Ground Saucer Watch (GSW) Conference held in March 1975 in Cleveland, Ohio, this problem was brought up again, and a serious look was taken at what might be done to alleviate it. Apparently the only way to discover true UFO photographs was to analyze all the photographs under scientific conditions. The only tool available to handle such a monumental undertaking seemed to be the computer. In other words, the present computer technology can be coupled to the multiple instances of UFO data and aid in the diagnosis of UFO photographic evidence.

Years ago it was nearly unthinkable that the scientific community would ever seriously investigate the global UFO phenomena. It was thought that the Condon Committee's final conclusion that UFOs were "not worthy of scientific study" put a wet blanket on the phenomena as far as serious minds were concerned. However, recent developments within government circles and the phenomena itself have changed the minds of many of the previously closed minds of science. Thus a closer look at UFOs is called for and modern technology can help. The most useful tool in this new scientific thrust is the modern digital computer.

How are computers used to evaluate UFO photographs? In general, computers are used to improve data that could not have been seen in the original photos and to extract information from the photos using mathematical analysis. There are three general steps involved in this analysis, and perhaps the process can best be understood by examining each of these steps in relation to specific photographs.

Edge enhancement is accomplished

The Computer Tackles UFO Photographs

by suppressing all large bright and dark areas on the picture to a single shade of background gray and accentuating the change-over areas or lines. In this fashion, fine lines representing delicate structures are magnified and made very distinct for visual analysis. The same technique has the ability to evaluate areas of any photograph or transparency that has areas both over or under exposed. Hard data exists within these areas of light and dark densities, but the human eye cannot perceive detail in certain portions of photographs that lack proper density.

We subjected our two photographs to the edge enhancement process. In the case of the Trent photograph, our efforts added significantly to the details of the original. Because of new details on the edges and conical shaped dome, it is now practical to measure the object's aspect ratio and the height of the protuberances without concern about fuzzy edges and general unsharp features (see figure 1).

With the Fortune photograph, our efforts do absolutely nothing to add credence to the photograph! The insipid object, upon close interpretation, violates standard principles of geometry. Inspection of the object's edges shows a definite deformity and suggests a high-density cloud. This type of natural phenomena is common to the southwest and is called a lenticular cloud. To substantiate that this is indeed a lenticular cloud and not a UFO, further analysis is required.

In order to help the analysis, the enhanced display can be adjusted for different degrees of enhancement; that is, from normal photograph to a fully enhanced one for optimal analysis. The width of the enhanced lines is also adjustable from fine to very coarse for maximum visibility of fine details.

The next step in computer study of UFO photographs is called "color enhancement," which offers the greatest amount of analytical data. Such things as object density, exact shape, relation of true size to distant objects and reflectivity of object can all be learned from color enhancement.

With the help of color enhancement, the photographic density of the photo is electronically analyzed. In the case of the Trent photo, the measurements clearly show that the object is solid with a uniform distribution of color. This indicates a similar density across the entire bottom of the disc!

On the other hand, the Fortune photograph showed multiple color bands, which indicates a gaseous consistency of varying densities. The coloring technique transforms a bland, nondetailed photograph into a colorful, information-packed one. Colors are classified into 32 types plus black and white. Areas shown as white and shades of blue and green represent respectively lighter film densities than areas shown as yellow, violet and red. The thickness of an image is constant within all areas that are the same color.

By color enhancing an image, its apparent shape can also be identified. For instance, a cloud would have a broken, uneven density; an aircraft body would have a cylindrical shape with protrusions from wings causing a variable density display; a weather balloon would have a density very different from a solid or metallic object. A hoax photograph, which usually consists of such mundane objects as frisbees, camera lens caps, pie plates, etc., would be of low reflectivity, and its obvious shape could be resolved when color enhancement and magnification techniques were combined.

A "profiling cursor" denoted by the vertical white lines through our test pictures reveal the objects' real shape: flat, round, disc, elliptical, etc. With reference to figures 3 and 4, note the profile cursor and its resultant in each picture. In figure 3 the 90-degree profile of the image reveals a true disc shape, however the profile of the object in figure 4 is flat, thus substantiating the hypothesis that the UFO is a lenticular cloud.

The last computer test for our pictures is the digitizing of the image, or "image enhancement." This is

BUILD THE OFFICIAL UFO MODEL BJ UFO DETECTOR

By James A. Gupton Jr.

Designed exclusively for readers of OFFICIAL UFO, this sophisticated, highly sensitive UFO detector can be built in just a few evenings' spare time! So go to work—think what you might be missing!

■ A characteristic phenomenon has been observed to take place at the time of UFO sightings: a magnetic compass will spin, gyrate and indicate earth's magnetic North at points other than North! This seems to suggest that the earth's magnetic field is somehow affected when a UFO is present, and it is hypothesized that if the UFO employs some form of magnetic drive or even anti-gravity field, this would account for the magnetic compasses going hay-wire. Whatever the cause, we do know that these fields can be detected by a suitable electronic instrument. An ideal UFO detector must have the sensitivity to detect weak changes in the prevailing magnetic fields and be adjustable to tune-out stray fields from power lines or strong radio signals. It must be economical to construct and simple enough for the novice to assemble.

WHAT THE MODEL BJ UFO DETECTOR IS

The basic electronic circuit of the OFFICIAL UFO Model BJ UFO Detector is a modified fluxgate magnetometer. It is patterned after a commercial model that sells for $500. Yet the Model BJ UFO Detector can be constructed for less than $30 because it has been designed to use the low-cost electronic components available from any Radio Shack® store in more than 4000 locations in the 50 states.

The Model BJ UFO Detector consists of a detector probe and the electronic circuits necessary to amplify the detected magnetic variations. On the original detector, a microampere meter is employed to adjust the unit's sensitivity, and as an indicating detector. No alarm circuit was used. The original detector has a custom-built case. It is most unlikely that readers of OFFICIAL UFO magazine would go to this degree of metal working when Radio Shack® has several types of metal or plastic cabinets or aluminum boxes at very low costs. The only requirement for the case is to have sufficient interior space to house the printed circuit board, the associated controls and the two nine-volt batteries.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE DETECTOR PROBE

The Model BJ UFO Detector probe contains two high-density windings around a special soft iron wire core and encased in plastic to protect the windings. The original probe core was made by cutting the core wire into four-inch lengths until the diameter of the core was three-eighths of an inch. The ends were temporarily taped together in order to insert the core into a variable speed hand drill to wind the coils. The end of the magnet wire is taped to the hand drill's chuck and several "starting" turns handwound around the core. The drill is then turned on a very low speed and the wire is handguided to form an even and smooth-winding three and a half inches long. At this point, a piece of paper is applied to the winding as a separator and a means to prevent the winding from coming loose. If your drill has a direction reversing switch, the second winding can be started to wind back to the start. If not, run the magnet wire in a straight line back to the chuck end of the coil. Handwind several "starting windings" and again run the coil in even and smooth windings.

After winding the two "primary" windings, the windings are again covered with paper and a single "secondary" winding is applied in the same manner as the first two windings. Both "primary" magnet wire ends and the two "secondary" wire ends are identified and pulled back toward the chuck end of the coils. The core is released from the chuck and the entire assembly is inserted into a plastic sheet tube about five inches long, with an inside diameter of one inch. This serves as the mold to cast the probe in clear plastic. A discarded bottle cap serves as the bottom of the plastic tube, and the probe core is centered inside the tube by bending the magnet wire leads over the top of the tube. Clear Cast casting plastic is then mixed with its catalyst and poured into the tube. When the plastic has solidified, the mold is unwound to release the encapsulated detector probe. The original model probe was drilled and tapped for 4-40 screws to serve as a binding post for the four magnet wires. However, number 18 copper wire, formed like a small fish hook, can be inserted into the plastic while it is still soft. This will provide solder post for the magnet wire and connecting wires to the control case and the printed circuit board.

THE PRINTED CIRCUIT BOARD

The printed circuit board simplifies the placement of components and automatically completes the circuit since the wiring is performed by the printed circuit. For those who have never tried to make their own PC boards, Radio Shack® Catalog No. 276-1576 provides you with everything necessary to make several PC boards. This includes the "press-on" tape pads and lines, or you can use a resist pen to draw the circuit. Everything to etch the circuit board, and even a drill for the proper holes into the pads, is included. You even use the top of the box the material comes in to hold the etchant to etch the PC board.

It is suggested that the PC layout be copied full-size. This will require a copper clad PC board three inches by four and a half inches. Tape the full-size circuit to the PC board and use a small punch to indent the copper at the center of each circular pad. With each hole so marked, the press-on pads can be placed over the hole location and tapes, then applied to connect the proper circuits. Remember, there are three jumper wires required to connect battery circuits (minus and plus) where they cross over on the PC board.

Once the PC board has been completed, the components are positioned according to the component side drawing. Use caution in making the transformer connections, because in some cases the centertap connections do not connect the center pad as one would expect. The centertap connections are relocated for circuit convenience, and the electronic schematic should be followed to assure proper transformer connections.

THE CHASSIS OR CASE CONSTRUCTION

The chassis or case will serve as a mounting point for the power switch, the test switch and potentiometers R-3 and R-10. In addition, the 0-100 micro-ampere meter will be mounted on the case. In the drawing of the original Model BJ UFO Detector case, you will note the positions of the components to be installed on the top side of the case. The original detector used an edge mount Simpson panel meter, which not only mounts differently from the Radio Shack meter, it has less meter face exposed on the panel. It is recommended that the first item to be positioned should be the meter of your selection. The remaining components would then be positioned according to the remaining panel space. The only caution is to be sure the power switch and test switch are not too close to the panel edge and thus block the insertion of the PC board.

Wire the switches and potentiometers with eight-inch sections of num-

On September 1, 1957, an airman on Chitose AFB in Japan took this picture of a light absorbing object. It occurred two months before the Air Force said the UFO flap was underway.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE 1957 UFO FLAP

By Kevin Randle

On August 20, 1957, hundreds of Kansans saw this unidentified object hover in the air and change shape from round to tear-shaped.

In December 1957, a sailor on board the Almirant Saldanha, a Brazilian research vessel, took this picture of a UFO. A few weeks later, four more pictures were taken of the same object!

One of the biggest waves of UFO sightings, or UFO flaps, occurred in 1957. Now, 20 years later, one thing seems sure — the Air Force was telling only half the story!

■ Late in 1957, the UFO picture changed dramatically and radically. Witnesses not only saw strange lights and weird machines, but they watched UFOs land, causing car engines to fail, radios to fade and even power losses in a few cities. Now, instead of reporting a point of light that could have been anything, the witnesses could report a solid object with observed side effects. It moved the UFO from the realm of the imagined to the realm of the measured.

The many sightings of November 1957 were foreshadowed by a mysterious object seen in Indiana. On October 15, 1957, Robert Moudy was in his fields near Foster, Indiana, when he saw a large flat oval shoot overhead. As the screaming ball passed, Moudy claimed the engine of his combine died. When the UFO disappeared, the engine sputtered back to life. Like most of the sightings, the Air Force ignored the case, even though it was widely reported.

The following day, October 16, the first of many sightings was made near Holloman Air Force Base, White Sands, New Mexico. Ella Louise Fortune was traveling near Holloman when she saw a large, white cigar-shaped object. Like dozens of others, she took a picture, but like only a few, she used color film.

On November second, Russia announced that they had launched another sputnik. In Levelland, Texas, the news was overshadowed by reports of a large red UFO. Pedro Saucido was the first to see it. He was driving toward Levelland when the glowing UFO swept across the highway in front of his truck. As it landed, the lights of the truck went out and the engine died. Saucido dived out the door and rolled out of the way. The passenger, Joe Salaz, sat terror-stricken, his eyes glued to the UFO. The blue-green glow faded into a red so bright that Salaz could no longer look directly at it. During the three minutes the UFO sat on the highway, both men thought they heard noises coming from inside it. Suddenly, the torpedo-shaped object, still glowing red, shot silently into the night sky.

Saucido was afraid to continue to Levelland because he thought that he might run into the object again. Instead, he drove to another west Texas town and called the police in Levelland. A deputy listened to the report but laughed it off as "another flying saucer" story. The obvious distress of Saucido was overlooked.

About an hour later, Jim Wheeler saw a red glowing UFO sitting on the road. As he neared, his car engine died and the lights went out. The egg-shaped object then blasted off swiftly and silently. Wheeler's car started again, and he called the Levelland police.

They had just finished talking to Wheeler when Jose Alvarez called to report that he had seen an egg-shaped object that killed his car engine. A few minutes later, Frank Williams walked into the sheriff's office to report the red UFO.

The sheriff had now received several calls about the UFO. All had reported that a red object, almost 200 feet long had killed their car engines. The deputies were discussing the possibilities that someone was playing an elaborate joke on them when shortly after midnight they became convinced that something strange was happening.

As the discussion progressed, they received still another call. James Long said that he was driving on a county road northwest of Levelland when he came upon a landed, bright red UFO. His truck engine died, and the lights went out. He got out and started toward the UFO, but it took off before he got more than a few feet from the truck. After the UFO was gone, the truck started easily.

Levelland Sheriff Weir Clem did not welcome the idea of chasing lights in the sky, and like his deputies, he ignored the first reports. Thunderstorms were causing all the problems that he needed. But all the phone calls and separate witnesses were making the sightings very hard to ignore.

About 12:30 a.m., Ronald Martin, a college student, was nearing Levelland. He glanced at the dashboard ammeter, saw it jump to discharge then back as the engine died and the lights went out. He got out of the car to look under the hood but found nothing wrong. As he turned, he saw the red UFO on the road. Unsure of what to do and afraid of what the UFO might do, Martin got into the car and tried to start it. After a few minutes, the UFO rose silently out of sight, and when it was gone, the car started.

Finally, after midnight and Ronald Martin's call, Clem decided to investigate. He left the office with Deputy Patrick McCullough, and about 1:30 a.m. they saw the glowing UFO streak past in the distance. About the same time, two highway patrol officers and Constable Lloyd Bollen saw the UFO. In all, five police officers saw the object but none were very close to it.

At Project Bluebook in Dayton, Ohio, the teletype started shortly after the sheriff saw the light. He called Reese Air Force Base in nearby Lubbock, Texas and they relayed the sightings to Bluebook. A copy of the weather report was included. Officers sitting in warm offices at ATIC (Air Technical Intelligence Center) found their answers almost immediately. Thunderstorms were reported in the area, so all the witnesses must have seen ball lightning. They had been excited at the time of the sightings, and it was wet out, so they all probably had killed the engines in their excitement. Not long after they'd received the initial sighting reports, the Air Force had the answers. Now all they had to do was investigate to prove they were right.

Maneuvering objects photographed on the night of May 3, 1957 at Forcalquier Observatory in France.

There were repercussions in the Defense Department over this UFO photographed over Edwards AFB in the Mojave Desert in September 1957.

This photo was made in August 1956 by J.G. Kirby of Dallas, Texas. The oval object can be seen at the right side of the picture, which shows the time lapse effect of its brilliant travel through the sky. The object's altitude was estimated to be 15,000 feet.

There was a complication. About two hours after the rash of Levelland sightings, two men on patrol at White Sands reported that they saw a bright egg-shaped object. It fell for a distance, the light went out and they lost sight of it. Just before it hit the ground, or landed, the light came back on. Of course, they reported what they had seen, but no one seemed to care or believe them.

At least there were no believers until 8 p.m. the following night. Then a second patrol reported the same thing. The second patrol had no way of knowing of the first report. No stalled engines or dimming lights were reported by either patrol.

The White Sands sightings, following so closely behind the Levelland reports, were dangerous to Air Force explanations. The men on patrol at White Sands were supposed to be reliable, and their sightings could prove troublesome. The Air Force wasted no time. The patrols were manned by young, impressionable men, and they had been talking of UFOs. Air Force investigators decided that sightings had been suggested in the discussions, and what they had really seen was the Moon. These sightings were a direct result of the reports coming from Levelland.

On November 6, 1957, Edwin Leadford took this photo in California. Air Force investigators worked hard to discredit the sighting.

Radio Officer T. Fogel photographed this UFO from the bridge of the British steamship S.S. Ramsey off San Pedro, California in December 1957.

On November 4, 1957, James Stokes was driving toward El Paso, Texas, when near Orogrande, New Mexico, the engine of his car began to sputter and the radio faded out. As the engine quit, Stokes guided his car to the side of the road. Ahead, he could see a group of people talking and pointing to the sky. Looking up, he saw a large, oval-shaped object shooting toward the road. It buzzed the highway, turned to the northwest and then reversed for another pass at the cars before disappearing.

As the object passed over the cars, Stokes could feel its heat. He saw no portholes and thought that it was 3000 feet above the ground. The speed was estimated at 760 miles an hour. Hours after he saw the UFO, Stokes noticed an itching on his face, hands and wrists. The areas that had been exposed to the UFO reddened as if they had been sunburned.

One of the men in the group had a camera and took several pictures of the UFO. Later investigations by the Air Force failed to find either the pictures or any of the other witnesses. Considering the Air Force handling of the wave, that is not too surprising.

On November fifth, Stokes made an official report to the Air Force about the sighting. He provided a list of the other witnesses, including the name of the man who took the pictures. Newsmen from all over the country were calling and trying to interview him. He was called from his post at Holloman Air Force Base to talk to the curious. Stokes was obviously agitated by the ordeal, both seeing the UFO and the interviewing that followed.

The same day, a Washington news release explained the Levelland sightings as exaggerations and misinterpretations of natural phenomena. At Holloman, however, the Air Force spokesman said that Stokes was an employee of the Air Force Missile Air Force officers claim that the November 1957 wave was the result of the Levelland sightings. This chart shows that the wave began in August, hit a minor peak in late September, fell briefly and then grew into November. It shows that Levelland did not trigger the wave but only highlighted it.

Development Center, had been in the Navy for 24 years and was believed to be very reliable. In other words, the Air Force was accepting the story as Stokes reported it.

While Stokes, the people at Levelland, the patrols at White Sands and the Air Force were fighting it out, R.O. Schmidt walked into the Kearney, Nebraska, police station. He claimed that while he was inspecting grain he found what he at first thought was a wrecked balloon. When he was 30 feet away he was stopped by a beam of light that paralyzed him.

Two men from the UFO—Schmidt now knew that it wasn't a balloon—searched him for weapons and then invited him on board. Inside, he saw two women and three men working on instrumentation. He was told that no one meant him any harm. They wouldn't tell him where they were from but did say that they might announce their presence to the world in the near future. When Schmidt left, there was a flash of light and the UFO was gone.

Police searched the area but could find no imprints, depressions or any burned vegetation. They did find a greenish, oil-like substance that they took to Kearney College for analysis. No one bothered to find out what it was, however.

Schmidt's story was the beginning of a rash of occupant reports. Although none of the witnesses could have known of Schmidt's sighting, because it wasn't carried in the morning papers, several of them were remarkably similar. Schmidt saw his UFO in the early evening and early the next morning, November sixth, Everett Clark saw a landed UFO. In a field near his home in Dante, Tennessee, with four men and women. Clark talked to them briefly before they got into the UFO. It shot quietly into the sky.

Neighbors and friends described Clark as intelligent and honest. They didn't think he made up the story. In the field they found that the grass had been depressed as if something very heavy had rested there. The Air Force didn't care to investigate. Weeks later, Clark said that he had never heard of Schmidt.

About an hour after Clark saw the landed UFO, several cars were stalled by another UFO near Santa Monica, California. Richard Kehoe was driving to work when the engine of his car died. Kehoe noticed that there were two other cars stalled, and when he got out, he could see a brightly lit object on the beach.

Kehoe and the men from the other cars, Ronald Burke and Joe Thomas, were talking when two humanoids got out of the egg-shaped UFO and walked toward them. The creatures were yellowish green in color and tried to talk to the terrified men for several minutes. No one could understand them, and finally the creatures left. The UFO took off and all three men left the scene.

One of the men called the police, but no one seemed interested in another UFO report. The sun wasn't even up yet, and already it had been the busiest day of the wave. Air Force files would show that nearly 100 people reported UFOs on the sixth of November.

When Clark first saw the UFO occupants, they had been trying to grab a dog, apparently to take into the UFO. John Trasco of Everittstown, New Jersey, claimed that he saw a brilliant egg-shaped object hovering over his barn. Underneath he saw a small, putty colored humanoid trying to grab his dog. Trasco yelled at the creature, and it said that it only wanted the dog. Trasco told it to get the hell out and leave his dog alone. The creature dropped the animal and ran for the UFO. It took off straight up.

Edwin Leadford, on November sixth, claimed that he took a picture of a cigar-shaped craft over Anaheim, California. Official Air Force records show that Leadford was involved with the police in a series of complaints

THE HUMAN- OIDS: KEY TO THE PUZZLE

By Rick Barr

From the countless variety of creatures, entities and humanoid figures reported in many UFO encounters, there appears to be a pattern emerging—a truly alien form which we call the "terrenaut," visitor to Earth from the stars!

■ On April 24, 1976, the following letter from "A Baffled and Embarrassed Islander" appeared in the Isle of Wight County Press (Newport, England):

Reading your paper recently I noticed the two articles about UFOs—especially noting the piece that implies that anyone who sees a saucerman ought to speak up in an attempt to convert the skeptical County Press.

In the hope that my writing in might encourage a few more embarrassed saucer-spotters to make open confessions, I hereby respond. On the evening of October 20, 1970, on the way from Bradings to St. Helens, I saw a complete circle of crystal-clear red lights which were hovering and dipping over Culver Downs.

Whatever this was (and it was no aeroplane or helicopter) dimmed most of its lights and followed me along for several miles. At one time I thought it intended to land.

This is not the oddest thing, by far. During an afternoon in May, 1973, my daughter—who was seven years old at the time—was attracted by a strange wailing noise, which led her and her friend towards a patch of marshland near the unused Sandown airport. They encountered a weird creature who stood nearly 7 feet tall.

A metallic hut stood nearby. He spoke to them through a microphone that amplified the sound so that, however far away they were, the voice seemed right next to them.

Careful questioning of my daughter brought out more facts. The creature had no clearly-defined neck, his head being wedged straight onto his shoulders.

He wore a yellow pointed hat with antennae attached. The hat interlocked with the red collar of his green tunic. His face was paper white and featureless, except for triangular markings for eyes. He had flat nostrils and motionless yellow lips.

He talked to them for some time, first by writing on a pad and then by talking—the voice coming from deep within his odd throat. He was friendly and expressed a fear of people.

The thing that really convinced my daughter that this "ghost" was something unusual was that it had only three fingers on its blue-gloved hands and only three toes on its bare feet.

I don't expect many people to believe these strange facts. No doubt the County Press will still be unconvinced on the subject of weirdies from other worlds and their gadgets; the point being that nobody can really be convinced until they see the inexplicable for themselves.

But my daughter still insists that it was a true occurrence. So what was it?

What was it, indeed?

June 24, 1977, will mark the 30th anniversary of the modern era of ufology and, despite the best efforts of the skeptics and debunkers, tales of unconventional aerial objects continue to be reported daily around the world. The Isle of Wight incident related above is typical of the most unbelievable aspect of the complex UFO phenomenon: the humanoid sightings. During the early years of ufology, reports of strange beings in association with UFOs were rejected out-of-hand by the Air Force and most civilian investigators

THE TRAVIS-WALTON Controversy

By James E. Oberg

PART 2:

Jim Lorenzen

Jim Lorenzen, the International Director of the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization (APRO), was one of the primary investigators of the Travis Walton abduction case and in this, the concluding segment of the Travis Walton Controversy, he answers some of the charges brought up by Philip Klass in Part 1.

OBERG: After more than a year of investigation, and the dramatic revelations of the Klass report, what is APRO's current position on the Travis Walton case?

LORENZEN: Our opinion hasn't changed since the beginning. I, of course, did have some reservations when I learned, for example, of Travis's criminal record, but I checked into that thoroughly and am convinced that it was an isolated incident. And, of course, there's nothing that says a person who commits a crime can't see a UFO. I think the strength of the case really rests on Travis Walton himself. He is a person who is a very careful observer. He is very careful about facts. The psychological testing we have done has told us that. It's something you can observe too if you spend some time with him. He is a person with an extra amount of intelligence. He has an IQ of 140, and a curiosity about nearly everything.

OBERG: So he has a criminal record?

LORENZEN: Theoretically he does

This illustration was done by one of the actual eyewitnesses to the first contact with the UFO. Michael Rogers along with five co-workers saw Travis Walton struck by a greenish-blue beam of light that lifted him off the ground and knocked him down.

not, although he has committed a crime, admitted it himself, and has been sentenced for it. But according to Arizona law his criminal records no longer exist. If they do exist, they exist in contempt of court, because the court ordered them destroyed. The clerk who revealed the information to Phil Klass was in contempt of court.

OBERG: Was Klass in contempt of court for revealing this information?

LORENZEN: I think not. But the information was a violation of court orders.

OBERG: Was the conviction for theft and forgery of payroll checks a serious happenstance?

LORENZEN: It was part of his "wild teenage phase," as he calls it, when he fell into bad company. The whole effect was to shock him into the realization that he could get into trouble by behaving in that manner. Nobody has come up with any evidence that he hasn't gone straight ever since. We've had all these deputies, under-sheriffs and sheriffs willing to spread all kinds of dirt about Travis, and none of them have found anything else so far.

OBERG: In investigating eyewitness reports, one must always ask if the witness was a "UFO buff." Did Travis show any strong interest in UFOs prior to the event?

LORENZEN: Not really. In response to repeated and persistent questioning from McCarthy, Travis admitted he had speculated about making contact with UFO beings, but never about riding on one. He had never read a book about UFOs, nor picked up any UFO magazines, nor did he know that there were UFO research organizations. He had never heard of J. Allen Hynek.

OBERG: While Travis was missing, his brother talked about how they had discussed riding UFOs many times, promising to try to get on board and get the ufonauts to come back for the other brother. How does this square with your last assertion?

LORENZEN: Well, Duane was exaggerating. He talked big like that to encourage his mother to believe that Travis would be all right. Travis does not remember ever talking with Duane about getting on board a UFO.

OBERG: If that is so, why did Travis allegedly leap from the wood cutters' pickup truck and run over to the UFO, while all of his associates were petrified with fright? Doesn't that speak for a pre-thought plan to deliberately try to get picked up, just as Duane claimed a few days later?

Jim Lorenzen, International Director of the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization (APRO).

LORENZEN: No, not at all. It was entirely natural for him. Our testing showed he is a person with a very lively curiosity. He did think UFOs were real and this seemed to him to be an excellent chance to get a real close look.

OBERG: Wasn't he worried about being hurt or abducted?

LORENZEN: No, because he didn't know there were such things as abduction cases. His experience was an absolute shock to him. He did not know that such things had been reported before. He had not known about the Pascagoula case, for example.

OBERG: Skeptics make much of the coincidence that an NBC movie based on the Betty Hill case had been telecast only two weeks before the Travis incident. Did Travis see that show and get any ideas?

LORENZEN: Definitely not. He had seen some TV publicity ads before the showing, and knew vaguely that there may have been an abduction, that there was time missing, but he only realized it all after his own experience. There were people who thought he might have seen the show, and it was reported in the press that he probably had. He has always said that he hadn't. There's no change in that at all.

OBERG: The Klass report claims that Travis discussed his plans to try to get on board a UFO with McCarthy before the first polygraph test.

LORENZEN: He had made the remark that if he had the chance he would like to contact aliens, yes, but he never said he wanted to "ride on a flying saucer"; as he told McCarthy, "You don't accept rides from strangers." McCarthy actually lied about this to the public.

OBERG: I beg your pardon?

LORENZEN: Well, I think he remembered it wrong. I don't think he intentionally lied. But he tried to make a big thing out of it.

OBERG: Didn't he also discuss his drug experiences with McCarthy?

LORENZEN: Yes, he did, and he didn't have to, so this is a point in his favor. Later we checked up on this thoroughly with friends, classmates, and even people not so friendly, and none of them knew he had once experimented with drugs. That had been two years before the incident.

OBERG: What did he experiment with?

LORENZEN: The only evidence we have that he had ever been involved with drugs was his own admission that he had tried pot, and hadn't liked it; had tried uppers, and hadn't liked them; and had tried alcohol (beer), and hadn't liked that either. On one occasion an acquaintance told Travis he had put LSD into his 7-Up, but Travis didn't notice anything and doesn't know whether to believe the guy or not. (Continued on page 52)

UFOs AND THE REALITY GAME

By Brad Steiger

■ In Mysteries of Time and Space, I suggested that some undeclared parapsychical opponents have engaged our species in what I call the Reality Game. When we have apprehended the true significance of this contest, we will attain such control of our life and our abilities that we will confront all aspects of existence with the same ease and freedom with which we would enter a game. I believe that this is a glorious way to approach life, truly reflective of mankind's noble, star-seeded heritage.

My first published works in the paranormal and UFO research field appeared in 1956. Gods of Aquarius: UFOs and the Transformation of Man (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, 1976)

Are extradimensional beings with highly advanced awareness and technology trying to shock the human consciousness out of its present "world picture" and into a more cosmic self-image that is essential for the survival of our species? That is the fascinating theme of this article.

presents both my current theories and the hypotheses of others as to what the UFO phenomenon is really all about, what its central purpose actually is, and how UFO intelligence may be helping us learn to win at the Reality Game.

I have come to the conclusion that some external intelligence has interacted with mankind throughout history in an effort to learn more about us—or in an effort to communicate certain basic truths and concepts to our species.

I am also convinced that there is a subtle kind of symbiotic relationship which exists between mankind and the UFO intelligences. I think that in some way, which we have yet to determine, they need us as much as we need them.

It is quite possible that either one or both of our species might once have had an extraterrestrial origin, but the

If Bill is curious as to why these phenomena are occurring, my own theory can be found in "The One Human Problem, Its Solution, and Its Relation to UFO phenomena," (Pursuit, Journal of the Society for the Investigation of the Unexplained, January 1976, pp. 19-23). Or simply check the last ten pages or so of Brad Steiger's Gods of Aquarius (1976, pp. 250-260).

At any rate, I would hope that Bill might find this material of interest. The study of the UFO phenomena can, I firmly believe, be placed on a rigorous scientific basis; however, a new paradigm is specifically required. And any physics laws that derive from the necessity to explain new phenomena must contain a correspondence principle: it must approach conventional physics in the limit, just as Einsteinian physics reduces to Newtonian physics at ordinary velocities. The new paradigm I have speculatively advanced does just that, and it strongly supports Bill's viewpoint.

Dear OFFICIAL UFO:

It constantly amazes me that people continue to perpetrate the idea of a cover-up within the field of ufology. I refer to Robert Barry's letter, re: the CUFOS conference held last spring. The meeting was not secret (as others have also proposed), but was by invitation. The purpose was for scientific study, and not a bull session for UFO "buffs." True, heads of major UFO organizations were not present; but members of those organizations who had research papers to present were there. And the conference was not "exclusive"—I was allowed to more or less invite myself, because Dr. Hynek was aware of my recent venture into UFO research. Investigating cases and reporting on them is not all there is to ufology. The data must be examined from several points of view. It does not fit into just physical traces or sociological effects. Not everyone can be aware of what is happening outside of his particular field; and, further, other studies may enhance or otherwise modify one's research. The CUFOS conference served to inform those in both the natural and social sciences.

I am aware that Don Worley has planned an article for you on the conference, so I will say, just add that the proceedings of the conference are available from CUFOS at 924 Chicago Avenue, Evanston, Illinois 60202 at a cost of fifteen dollars. This may seem a bit steep to some, but it covers the cost of printing and postage. The many papers should be considered a must for any serious investigator. Tom Gates had some excellent ideas for public education; Ben Jamison proposed a study much like the one I have just completed on the "psychic connection"; Fred Merritt presented an analysis of "pod marks"; Dave Saunders and Irv Anderson presented statistical analyses of flaps and the possibility of predicting the time and place of the next one; Leo Sprinkle talked about the use of hypnosis in investigation; we heard about UFO/anthropoid cases from Don Worley and humoids from Dave Webb. Claude Poher and Jean Petit gave us the background and some dynamics on the development of the French "aerodyne"—it looks like and acts like a "flying saucer." There are at least thirty-two papers in the package—less than a dollar apiece!

My final thought is that until (and probably unless) the UFO groups pool their resources, we will not solve the mystery of the phenomenon. I could point out the many fallacies in Dick Ruhl's recent guest editorial; his analogy was false, but then that is another letter.

My best wishes to Bernard O'Connor in his new job. He did well as editor of OFFICIAL UFO. My good wishes (and sympathies) to you as the new editor. I hope you will keep your readers informed of what is going on in the scientific as well as popular side of ufology.

Sincerely,
Joan L. Jeffers
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Dear Editor:

I read the article in your December issue of OFFICIAL UFO titled "Anti-Gravity: The Secret of the Flying Saucer" by T.B. Pawlicki, and I found it quite interesting, mainly because I have done some experimentation in the field of gyro forces myself. In fact, I constructed a model, not unlike the one illustrated in the article by Professor Laithwaite. My model did produce a forward thrust; however, my utilization of gyro forces was directed toward using the mass of the gyros to in fact drive the device. The operation is as follows. The gyros are started, establishing for themselves a dynamic axis. By Newton's laws a mass in motion tends to stay in motion. If then the axis of the gyros is moved, their center of established axis changes and the gyros attempt to stabilize themselves. In doing so the gyro moves, carrying its mass with it. Kinetic energy is stored in the movement of the gyros. When the gyros are abruptly stopped, the kinetic energy is transferred through the mass of the device (gyros), thereby producing a forward thrust. The unique factor of a mass drive such as this is that the forward thrust is greater than the reactive thrust, thereby giving forward motion.

The Vortex Drive Module, as described in the text, is, in my estimation, of no value when it comes to driving anything. A nuclear accelerator weighs tons and requires millions of volts of energy to accelerate a particle that wouldn't have the gyroscopic mass great enough to move a hydrogen atom.

My theory on the propulsion unit in a UFO is (and I am sure it will be found to work) ion propulsion. By using high voltage the air on the bottom of the craft is ionized to a given polarity and condensed or compacted against the bottom of the hull. Changing polarity at a high frequency will result in a thrust against the polarized air atoms (ions), giving the hull something to push against not unlike a jet mechanism. The higher the voltage, the greater the volume of compacted air; and the greater the thrust, the higher the frequency of the thrust.

The glowing and humming would be by-products of this type of drive. Also, great volumes of ionized air would be poured away from the craft, giving an ozone smell to the area and a feeling of static electricity in the air. The craft would have to be super light, its skin thin enough to see through. Obviously, it could operate in the earth's atmosphere.

None of the drives mentioned are anti-gravity devices. To invent an anti-gravity device would require the direct alteration of the atomic makeup of mass, since one single atom is affected by gravity. Thus, since gravity is a function of each and every single atom, the secret of anti-gravity is within the structure of the atom, not mass as a unit.

It seems that Newton's Third Law of Motion might have a crack in it, in the same way that Einstein's relativity

ON THE TRACK OF A CRASHED UFO: THE TUNGUS RIDDLE

By Walter Zabawski

"Today, a Soviet scientist who has studied the Tungus explosion for 17 years, concluded it was caused by the crash of a nuclear-powered spacecraft from another planet." Thus did Walter Cronkite report this case to the American public on the CBS Evening News. Now, for the first time, here is the full story of the crashed Tungus UFO!

PART 2 WILL APPEAR IN THE MAY 1977 ISSUE

Part 1

This photograph was taken 21 years after the mysterious Tungus explosion occurred. A 1250-square-mile area was devastated!

Another view of the sight as it appears today. The blast has been estimated at 1500 times greater than the Hiroshima bomb!

■ The weather looked promising that morning—blue sky over the vast expanses of the forest, crisp dry air, serene, almost motionless. And suddenly...

The air shook to what sounded like an artillery barrage, and hundreds of people (peasants, hunters, fishermen) gazed in amazement and fear at another cosmic body (object) brighter than the sun itself, a sphere of fire that hurtled across the sky.

A few seconds later, people at the Vanavara trading post saw on the horizon a dazzling fountain of light that spread out in a mushroom-shaped cloud. Then came a sound like thunder, heard even in Kansk, some 600 miles from Vanavara. A train passing through there rumbled to a halt, for the engineer thought there had been an explosion on board.

Then a hurricane swept over the forest, felling trees, ripping off roofs and smashing windows. The air shock wave circled the globe twice and was registered even in London. Huge waves on the Angara and other rivers rolled ominously, breaking up large rafts. Seismological stations in the far East, Europe and elsewhere registered earth tremors.

All of this happened more than 68 years ago—on the morning (7:00 a.m.) of June 30, 1908.

Then, for several days, the whole world marvelled at the strange dawns and the unusually bright nights: In Paris one could read newspapers in the streets on a moonless night, and in Moscow pictures were taken at midnight. However, the excitement soon died down and people began to forget the strange incident.

As years went by, facts were more and more thickly interlaced with legends, while somewhere in the heart of the great Siberian taiga (forest), thousands of square miles of wreckage were gradually overgrown with bush and grass.

It was in March of 1921 that Leonid Kulik of the Mineralogical Museum in Leningrad came across a leaf of an old tear-off calendar with a brief note about a mysterious explosion by the Tunguska River some 13 years before, and he realized that what he had read about was of great scientific interest.

At a time of famine and economic chaos, when the Civil War (Soviet) was still going on, the Soviet Government nevertheless provided some money for a scientific expedition, the first of its kind in the history of new Russia.

Neither Kulik nor his companions suspected the difficulties which would lie in their way. Even to locate the site of the explosion was not easy; the local people feared the place where the God Ogdy had descended from the sky and, with his invisible fire, burned all who so much as dared to come near.

Braving numerous hardships, the little party moved on along tracks made by wild beasts; they had heavy packs on their backs containing food, tents, blankets and drilling equipment to break through the frozen tundra. And later, when his companions, exhausted by illness and hard work, returned to Vanavara, Leonid Kulik stayed on.

Over the next few years he persisted in his search whenever he could. Finally, in the bitterly cold February of 1927, having covered thousands of miles on foot, Kulik stood on the top of Mt. Shakhorma looking down on a fantastic scene.

To the north there was an abrupt break in the virgin forest surrounding the mountain. And as far as the horizon, the trees had been felled as though by a sweep of one gigantic axe. Huge pines, fir trees, larches, broken and uprooted, lay pointing southwest. But as his guide, seized with superstitious awe, refused to go any further, Leonid Kulik had no choice but to return to Vanavara for the time being. But he would try again.

In the spring of 1928, hacking through almost impenetrable obstacles, Kulik, this time with a group of explorers, arrived at a depression surrounded by uprooted trees. The roots all faced towards one central point, and Kulik realized that they had at last found the epicenter of the explosion.

They returned to this place again and again. They measured the extent of the destruction. It was almost beyond belief: trees had been uprooted over an area of about 6,000 square miles.

The very first reports sent in by Kulik brought worldwide attention to the Tungus phenomenon.

Kulik believed that the devastation had been caused by the fall of a giant meteorite. In those days his hypothesis appeared to be sound. However, it contained flaws: neither the debris of the meteorite nor a crater marking the point of impact could be found. Where were they?

The search brought almost no results. Tons of excavated soil did not yield a single meteorite splinter. Furthermore, instead of a crater like the one in Arizona, there was just an ordinary swamp of the kind so common in the Siberian taigaland, with its frozen tundra.

But the most fantastic scene of all was that, in the epicenter of the devastation, where one would expect everything to be flattened, there were dead trees standing, appearing like telephone poles, without branches or bark, but nonetheless still standing.

The first doubts about Kulik's theory were expressed. But having lent all his energies to the Tungus phenomenon, and so many years to its solution, he was devoted heart and soul to his theory and was intolerant of others.

At the same time, his special authority on the subject was acknowledged around the world.

Kulik insisted that pieces of the giant meteorite had sunk into the melted ice of the frozen tundra, and thus the only remaining evidence of the destruction was the swamp and the uprooted trees in the area.

Between 1928 and 1930 the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences sent another expedition under the leadership of Kulik and Krinov to further study the area of the fall of the giant meteorite. Approximate coordinates of the area of fall was determined by Kulik and were in good agreement with the site of the epicenter of the earthquake recorded at the Irkutsk Observatory. Around this site, trees had fallen radially, especially between 5 and 30 kilometers from the point of the impact area.

A more thorough investigation of the impact area was accomplished by Kulik and Krinov, but not a single trace of the meteorite could be found. This circumstance cannot be attributed solely to the insufficient efforts of the members of the expeditions. Absence of big chunks of the meteorite or at least of a big crater at the point of the fall indicated that the colossal explosion which occurred when the meteorite struck the earth and which was recorded with certainty both by instruments and by eyewitnesses, destroyed the giant meteorite en toto, pulverizing it into minute particles. The significance of the Tungus Meteorite for science is that it was the first gigantic fall that was reliably established by Soviet scientists and in sufficient detail.

Through an analysis of seismic observations and a study of barograms of earthquakes and the air shock wave, it was possible to determine the energy of the explosion and, after obtaining from astronomical observations the velocity of the giant meteorite, to estimate its original mass, which probably came to several thousands of tons. From observations of the flight path of the fireball and using certain other data, Astapovich and other meteorite experts calculated the orbit of the meteorite.

Only in 1957 did Soviet scientists succeed in eliciting a few facts about the giant meteorite itself. While studying soil samples taken from the explosion site in 1927-30 by L. Kulik, meteorologist A. Yavel detected particles of meteoritic matter several tens of microns in size. Chemical analysis showed them to consist of nickel iron, which means that the Tungus meteorite was of the iron type and, in the explosion, fragmented into tiny pieces. A large number of soil samples have been collected by a new expedition of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences sent into the area in 1958. Detailed studies of this material was made.

If a meteorite, on impact, has a large velocity of 4 km/sec. and more, its energy is sufficient to destroy the structure of the solid object and convert considerable quantities of the meteoritic material and the soil into a highly compressed gas. Professor Stanyukovich and V. Fedinsky showed in 1948 that the volume of material converted to gas may exceed that of the meteorite by tens and hundreds of times. The sudden expansion of the gas produced leads to an explosion. The result is a crater with a diameter that can be hundreds of times the size of the crater-forming meteorite.

On the surface of the earth we find craters produced by meteorites that were not observed during their falls. First on this list are the Arizona and Quebec craters in North America, and others. The Arizona Crater, 1200 meters in diameter and 175 meters deep, has been described many times in specialized and popular scientific litera-and fourth dimensional concepts may for sure be quite faulty when taken from the abstract concept of time and be given an absolute physical examination. How does one exist in the realm of the speed of light to take a close look at this theory? Very easily. First, get rid of clocks (they depict only an abstract idea of the passage of events). Next, select a radioactive element with a half-life of one month. Place this element in the rim of an ultra high-speed disk so a velocity factor may be established. If the radioactive element is not at its half-life at the end of a month of rotation at high velocity, the fourth dimension theory is true; if it is at its half-life, the Theory of Relativity is bunk except in the abstract.

I believe in flying saucers. However, I don't believe they are from outer space. Why can't the occupants be simply another race of human beings, people who have always lived on Earth and are higher in their development than we are?

Sincerely,
Jon O. Peterson

To the Editor:

In your December issue, you request assistance from your reading public as to the type of features they would like to see published, and you give a list of ten of these.

In my opinion, I feel that a wide coverage of the UFO field is needed. However, the importance is the caliber of the writer and the material. Re: Robert Sheaffer's article about my experience—Is this the caliber of features you plan to do?—from a man who knows nothing about UFOs, nothing about the White Mountains of New Hampshire and nothing about my experience.

Your publication of this article, one of deliberate deception, has not only discredited your magazine, but is an insult to the intelligence of your readers. I have been besieged by them, requesting me to reply. Most of them are too well acquainted with my experience and all the research that has been undertaken over the last fifteen years, to be misled.

Hopefully, our confidence and trust can be restored in the future as there is a need for good, valid, solid information by the reading public of those areas often ignored by the press. Since I retired as supervisor from the New Hampshire Division of Welfare last year, I have been working in UFO research, and have been conducting experimental work, so I need to know that your sources of information are basically reliable. Mistakes can happen—so let's keep them honest mistakes!

Sincerely,
Betty Hill

Editor's Note: Thanks, Betty, for letting us know your feelings on our magazine. As a UFO researcher, I find your case to be one of the most authenticated in the literature, and I can promise you "good, solid information" in all areas of ufology from now on!

weather modification taking place? (You describe it; why didn't you film it?) Where are photos of "holes" punched into clouds in the same pattern as the barrel arrangement of the cloudbuster? And, most importantly, where are the photos of the "attacking" UFOs you say operators must watch out for? No sir, it just won't do! You can't substitute polemics for evidence, but to date, sir, that has been your practice. Now if I were able to visit you sometime. . . with cameras and tape recorder. . .

Robin Collins is mentioned in passing in one of Cathie's books as a young boy in a family who had seen UFOs. Apparently influenced by those events, he has grown up interested in the idea of space visitors. In Did Spacemen Colonize the Earth? (Henry Regnery Co., Chicago, 1976, 178 pp., illus., $7.95), he retreads much of the familiar ground of recent ancient astronaut theorizing although, to his credit, he includes a number of Maori "sky visitor" legends from his native New Zealand. These I found interesting, for they were largely new to me; the rest of the book is filled with the usual indiscriminating collection of facts, hearsay, speculation, supposition and downright nonsense (George Adamski's account of meeting a spaceman while on a train in England, for example). I suppose there will be the inevitable paperback edition of this book. If so, its price should be more in accord with the book's true worth.

The Planet That Wasn't (Doubleday, Garden City, N.Y., 1976, 206 pp., $7.95) is the current collection of science essays by Isaac Asimov. There are 17 here, spanning an equal number of issues of The Magazine of Fantasy & Science Fiction, one of the regular outlets for the Good Doctor's prolific output. Of the 17, one is of particular interest to OUFO readers, "The Rocking Dutchmen." It is, of course, given Asimov's prejudices, a put-down of the idea of UFOs as extraterrestrial visitors.

Opening with his response to a paper presented by UFOlogist Stanton Friedman at the 1973 MUFON Symposium, Asimov moves to a brief summation of the likelihood of intelligent extraterrestrial life (he thinks it is quite likely) and thence into an equally brief examination of his reasons for not believing we are being visited today. Dr. J. Allen Hynek gets some lumps from Asimov in the process. Asimov makes some good points but fluffs a few, too. The mistaken assumptions led to several rebuttal letters which the magazine published a few issues later—and which Asimov cannily refused to respond to. The letters, of course, are not reprinted with the article. However, you should read his article as he makes some cogent points and reminds us that enthusiasm for a belief is not an acceptable substitute for open-minded (and careful) investigations.

No Earthly Explanation (Bantam, N.Y., 1975, 178 pp., photos, $1.75) is a rather routine collection of UFO sightings, speculation on extraterrestrial life, visits by ancient astronauts and similar stuff. Author John Wallace Spencer, an indefatigable tout of the worth of his own work, calls it "a realistic, scientific, accurate up-to-date in-depth study of the UFO phenomena." I don't agree. Among the errors readily spotted: inclusion of the Ra II UFO sighting, which NICAP demonstrated was a NASA rocket experiment; the locating of the ancient Bolivian city of Tiahuanaco "on a plateau, 30,000 feet above sea level" (Mount Everest, at 29,002 feet, is generally recognized as the tallest mountain in the world) and the usual flummery about the inability of ancient Egyptians to have constructed the pyramids. I don't mind honest speculation, for there are a lot of odd things in the world, but speculation that apparently deliberately ignores existing scientific evidence to the contrary is, to me, dishonest. ●

REMOTE- CONTROLLED ALIEN PROBE LANDS IN NEW HAMPSHIRE!

By Raymond E. Fowler

A small, remote-controlled flying object of unique design landed in rural New Hampshire, leaving behind some physical traces and an astonished eyewitness.

■ I consider this sighting to be one of the most significant cases in my files because it involves a very unorthodox-appearing object (even for a UFO!) seen on the ground at extremely close range for several minutes before it took off. The unusual incident was brought to my attention by one of my investigators, Nathan Gold, a senior scientist employed by a very well-known camera company.

A friend of Nathan's, who does consultant engineering, had told him a most intriguing story. While doing consultant work for the General Electric Company at Lynn, Massachusetts, one of G.E.'s managers had confided with him about a landed UFO that his son had come across while walking in the woods with his dog. Although the witness' father had told only a few people about this experience, Nathan, through his friend, was able to obtain his cooperation with me in conducting an investigation.

I found that the incident had been initially reported to an acquaintance employed on the New Hampshire

Investigator Ray Fowler stands where object was on ground.

Police Force. The trooper advised the family to let the matter drop. They were told that operating procedures were for the State Police to inform nearby Pease Air Force Base and that an official Air Force enquiry might leak out to the local press and bring unwanted publicity with a resultant onslaught of curious people to his property. Thus, the matter was dropped until I was able to conduct a confidential investigation. To honor the family's request, I have not used their real names. The incident occurred in rural New Hampshire.

On March 29, 1966, at approximately 4:15 p.m., Bob Johnson was walking with his Dalmatian dog in the woods behind his home along the top of a ridge which led to an overlook of a small pond. He walked this route regularly a few times a week with his dog. He climbed up a rough logging road and turned onto the familiar path along the ridge. A flash of silver on top of the ridge abruptly interrupted his boyish reverie and, although puzzled, he attributed it to some radar chaff which had fallen onto the branches of a tree. As he moved upward along the path, he was startled to see that the sun was not reflecting off the familiar strips of radar chaff but off a spherical mass of shredded silver material affixed to the top of a vertical silver rod. Curious, he pushed his way faster through the thicket-lined path and soon could see that the rod was protruding from what looked like the top of a box sitting in a clearing about 120 feet away. As he proceeded closer, the silver rod could be plainly seen. It was about the same thickness as a pencil and about one and one half feet in length.

Bob's first thought was that this "thing" must be some kind of an experiment placed there by a physicist living on the adjacent farm. This neighbor was known to conduct experiments in his private electronics laboratory located in a barn on his property. Bob looked away for a moment as he pushed his way through branches into the clearing. When he looked at the box again, an uneasy chill crept through his body—the knob-tipped silver shaft had disappeared into nothingness! At this point, he was only 75 feet from the object (according to on-site measurements taken during my investigation).

Cautiously, he entered the tree-lined rough clearing and saw that the object was like an L-shaped box lying on its side with tripod legs. Burning with curiosity, he increased his pace while his dog raced ahead and began sniffing it. Apparently not interested, it continued on its way into the woods. When Bob got within about 24 feet of it, he stepped off the path and positioned himself slightly behind two trees. It was at this point that he realized he was not sure just what he was looking at. An eerie feeling of uneasiness swept through him as he began to think that perhaps it would be better to get away from whatever it was. It had a strangeness about it that transformed his initial curiosity into a sense of awe and fear. The box-shaped object stood about 40 inches high. It was about 60 inches long and about 30 inches in width.

Suddenly, without warning, there was a terrific blast of air from the direction of the object! Pine needles and cones flew helter-skelter. Simul-

The Men In Black Exist!

A Case In Point!

By Robert A. Goerman

Tales of harassment by the MIB, or Men In Black, turn up in many UFO sighting cases. What do they represent: paranoia, prudence, or perhaps something less human? In any case, here is some more fuel for the burning MIB controversy!

■ "... Sometimes, witnesses claim that some government agency or the sinister but imaginary 'Men In Black' confiscate the original prints or negatives. Some delusions of persecution are frequently symptoms of very serious mental disorders and should be discounted, especially since there are so many longwinded UFO witnesses who endlessly repeat their stories before TV audiences without being silenced."—from "Is Seeing Always Believing?" by Robert Sheaffer in OFFICIAL UFO, October 1976.

Nonsense!

Yes, with all due respect, this is the only reply I can give Mr. Sheaffer regarding his totally unjustified and apparently naive comments on the subject of the so-called "Men In Black." But rather than relegate this article to the pitfalls of editorialization, my rebuttal to the narrow-minded "researchers" involved in this field of endeavor will consist of the releasing of just one case. The Enforcers exist; a case in point!

UFO SIGHTING REPORT #1

January 20, 1967, 11:30 P.M.

Mrs. Walter J. Kushner, and her two daughters, Susan (17), Tanya (14) and a close friend of the girls, Marianne Williamson (16), witnessed a brilliant pink form with a distinct disk shape drop below the clouds and execute a sharp turn before cruising above and parallel to a mountain ridge while the group was returning to the Kushner residence. All members of the party were awed by the lack of sound and high speed of the object.

UFO SIGHTING REPORT #2

January 21, 1967, 2:00 A.M.

Susan, Tanya and Marianne were in the process of conducting a mini-pajama party and were doing anything but sleeping when all three simultaneously spotted a peculiar light shimmering through the closed curtains of Susan's bedroom. Without warning, the drapes parted of their own volition and a midget triangular object hovering a few feet from the house began beaming pinkish light of a painfully brilliant intensity into the room. When the triangle moved to the second window, the curtains repeated their opening act and the intensity of the light emanating from the object increased noticeably. At this point, the girls became quite frightened and decided to "get the hell out of there."

The phenomenon had different ideas.

Suddenly, all three girls became paralyzed and weak, unable to cry out or do anything but whimper helplessly. Unable to move, their terror at this point was so strong that they began to pray. After a few more torturous moments, the light effect vanished and their freedom of movement was restored, although a weird dizzy sensation continued to haunt the girls for the better part of an hour.

The girls awoke Mrs. Kushner and, through a veil of tears, sputtering related the events and their fear that "it" might return. Mother finally got the trio settled down and after much discussion, decided that it would be best for all concerned if everyone simply forgot the incident and told no one. All agreed.

Things were pretty much back to normal when shortly after the conclusion of the dinner hour on January 28, exactly one week after the UFO observations, two men arrived at the Kushner household. They identified themselves as U.S. Government investigators and handed the astonished mother an impressive looking (to her, anyway) United States Air Force Identification Card. She had no way of knowing that the card, which had a heavy black print on a durable white stock, was an obvious forgery.

Government ID cards are always laminated, include a photograph of the individual represented, and are more often than not two-color printed. U.S.A.F. Office of Special Investigaaccomplished by dividing the photo into thousands of individual cells known as "pixels." The pixels are then handled and balanced by the computer on an individual basis in order to enhance the original photo. In this fashion each picture cell, or pixel, can be manipulated separately or in subgroups of the over 245,000 pixels in each picture. Each pixel is assigned a numerical value based on the level of gray in it, on a scale from zero (white) to 255 (black), thereby allowing the entire picture to be expressed in a computer printout consisting entirely of numbers.

When we digitized the Trent photograph (see figure 5), we determined the true shape of the object, which turned out to be disc shaped. In addition, the object is three-dimensional solid construction and is floating in the air free from external suspension wires or other such contrivance. Finally, the object is of polished metal and measures between 20 and 30 feet in diameter.

The Fortune photograph is a lenticular cloud and a typical example of misidentification of a natural phenomenon, with help from the media and

UFO publications. Computer study of this photo revealed a complete lack of substance to the object, which is of very irregular shape. The profiling cursor reveals the object as flat and of varying density.

I foresee within the near future highly sophisticated computer programs which will greatly aid the progress of the emerging science of ufology. No longer will it be possible for immature people to fake a UFO photograph. Let those days perish. Let us look to the future of ufology, where modern technology will help some one of the strangest mysteries of our time—the UFO. ● through a one-quarter inch hole on the case side. Admittedly, it would look more professional to employ a four-conductor plug and socket, but the cost does not justify this window dressing. The probe cable is a four-conductor shielded cable with the shield serving to anchor the cable to the case. The shield braid is pierced for a 4-40 screw and bolted to the case side. The probe leads are then soldered to the appropriate PC board points with a caution that the coil with the highest (10 ohm) resistance connects to T-2 secondary.

FINAL ASSEMBLY AND TESTING OF THE BJ UFO DETECTOR

It is always wise to completely check the PC board immediately after the mounting of the components. Check your connections against the electronic schematic and the PC board. Here are a few pointers to watch for:

—Transistor connections reversed: Emitter in collector position; collector in emitter position; PNP transistor used instead of NPN.

—Electrolyte capacitors polarity reversed: Negative lead in positive position.

—Battery connections reversed: Positive lead in negative lead position.

—Diodes in backwards; cathode in anode position. Remember, banded end of diode is anode end, not cathode.

POWER ON TEST

Turn on power. Meter should move upscale and deflect back to zero. Tap probe with permanent magnet. Meter should swing upscale. Hold probe near lamp cord with a lamp burning. Meter should swing upscale. Press test switch. Meter should deflect upscale a small amount. Should meter swing overscale, turn gain control clockwise. Meter registers fullscale and neither gain nor sensitivity controls has any effect. Short circuit or incorrect connection between T-4 and T-5.

UFO ALARM CIRCUITS

There will be a follow-up alarm circuit article that will provide the details of adding an audio alarm circuit that will operate on the meter connection circuits. Look for this accessory article in OFFICIAL UFO magazine!

Note: If you decide to build the OFFICIAL UFO Model BJ UFO Detector, be sure to register it with the UFO Detector Network, P.O. Box 1004, Hammond, Indiana 46325. 1957 UFO FLAP that ranged from malicious mischief to missing car keys. They wrote the sighting off as a hoax because of the police reports and because Leadford was "pleased and excited about the publicity given him."

Further investigation by civilian researchers showed that Leadford was not the trickster in the police reports but the victim. He had called them on six occasions to report others had been damaging the gas station where he worked or had stolen his car keys. It gives a different impression of Leadford when reported that way. He was not a troublemaker.

Air Force records also show that Leadford said that he had advanced the film so that there would be no chance of a double exposure. An unidentified Air Force investigator circled that statement in the report and wrote above it, "Strange that he mentioned double exposure." It implied that Leadford had made a double exposure to fake the picture. However, if Leadford had, in fact, advanced the film to prevent a double exposure, there is no reason to believe that he wouldn't tell investigators about it. Leadford was probably pleased with his foresight in thinking of it. The Air Force was trying everything to discredit witnesses of UFOs. This is quite obvious from the investigations and reports dealing with the Leadford pictures.

Later in the evening, four campers near Lake Baskatong, near Ottawa, Canada, saw a bright sphere hovering over a hill. The light was so bright that it lit the clouds above it. Their shortwave radio failed shortly after the object appeared and would only give off a strange Morse-like code on one frequency. When the UFO disappeared 15 minutes later, the radio began to work properly.

And finally, on the same day, Mr. Rene Gilham saw a UFO hovering over his farm. After it disappeared, he began to itch and his skin began to redden. Before the rash disappeared, Gilham had to be hospitalized for 11 days.

In Washington on November 6, came official word that there had been over 5700 sightings, and of those, none had been confirmed. There was no physical evidence or footprints or anything that showed that any "so-called flying saucers" existed. Then, from Dayton's Wright-

Patterson Air Force Base came the statement that no physical evidence had ever been found, and that although three percent of the sightings were unidentified, they would have been solved if complete reports had been submitted.

The statements from the Air Force were so outrageous that researchers didn't know where to begin in refuting them. There had been dozens of radar confirmed sightings over the years, the most notable being reported from Washington D.C. in 1952. The statement claimed that three percent of the sightings were unidentified, but what it didn't say was that 30 percent were listed as insufficient data. That simply meant that the Air Force hadn't taken the time or trouble to investigate the case. With 33 percent of the Air Force's UFO reports either unidentified or stamped insufficient, the number of unsolved cases grew to 1885. The Air Force had in its files by November 7, 1957 nearly 2000 reports that were not explained by any natural phenomena or in any other way. They would have liked the public to think that every case was easily explainable with very little research.

The seventh of November brought no relief. Sightings continued with many containing occupant reports. Malvin Stevens was driving near Meridian, Mississippi, when he saw an object on the highway. As he approached, three men, four and a half feet tall, got out of it and came toward him. Stevens said that they wanted to talk, but he couldn't understand what they were saying. After what seemed an eternity, they gave up, climbed back into the UFO and took off. Several minutes later, a very scared Stevens arrived in Memphis and made his report. He looked like he had just seen a ghost.

On November 10, a Madison, Ohio woman said that she had been gardening when she saw a very bright triangle-shaped object over her house. For 30 minutes she watched it but finally had to look away because it hurt her eyes. A few days later a rash developed over her body. Her doctor said that the rash might have been a result of what she had seen. She became, in less than a week, the third American to report an injury or burn while watching a UFO.

On November 14, a hovering UFO flashed brightly, and the power in Tamaroa, Illinois failed. Power was out for about 10 minutes in a four-mile area. It was just one of several such outages that were attributed to UFOs during November 1957.

Then, on November 15, the Air Force announced that the whole series of sightings was due to misinterpretations of natural phenomena. Included in this package of explanations was the Stokes sighting. But, on November 20, they changed their minds and their statements about Stokes. They believed his story to be a hoax, suggested by the "natural phenomena at Levelland." They had tried to find the other witnesses but had failed to find either them or the pictures. APRO (Aerial Phenomena Research Organization, Tucson, Arizona) did find one other witness. A man had gone to the hospital to have his burns looked at but balked at the idea of reporting to the Air Force. His hesitation was justified.

About the same time, R.O. Schmidt was being examined by psychiatrists, who found him unstable and very ill. He was committed to a mental institution. The Air Force had Schmidt coming and going. According to Time magazine on November 18, 1957, it was felt that, "If the experience was a

Imagine a monthly UFO newsletter edited by Dr. J. Allen Hynek of the Center for UFO Studies that:

- receives 3-4 new UFO reports every day, within 24 hours of the sightings, via a special, toll-free "hotline"—and tells you about every one!
- operates exclusively with first-hand information by contacting the witnesses of every report, and then calls police, airports, radar bases, weather bureaus, and field investigators to try to corroborate them!
- takes a tough stand "weeding out" the identifiable cases, and tells you what they turn out to be!
- subjects the truly puzzling cases to a standard, comprehensive treatment of investigation, complete with analyses by technical experts in various fields!
- does not leave cases "dangling"; IUR continues to investigate each case until a definitive statement can be made!
- features articles on UFO research that avoid speculation and emphasize "hard" data!
- includes editorials, foreign sightings and research, book reviews, a late-press "news sheet", and more!

hallucination, experts agree, he needed care; if indeed he saw it at all—alas, nobody would believe him anyway; in which case he might as well be institutionalized." With that kind of attitude, is it little wonder that others who saw the UFO with Stokes, or who might have confirmed Schmidt's sighting, kept quiet? They certainly didn't want to be called crazy. Schmidt was eventually released, made many more UFO "contacts" and the lecture circuit.

After November 20, the number of reported sightings began to drop off. Apparently no one wanted to be connected with a hoax or accused of being unable to identify natural phenomena. During the period of November 2 to November 15, there were hundreds of sightings, not only in New Mexico and Texas but all over the world. Some of the sightings seemed to confirm what Stokes had reported. On November 7, Mr. and Mrs. Linsey Trent were driving near Orogrande, New Mexico, when they noticed the speedometer jumping from 60 to 110 and back. Then, to the south they saw a bright, metallic oval flying high. The object had well-defined edges and was in sight for several seconds. When it disappeared, the speedometer began working perfectly. The location and the description seemed to confirm the other sightings reported in the area.

When the Air Force changed their conclusions of the Stokes sighting, they said that Stokes admitted he had radio problems in the area before the UFO sighting. The other reports, the man who was burned and the couple who saw the UFO, have volunteered the information in such a way as to suggest that they did see something. All said that they were afraid of Air Force ridicule and that was why they didn't officially report the sightings.

After November 20, the Air Force tended to ignore the growing number of sightings—perhaps because the treatment of Stokes and Schmidt reduced the number of sightings being reported to the Air Force. If they were not reported through official channels, the Air Force believed that they had never taken place. At any rate, sightings continued, but the press, the public and the Air Force stopped reporting them.

In the years following the November 1957 sightings, dozens of explanations have been offered. Some said that the launch of the Russian sputnik was the cause of all the spacecraft reports. They say that there were no sightings prior to that, and the fact that it was a spacecraft put the idea into people's heads. Their claim is that all UFO waves can be reduced to one cause, one major sighting and then dozens that follow the leader.

The easiest way to shoot down the theory is by pointing out that the wave of 1957 really began in Asia in August, built through October and peaked about November 6 and 7. After that, there were still dozens of sightings, but where the Air Force received over 1000 reports in 1957, they only got 600 in 1958. Even though the Russians launched their sputnik on November 2, not all the people in Levelland had heard about it. Those sightings seem to have happened at the time the news was being released, so it can not be claimed as the cause of the sightings.

If anything should be the cause of the UFO wave of 1957, it would seem that it would be the Fortune picture taken on October 16. Although it was taken in the middle of the wave, it certainly suggests a spacecraft. It is supposed to be a picture of an extra-terrestrial spacecraft, but it hardly caused a ripple. By November 2, most had forgotten about it.

Others say that the wave was caused by the Russian satellite because nothing was heard about UFOs after November 20. That is true in one respect. Not much was published after November 20, but there were hundreds of sightings. It was in December 1957 that the first of the pictures of the Trindade Island UFO were taken. The wave did not just dry up suddenly; the numbers slowly dropped off.

As an interesting side light, there were the waves of 1964, 1966-67 and the recent wave of 1973. UFOs didn't disappear because the Air Force said they don't exist. They are still here, and they are still being reported. The end of a wave doesn't mean the end of UFO sightings. ● as hoaxes and hallucinations. In recent years, however, there has been such a dramatic increase in the number of reported occupant sightings that they can no longer be ignored. Today, many investigators believe that the key to the solution of the UFO mystery will be found through a careful study of these reports. To get an idea of the scope of the situation, let's review some recent humanoid encounters.

In 1973, the United States experienced one of the greatest waves of UFO sightings ever reported in a single country. In addition to the usual reports of nocturnal lights and silvery discs, many witnesses revealed the details of their encounters with the occupants of the unknown objects. One such incident took place near Albany, Ohio, on the 16th of October. As 21 year old Mary Geddis was returning to her mobile home at 7:30 p.m., she saw a ghost-like figure, about four feet tall and very thin, floating approximately 50 feet above the ground. She watched the figure until, a few seconds later, her attention was drawn to a bright white light, about 20 feet in diameter, maneuvering off to her right. The light, which appeared to be 25 to 30 feet above the ground, approached to within 200 feet of Mary's car before it faded from sight.

Later that evening, as Mary was preparing dinner, she saw what she described as a bluish-green "energy form" peeking at her from the doorway. The figure was about 2½ feet tall, with stumpy arms but no legs. "It was like the electric man they have on the Co-op signs," she told investigator George M. Eberhart. "It just looked at me. It didn't try to say anything to me. It sort of had a face. It had what looked like spiky things at the top and sides of the head. You couldn't see through it, but I felt I could almost see through it if I looked at it more."

The being was in view for about ten seconds before it "just kind of disappeared back behind the door." Mary immediately looked behind the door, but the little figure was gone.

The Albany encounter illustrates one point which has hindered investigators of these cases; that is, the bewildering number of inconsistent descriptions found in these cases. Witnesses have described confrontations with "cadavers," "animated beer cans," crocodile-skinned entities, and giant bird-like creatures, to list just a few. However, some occupant types are seen more often than others. A science textbook used at the Air Force Academy comments on this:

The most commonly described alien is about three and one-half feet tall, has a round head (helmet?), arms reaching to or below his knees, and

Just Take A Look At How These Contented Miracle-Workers Have Used This Potent Magic To Improve Their Lives:

• Betty J. used to suffer from anemia, excruciating back pains, a childhood shoulder injury, blinding migraines and spreading arthritis. After dragging herself from clinic to clinic, the doctors all told her she was incurable and must learn to accept it. Not Betty. She discovered the supreme Back-To-Health Ritual and in practically no time at all was bursting with good health and vitality. Says Betty, "I've come back to a new life and my relatives are amazed!"

• Graham D., a small-time guitar player who had made it only as far as dark little clubs and small dance halls, was just about to give up trying to make it big in show business. Tired and hungry, he managed to learn about the thrilling secrets of the I-Can-Wow-Them Ritual from a top recording star whose initials cannot even be revealed. Literally overnight, Graham signed his first contract—for $1,000,000—and that was only a fraction of what he received later on!

• Floyd Y. had used magic before and was constantly seeking to help others as well as himself with the marvelous powers it generated. When news reached him that the 8-year old son of a wealthy oil tycoon had been kidnapped, he decided to use the See-Where Ritual to come up with some answers. Floyd saw in his mind that the boy was alive and also where the kidnappers had taken him—he even told the police what was written on the ransom note that was about to be sent! The kidnappers were quickly arrested and Floyd received a $100,000 reward for his information. Not bad for simply working the See-Where Ritual!

Now YOU are going to name it and IT SHALL BE SO! With this Mystic Grimoire in your possession, the benevolent Cosmic Beings will obey your every command. You can accomplish exactly what you desire and nothing can stand in your way!

It's your turn to discover the awesome magical powers that helped unattractive Joseph W. to make a beautiful, vivacious girl fall madly in love with him, or that turned William K.'s almost-bankrupt business into a million dollar operation—along with dozens of others who have performed miracles restoring health, building fortunes and winning the love mates of their choice!

"Such Knowledge Must Be Spread Around! Work It For Yourself And See Its Powerful Results!"

That's what Victor G. advises, and you'll probably be saying the same thing in a short while. Victor used one of the special health-returning rituals to completely cure a disease that was causing excruciating pain and permanent exhaustion. Today he lives a life that's full and satisfying—he's one person who knows the power of magic!

And so is Evelyn P., who went from a life of downtrodden misery to one of ultimate luxury. The day after performing the dazzling Ticket-Come-To-Me Ritual, a complete stranger walked up to her and put a state lottery ticket in her hand. Even Evelyn thought it might be coincidence, but when she won the grand prize of $500,000 she had no doubts about how it happened. Whenever she finds herself running short of cash she just performs the ritual again and lets her chauffeur take care of the details.

Just remember, results are what this thrilling wizard's handbook has to offer you. is wearing a silvery space suit or coveralls. Other aliens appear to be essentially the same as earthmen, while still others have particularly wide (wrap-around) eyes and mouths with very thin lips. And, there is a rare group reported as about four feet tall, weight of around 35 pounds, and covered with thick hair or fur (clothing?). Members of this last group are described as being extremely strong.

There are several theories to "explain" this discrepancy, but I'll mention only two here. The first is that several alien races could be behind the UFO phenomenon. This theory was recently expounded in Encounters with UFO Occupants by Coral and Jim Lorenzen, who wrote:

This could mean different races from one planet (we have three distinct ones on earth) or a "planetary alliance" as it were, of several races, all cooperating in exploring various populated planets—earth being one of them. The small anthropoid types might be trained animals used for specific purposes. Or, in a very advanced culture, animals, including the intelligent ones, might be bred for their specific dominating qualities.

The second theory suggests that the UFOs and their occupants are nothing more than three-dimensional projections similar to what we call "holograms." This theory, which has gained support in recent years from researchers such as Jacques Vallee and England's Charles Bowen, could account for the humanoids' disturbing ability to pass through solid objects and to appear and disappear suddenly.

From time to time, reports of female UFO-nauts crop up. At 3:10 a.m. on January 8, 1974, John E. Justice was driving home from his job at the Ohio Masonic Home near Springfield when his car's engine and headlights died for no apparent reason. Then, "all of a sudden I saw these very beautiful lights in front of me." The lights came from an oval-shaped craft which was hovering approximately three feet above the road and six feet away. The interior of the object was illuminated and the witness could see five occupants seated inside. Mr. Justice decided they were women because of the delicate appearance of their arms and hands. Their "long, beautiful hair" hung below their seats. They were each wearing a different colored dress—red, yellow, blue, green, and orange—which matched the color of their seats. Oddly, the witness could discern no facial features on the beings.

The UFO hovered in view for a short time before the interior went dark and it flew off in a blaze of light, leaving the witness with the impression that it "had to come from another world."

At 5:30 a.m. on the 28th of February, a 50 year old man on his way to work had just passed through the village of Routieres, France, when his motorcycle suddenly stopped and he saw two "cosmonauts." Nearby was a dark, circular object "as large as two cars." The "cosmonauts" were about 5½ feet tall and wore dark uniforms like an astronaut's, including a helmet with a transparent area for the face. They made expressive gestures and seemed to be telling the witness that they needed food. Then one of the beings made a sign to the other, who produced a piece of a chocolate-like substance with his right hand and indicated that the witness should eat it. Frightened, the man did so. The substance had no taste and was of a softer consistency than chocolate. After the witness had finished eating, he was allowed to leave. An inspection of the spot where the UFO had been seen revealed a flattened area of grass which measured approximately 15 feet in diameter.

On May 7, Mrs. Margaret K. Roffe was walking from one building to another at the Coatesville (Pennsylvania) Veterans Hospital at 9:00 p.m. when a "swishing" sound high above one of the buildings attracted her attention. She looked up and saw a disc-shaped object with four silver-colored legs descend slowly to the roof of the building.

As she watched, a ramp emerged from the object and three entities climbed backwards down the steps to the roof and appeared to examine the disc's legs. According to Mrs. Roffe, "These creatures were probably under five feet in height. From where I stood, he appeared to have a very large, elongated head, grayish skin, arms that extended well below his knees, and what looked like long claws instead of fingers. His legs appeared rather short. Also, the one I'm describing appeared to be old. I saw no hair on his head." The beings spoke among themselves with "squeaky" voices that sounded like "so many birds."

One of the figures turned and, upon observing the witness, made some "strange sounds." The beings slowly climbed the ramp and boarded the UFO. The object slowly ascended and disappeared through the trees. As soon as the craft disappeared, Mrs. Roffe, fearing the object and its strange occupants might return, hurried away.

On August 6, 1974, the Buenos Aires newspaper La Razon published the following account of a terrifying close encounter that occurred near Maracaibo, Venezuela:

Two peasants who live near here, and who swore that they are abstainers, have stated that extraterrestrial beings who emerged from a flying saucer tried to capture them for purposes unknown. Ricardo Chauka and Adaulfo Monteil have described to the newspaper El Mundo how, shortly after dusk, just as they were returning to their homes, they were blinded by a sudden light from the sky, and an object appeared which was "round and flattened at the sides and of a silvery color."

Terrified, they wanted to run away, but only felt themselves slipping backwards to the same spot and finally stood there petrified. "We wanted to run, and yet something prevented us from moving while, from the strange machine, two figures came out, looking like men in leaden-colored clothing like the skin of sardines."

They said the two beings were more than two meters high and both had dark-colored belts and were wearing blue goggles in front of their eyes. In the words of one of the peasants, "I did not see how they walked but they came toward us slowly, making signs with their hands, while from the machine there came a sound like a whistle."

The scene reached its culmination when, as Chauka and Monteil described it, two other machines came down out of the sky as though suspended from invisible cords and took the first machine and the two "sardine-skin" occupants in tow. Only then, said Chauka and Monteil, did they at last feel themselves able to move again, and took to their heels.

A different type of occupant was observed on December 2, 1974, by dairy farmer William Bosak as he was driving home from a Farmer's Co-op meeting in Frederic, Wisconsin. It was 10:30 p.m. and the night was extremely foggy. As he neared his farm, Mr. Bosak's headlights reflected off a disc-shaped object with a lighted "curved front of glass." Through the glass, the witness could see a strange being with protruding eyes and ears shaped like a calf's ears. Because of the fog, the being was visible only from the waist up. Its body was covered with what seemed to be dark tan fur, except for the face and chin, which were bare. Its arms were extended above its head and its general appearance was one of fright.

Thoroughly frightened himself, Mr. Bosak accelerated and sped away from the scene. As he did so, the interior of his car became dark—"like a shadow being cast"—and he heard a "soft whooshing sound, like a branch brushing against the side of the car." The farmer returned to the area the next morning to search for a trace of the object's visit, but found nothing.

In February 1975, the UFO-nauts paid a rare visit to the Far East. On the 23rd, two seven year old children named Masato Kawano and Katsuhiro Yamahata saw an orange object, about five meters in diameter and two and a half meters high, land in a vineyard behind the Hinode Housing Estate in Kofu City, Japan. The craft reportedly had four large, illegible letters on its hull and knocked over two concrete posts as it landed between them.

As the boys approached the landing site, a glowing humanoid, approximately 1.3 meters tall, emerged through a hatch in the side of the craft. The entity carried a long, rifle-like object over its left shoulder. The witnesses could discern no visible eyes or mouth. They did, however, see three fangs where the creature's mouth should have been. As young Kawano watched, the being approached his friend and laid a hand on his shoulder. At this point the boys decided that they had had enough. The retreated to their homes and told their mothers about the frightening apparition. The women accompanied the children to the landing area where they saw the orange light, but not the humanoid. They watched the light flicker on and off for about five minutes before it ascended and flew away.

Meanwhile, in South Africa, Mr. Danie van Graan believes he stumbled upon beings from outer space just outside the village of Loxton on the 31st of July. At 7:30 a.m., he was walking across his land when he saw what he first thought was a vehicle belonging to some uranium hunters who had been working in the area. But when he drew closer, he discovered that it was a round object with rounded windows and triangular lights. Four human-like occupants could be seen inside the craft.

"All four were approximately one and a half meters tall and I would guess that each one weighed between 54 and 58 kilograms," Mr. van Graan revealed. "They looked just like normal people with very long faces. They also had high foreheads. Three of them, I felt, had me under their observation and the fourth was busy at an instrument panel of some sort. I felt like I wanted to get closer, but some sort of flap near one of the windows opened with a bang and a streak of light shone on my face. I felt very uncomfortable and started to bleed from my nose."

The witness withdrew to a safe distance and watched the vehicle and its occupants for about half an hour, when it ascended without a sound and disappeared within seconds. An examination of the landing site revealed five marks on the hard ground, each about two centimeters wide and ten centimeters long. The marks were all an equal distance apart and seemed to have been made by a heavy object.

In October 1975, an astonishing close encounter occurred near Bracebridge, Ontario, Canada. On the evening of the 7th, 27 year old Robert Suffern was watching television when he received a telephone call from his sister, who said she had seen a glow in the sky and wondered if his barn was on fire. Suffern raced outside, jumped into his car, and drove off to check his barn. As he turned down a side road, he found his path blocked by a silvery, circular object which was approximately 10 feet high and 15 feet in diameter. "I was scared," Suffern later told reporters. "It was right there in front of me with no lights and no sign of life. I really hadn't come to a full stop when it went straight up in the air out of my sight."

Suffern turned his car around quickly and headed back to his house. Suddenly, his headlights illuminated a five foot tall being wearing a silvery, one-piece suit and a globe-shaped helmet. The humanoid had very broad shoulders "which were out of proportion to the rest of his body." As the witness braked and skidded, the being turned, jumped over a ten foot high fence, and went out of sight. "When he got to the fence, he put his hands on a post and went over it with no effort at all. It was like he was weightless."

Shaken, Suffern drove home and tried to settle his nerves by watching television. All at once, the sound went out and the picture disappeared. Suffern looked outside and saw a fluorescent orange light hover briefly near his house, then disappear in the direction of nearby Three Mile Lake.

On January 19, 1976, as Mrs. Kay Peterson and Mrs. Vi Camp were leaving the Peterson home in Heislerville, New Jersey, they noticed a boom-crang-shaped object with two bright lights hovering soundlessly over the woods about 30 yards away. They called to their neighbors, Mr. and Mr. Wayne Tomlin, who came outside with their two children to watch the object. Two minutes later, the craft's lights dimmed, brightened, and finally flashed out as it moved away, passing directly over the witnesses as it did.

As the object moved overhead, the witnesses saw something like a semi-circle of red lights on its underside and one of them, Mrs. Camp, heard a low whirring sound. Mrs. Camp also saw something the others didn't: "I saw a figure in a small window. It was all dark, but it appeared like a figure from the waist up, the form of a body." The object flew off in the direction of Delaware Bay.

And finally, ten days later, country-western musician Johnny Sands was driving 14 miles southwest of Las Vegas, Nevada at 10:30 p.m., when his car suddenly stopped as he saw a strange flying object hovering approximately 1000 feet above his vehicle. The object was cigar-shaped, with flashing lights at the ends and a darker ring around the fuselage.

Mystified, Sands got out to check the engine. On an impulse, he turned around and received the biggest shock of his life. Standing on the highway, about 200 feet away, were two beings of average height, wearing silver and black luminous uniforms. On their chests were circular emblems which were white with gold dots. The beings were bald, with curved indentations around the temples and pulsating, gill-like flaps under their ears. Their nostrils were wide and flaring and their eyes were sunk into their heads.

According to an article by Selby Bateman in the Reidsville (N.C.) Review, the humanoids approached to within three feet of Sands, who was unable to move, and communicated with him via mental telepathy. One of the beings produced a shining silver ball which floated between them and the witness. The ball rotated on its axis and was used as a visual aid in explaining their mission.

Briefly, Sands was told that the nuclear explosions from Earth are creating serious lapses in the time sequence as we know it. This, in turn, is causing the human race to age faster and to contract dangerous diseases which were unknown 40 years ago. The humanoids said that this was also creating problems for their planet as well, and that they "are going to stop it one way or another."

After explaining their mission, one of the beings reached out and brushed his fingertips lightly over Sands' right hand, enabling him to move again. Then the humanoids vanished as they were engulfed in a beam of yellow-white light. Sands was subsequently given a polygraph test. His responses were "not consistent with deception criteria." In other words, Johnny Sands was probably telling the truth.

Encounters like Johnny Sands' are occurring with an alarming frequency. If you should have such an experience, call the public UFO Hotline (800-348-4057) or contact local authorities.

TRAVIS—WALTON

OBORG: What about the needle mark found on his arm when he was returned?

LORENZEN: What needle mark? There was a two millimeter red spot inside the crease of his elbow. Dr. Kandell, who examined him the following day, said it was reminiscent of a sort of mark that could be left from a needle, but he will not say it was a needle mark. Of course, Phil describes it as a puncture wound.

OBORG: So did the National Enquirer in its story.

LORENZEN: And so on, but it was not a puncture wound at all. There may not have been any puncture wound. It could have been a mosquito bite that scabbed and was scratched. No one remembers how it got there. It could very well have been from a thorn. Travis doesn't remember. But when he was first examined it was all healed, completely healed. Kandell says it could have been six days old.

OBORG: Kandell told Klass it looked 24 to 48 hours old.

LORENZEN: Kandell said that? I asked him how long ago it had formed, and he told me it could have been several days. I wanted to know if it could have been prior to the incident, and Kandell said it might have been.

OBORG: Did any other doctor examine Travis the first day?

LORENZEN: Well, Steward says that he saw the mark. That's nothing but a damned lie. Travis had on a long-sleeved shirt.

OBORG: Steward, who is supposed to be a specialist on drug abuse treatment, says that Travis rolled up his sleeves in his office because it was warm in there.

LORENZEN: There's little reason to believe anything that Steward said because he's a man who is sort of a living fraud, who puts out a phony doctorate, says he has a Ph.D. in three fields, and it turns out they're all based on the same freshman-level paper that he submitted to California Western University. That's a correspondence school which has only been in existence for two years.

OBORG: Why should Steward lie about this?

LORENZEN: It's good publicity, perhaps. What's happened, I think, is quite obvious. Steward heard about the so-called "needle mark" later, and now is claiming he saw it, too. But he describes it as a puncture—and it was not a puncture. So it's just something that Steward, who is a living hoax, has added to his general line of patter.

OBORG: Let's talk about the McCarthy polygraph test, which was made only a week after Travis' return, and which he failed. Why were those results hushed up?

LORENZEN: Three psychiatrists who examined Travis on the same occasion declared the test to be meaningless because of Walton's state of mind and the circumstances under which the test was given.

OBORG: Whose test was it, anyway?

LORENZEN: Paul Jenkins of the National Enquirer made the arrangements, advised by me and Dr. Harder. McCarthy promised complete confidentiality. He told us, "The information will never leak out of this office, you can rest assured of that." APRO, represented by Dr. Harder, was to be made aware of the test results on the understanding that it was privileged information, since the newspaper wanted to protect its story. When the validity of the test was overruled by the experts consulted, there was, of course, no point in requesting its release since it had become useless information from a scientific standpoint.

OBORG: What was wrong with the McCarthy test?

LORENZEN: It was unbelievably incompetent. McCarthy broke some of the most elementary rules of the polygraphic profession. Describing the test as meaningless, as we have done, is really too kind. It was badly botched by McCarthy. Sometimes long years of experience can serve to crystallize bad habits.

OBORG: Who wanted to take the test in the first place?

LORENZEN: Travis did. He hadn't taken the earlier test arranged by the sheriff for the other woodcutters because there was a crowd there.

OBORG: That test, by Gilson, was made while Travis was still missing.

LORENZEN: Oh, yes, that's right. But he thought for sure he'd pass the McCarthy test. He and his brother are naive country boys that way, and they thought, "We'll take this test and we'll show them!"

OBORG: So McCarthy violated professional ethics in disclosing this information?

LORENZEN: Yes, he certainly did. A number of his peers feel that his action has damaged the image of his profession. Of major concern to other polygraph operators in the Phoenix area is McCarthy's apparent willingness to go to the news media to disclose confidential information in direct violation of verbal commitment and written contract.

OBORG: Klass says it wasn't quite that way. He learned of the previous test from Ezell, who had been informed of it through Pfeifer. Klass then called McCarthy up and asked him point blank if it was true, and McCarthy admitted it.

LORENZEN: He should have told Klass it was privileged information and he should not talk about it.

OBORG: Since the results had not been publicized, it was pretty easy to guess what the conclusion had been!

How to make others secretly DO YOUR BIDDING with the astonishing power of AUTOMATIC MIND COMMAND!

Here's how to get started in just 3 minutes...

Dear Friend:

New power is about to leap into your life... an astonishing way to control the thoughts and actions of others without their knowing it... no matter how much they may not want to follow your instructions, they carry them out to a "T" every time!

With "Automatic Mind-Command" you'll be running the show. Make a wish, turn on The Power, and watch those around you drop everything and do what they're told.

And nobody will even have the faintest idea that you're behind it all. That's the beauty of "Automatic Mind-Command"—you are the only one who knows what's going on—you alone decide when things should start... stop... change around.

CONTROL YOUR FRIENDS OR STRANGERS!

You can use it to control your friends or strangers, one at a time or in large numbers, at any time, and ANY WAY YOU LIKE.

For example: You go into a bank for a loan. The credit man smiles but says "Sorry. You don't qualify for a loan right now; however, if there's anything else I can do for you, I'd be glad to..." Then in a flash, his tune changes when you let loose your "Automatic Mind-Command." He continues, "In fact, we'll be glad to give you $1,000 more than you asked for. And any time you want more, just see me personally! Thank you so much for coming by!"

Impossible? You'll be doing things like that every day without even thinking about it. As soon as you need something done, it's done! The people who do these things for you will remember what they did, but not why!

FUN POWER—TOO!

You can have a lot of fun with this power, too. Look how Evelyn C. used it at work... One day, while sorting papers, her boss angrily inquired why she had to make so much noise—and scolded her in front of everybody. Evelyn said nothing, but smiled to herself—for she had just turned on the "Automatic Mind-Command..." Suddenly the boss apologized for being a scoundrel. "Please... I'm sorry," he said, in front of everybody. "I'd like to make it up to you!" And he told her what a wonderful person she was! When Evelyn turned the power off, the boss just stood there with an open mouth, wondering what made him say all those things.

Think what this power can mean in your life. You need money... and it's there! You want some affection... you'll be smothered! You want peace and quiet... the world stands still!

NO MORE SECRETS WILL BE KEPT FROM YOU!

People who think they can hold back the facts will meet their master in you! You just fire a little "Automatic Mind-Command" at them, and they'll sing like meadowlarks... Nona J. was at her wits' end when she tried to find the money she'd put aside to pay the rent—it was gone. A frantic search through the house turned up nothing. There was only one possibility left... she asked Billy. A look of surprise crossed his face. No—he hadn't seen any money. But Nona didn't believe him, and started using "Automatic Mind-Command" to find out if he was telling the truth. Suddenly Billy reached into his pocket and took out a roll of money. After giving her the money, he acted as if nothing had happened!

Think how many secrets must be hidden all around you! Things your spouse won't tell...

your neighbors won't say... your boss keeps quiet about... ALL BROUGHT INTO THE OPEN JUST FOR YOU!! They'll tell you all their secrets, but they won't know why.

Hold on now, because I haven't told you yet about the best part of "Automatic Mind-Command."

Can I do anything for you?" They will never suspect that "Automatic Mind-Command" is impelling them to like you, please you... and automatically want to help you.

INSTANTLY YOUR LIFE IS CHANGED!

At first, I couldn't believe it. And yet I know this to be true from my own personal experience... time after time. For example...

A STRANGER HANDS HIM $500—Harry G., a low-paid factory worker, wanted to start a business of his own. All he needed was cash to get started, but no one would give him the money. Finally someone told him how to use "Automatic Mind-Command"—and Harry laughingly tried it. A short time later, a perfect stranger handed him $500—saying he'd heard about Harry's plan, and was eager to help him get started!

Unusual? Not at all... things happen every day with "Automatic Mind-Command."

RECEIVES NEEDED CASH QUICKLY!—Mrs. Thelma J. reports, "I needed money badly." Her husband hadn't worked in months, and their savings were running out. Then she discovered "Automatic Mind-Command"—and turned on the power immediately! LORENZEN: The confidentiality of polygraph results is a usual practice, not an exception.

OBERG: But does this sequence of events agree with the way you have reconstructed it?

LORENZEN: I guess so. We did tell Pfeifer about the earlier test.

OBERG: What right had you to tell Pfeifer this information if it was privileged?

LORENZEN: There was no attempt to pull anything over on him. He needed to know the information to make his own conclusions.

OBERG: But you just told me that the test results were invalid anyway. Why did Pfeifer need the information if you felt that nobody else needed the information for making their own conclusions?

LORENZEN: It is generally felt in the polygraph profession that if you can get a truthful response from a subject on questions he has failed before, and you don't get a deception response another time through, you can assume he's telling the truth. It doesn't matter if he's failed the questions before. The reason for this is very simple. There are any number of reasons that can cause a person to fail a polygraph test, but there is only one thing, essentially, that allows the person to pass, and that is a truthful response.

OBERG: You are saying that polygraph operators believe that any time a person passes the test, it is proof positive that he is telling the truth?

LORENZEN: The truth as he sees it, yes.

OBERG: I recall a clipping from the papers about that Howe case in Utah, where the congressman was arrested for allegedly soliciting two prostitutes who were really plainclothes police women. He claims he was set up for political purposes. All three parties passed polygraph tests claiming mutually exclusive accounts of the event.

LORENZEN: I don't know anything about that case.

OBERG: Let's talk about the second test, the one Travis finally did manage to pass. Why was Duane tested together with Travis, and why, when Duane was tested first, didn't you tell Pfeifer you wanted him to test Travis until after he had passed Duane's answers?

LORENZEN: We needed to test Duane to examine whether there had been a conspiracy. I didn't feel there could have been a hoax without Duane being involved. As for not telling Pfeifer about Travis, he was still on the road from his home and we weren't sure he was going to make it, so we didn't want to bother Pfeifer with it until he arrived.

OBERG: You mean you took the chance of Travis making a four-hour trip and then having Pfeifer tell you he had other appointments and could not see him? Klass suggests instead that you wanted to see if Duane could get by Pfeifer before deciding whether to risk sending Travis in. Duane was a trial run in your evaluation of Pfeifer's competence, in other words.

LORENZEN: No, not at all. That was not the way we saw it.

OBERG: Now you've told about Duane's exaggerations during Travis' absence, to keep up his mother's spirits, and you've said that the things he said were not true. He denied knowing about any criminal record of Travis' or about the McCarthy test even though he was at that test. To put the newsmen off the track soon after Travis returned, he told them he was taking Travis to a wrong hospital in a wrong city. Isn't this so?

LORENZEN: Yes, he was concerned about protecting his brother and his mother.

OBERG: But didn't Pfeifer ask Duane if he would lie to help his brother, and Duane said he would not do so, and Pfeifer passed him on that response, concluding that he was telling the truth?

LORENZEN: Well, yes, that's true. But don't forget the context in which the question was asked. Would he lie about details of the actual abduction incident? The point is that Duane felt he was telling the truth, even though you can show he did lie later. But he thinks of himself as a straightforward and truthful individual.

OBERG: Wait a minute. Why ask Duane for details about the abduction if he was not present? All he could give would be secondhand information and hearsay anyway.

LORENZEN: Not completely. We asked about involvement in a hoax and we were interested in the events following the return as well.

OBERG: Why did Ezell, Pfeifer's boss, retract the conclusions that Duane and Travis had been telling the truth during the Pfeifer test?

LORENZEN: I feel like Ezell thinks he is caught in the middle. He thinks there is something dishonorable about endorsing a UFO case, and he is trying to back off from it. I wrote to him, asking him to say if he really did recant on these terms, and I furnished him with a copy of the page of the Klass report, where Klass quoted Ezell about the recantation, and I asked him if these were correct quotes. I have had no response whatsoever from him. So if he has recanted I think . . . well, I don't think he really has recanted or he would say so to me. After all, APRO was the client in these tests. I sort of think he might have been urged into saying something about the test that he's sorry for now, and would just like to avoid any further entanglements. You see, I don't believe the information he is alleged to have told Klass, who claims that Ezell said the Pfeifer tests should be invalidated, because Travis furnished some of his own questions, which is a common practice. Notice how "some" is changed to "all" in the Klass account, making it sound far more sinister than it really was.

OBERG: Did Klass really claim that all the questions for the Pfeifer test were dictated by the Waltons?

LORENZEN: Yes, he did. I don't have it in front of me, but there was something about the phrase, "the dictation of the questions," and that certainly implies all the questions.

OBERG: I have my copy of the report here. Right, here is the phrase quoting directly from Ezell's letter: "... Because of the dictation of questions to be asked, this test should be invalidated." That does not imply all the questions to me, but just the opposite. Some of the questions were dictated, and this seems to be what Ezell is objecting to.

LORENZEN: Well, it's a matter of interpretation.

OBERG: Why did Pfeifer leave the Ezell agency so soon after Ezell recanted his polygraph results on the Waltons?

LORENZEN: I'm convinced the Walton case had nothing to do with it. He got the chance to become chief security officer for a chain of convenience grocery stores, and it was a much better paying job than his job with Ezell. There were no hard feelings in their breaking up their association with each other.

OBERG: So Pfeifer was essentially a retired cop, not primarily a polygraph operator? I understand he really only had had two years' experience in the polygraph field.

LORENZEN: Yes, but he had the usual credentials. He had gone to an accredited polygraph school and is an associate member of the Arizona Polygraph Examiners Association.

OBERG: There was one other polygraph test in this case, given by the police to the woodcutters right after Travis disappeared. They all agreed that they had seen a UFO but did not go into details.

LORENZEN: I want to stress an important point about the Klass theory of a conspiracy. The woodcutting crew of Mike Rogers consisted of six men besides himself at the time of the incident. He usually only had two or three others. He picked up these men as they were available, people between jobs, or down and out, whoever wanted the work. My point is this: these people were not a bunch of buddies, a tightly knit crew of friends. One of the men had only been with them three days when the incident occurred. It's pretty far-fetched to think that a group of people like that would band together just for Rogers' benefit to protect a boss from financial disaster that was mostly imaginary anyway—it was not real—in a very hypothetical way, a way that stands little chance of success. There is just no chance that you would find a random crew that would stick together like that. Who would trust a man you had only known for three days? The idea that these people would cooperate in a hoax is just nuts.

OBERG: Has Klass been guilty of any distortions of the truth or of withholding information contradicting his point of view?

LORENZEN: Yes he has. For instance, it has become obvious to him that different members of the sheriff's department lied to him. Now if he would use the standard that he used with Duane Walton . . .

OBERG: And you used with Steward. . .

LORENZEN: . . . And take the position that if Duane lied to him once, he's probably going to lie about everything, then he would not be able to believe anything these law enforcement men have given him. But he doesn't seem to mind as long as their stories are on his side of the question. The two men in particular who are guilty of that, I think, are Ken Coplan and Deputy Glenn Flake. It's either that or else Klass has been coming up with distortions and fabrications and attributing them to these men.

OBERG: In your years of dealing with

Klass, do you think that is likely?

LORENZEN: I don't know which it would be. It could be either.

OBERG: You advertise this conflict as a Klass-Walton controversy. But isn't it really an APRO-everybody else controversy? Aren't MUFON, GSW, NICAP, CUFOS, etc. all impressed with Klass' results?

LORENZEN: You seem to feel that all these other organizations are impressed with the Klass report since both the MUFON and NICAP journals printed it in its entire length. The reaction I get is not that strong, however. In other words, the Center for UFO Studies (CUFOS) and I would say Hynek, mainly, has come out and endorsed this whole case. Hynek has given it his out—and-out endorsement, mainly because it compares favorably with other cases. I have not had any feedback from MUFON that they are really impressed with Klass' work. The feedback I get second hand from Walt Andrus is that he thinks the case is probably a good one and that Spaulding's and Steward's opposition to it is mainly because of a personality conflict—but that's second hand. As for NICAP, I should say this: It's not necessarily NICAP but just Jack Acuff and the lady who is contracted to write their newsletter—they are impressed with Klass' explanation, impressed enough not to bother to check on anything he said.

OBERG: Have you explained your position directly to the other groups?

LORENZEN: I have explained it to anyone who contacted me.

OBERG: Have any members of the blue ribbon panel, which endorsed the case without all of the information, gone on to express doubts?

LORENZEN: If they have, they haven't told me. Bob Kreegan, who was a member of the panel at one time, apparently has swallowed the Klass report hook, line and sinker, and resigned from APRO. But anyway, no members of the panel have had any second thoughts that I know of.

OBERG: How about the National Star weekly tabloid's expose of the "Walton hoax"?

LORENZEN: I just haven't studied it. I took a look at it and it made me sick to my stomach, so I didn't follow up on it.

OBERG: If there were no polygraph tests at all involved in this case, what would you say were its strongest points?

LORENZEN: The strongest item of evidence supporting the abduction story is the fact that Travis was seen to have some sort of UFO encounter, before he disappeared, by six witnesses. And also the fact that he reported aliens that matched another case he could not have known about. Let me elaborate on this. The Walton case compares so closely with the Moody case that there are really no dissimilarities between the aliens that Travis reported and the aliens that Moody reported. The interesting thing is that they reported them independently—neither one could have known about the other one. There was no way that Walton could have known Moody, and there was no way that Moody could have known about the nature of Walton's aliens when he reported to us. There is even one other case where humanoids looked like Walton's aliens, although we can't tell for sure since they were wearing masks. An interesting point is that Walton's aliens do not look like Betty Hill's aliens, for example.

OBERG: Examining Klass' claim that Rogers was in a desperate financial situation and the hoax would have alleviated this, was Rogers really in such a bad fiscal position?

LORENZEN: He did not have a financial motivation for a fraud; no, he did not. There was no monetary bind at that time. He was not afraid of asking the Forest Service for another extension because he knew from experience that they would tolerate a short overrun. He was still banking on being allowed to finish the work. If he could not do that, all he had to do was to walk into the Forest Service office and announce he could not fulfill the contract. It would then be declared defaulted. They would pay him for what he had finished but would withhold ten percent, and from that would advertise for a new contract and take in new bids. Once the expenses of getting a new contractor were met, they would refund the remainder of the amount to him.

OBERG: Would he have gotten back all of it, even if the new bid was higher per acre than he had made?

LORENZEN: Yes. Whatever the cost was to get a new contract, that was all they would keep from the ten percent. A higher rate in the new contract was not considered.

OBERG: Well, I've been told that the Forest Service quite distinctly would also keep the difference in whatever per acre bid they received versus the per acre bid Rogers had made, multiplied times the number of acres remaining. Since Rogers had grossly underbid all other contractors, with a per acre rate of only half that of the other bidding individuals, he could stand not just to lose the ten percent but to wind up owing the Forest Service money back!

LORENZEN: That is not the way I've been told it works.

OBORG: As to Rogers being in financial need, wasn't his family on food stamps?

LORENZEN: Yes, he had a large family. Typically, however, Rogers is on food stamps every winter, so it wasn't any worse than usual.

OBORG: Were there any physical traces at the abduction site?

LORENZEN: Well, Spaulding claimed that some of his people had found strange metal fragments at the site. He brought them to Duane Walton. He also claimed to have found magnetic anomalies at the site. But Spaulding has since backed off from claiming that the metal pieces were found at the site, as he has suggested that perhaps the site was salted by someone else. Duane thinks that Spaulding dug up the pieces of metal somewhere and brought them to him, trying to win his favor and get back on the case. Duane and Travis had walked out on Spaulding and GSW, of course, because of Steward. They had requested Spaulding to get them to a medical doctor, but Spaulding for some reason sent them to the phony-baloney Steward.

OBORG: Looking back on all the controversy of the hidden information, do you think the public would have been better off never knowing about the earlier failed polygraph test and Walton's criminal record?

LORENZEN: That may be true, since I think it would have brought up fewer peripheral issues to distract from the heart of the case. Those facts don't have much to do with the case.

OBORG: Are you sorry that the information came out?

LORENZEN: I would have to discuss that at length. In a way, basically, I don't like anything to remain hidden that has anything to do with the case. The problem is whether or not this stuff had anything to do with the case.

OBORG: You do not want anything hidden, but you had exclusive control of the information and did not worry about hiding it.

LORENZEN: That's not fair. I never had the liberty of even releasing it without getting permission. I didn't think it was important enough to try.

OBORG: Won't there be a reservoir of doubt now about how much else you know that you won't talk about, or will deny knowing?

LORENZEN: I suppose there is that, yes. But any newsman or reporter is in the same position with respect to protecting his sources, for one reason or another.

OBORG: Would you be willing to stake your reputation as a UFO investigator on the authenticity of this case?

LORENZEN: I don't stake my reputation on any case. I would stake my reputation on the way I conducted this case. If we found out there is something wrong with the case, then we will make it public.

OBORG: Even if the information comes from privileged sources?

LORENZEN: Now I would not betray a confidence, but I think I've learned my lesson! Becoming privy to information I can't release is dangerous, if you know what I mean.

OBORG: The National Enquirer panel did select this case as the best of the year, but it did not consider it proof positive of the existence of UFOs, which would have been worthy of a much larger monetary reward. Considering how strong you think the case is, why didn't the blue ribbon panel think it was a perfect case?

LORENZEN: Well, it lacked witnesses actually seeing Travis go on board and come off. It would depend on who were the witnesses and how reliable they were. I never expect them to award something on the basis of a single witness. It still lacked weight on that single point.

OBORG: Well, we are all waiting for that perfect case. The experience with the Walton case will help in the evaluation of the future contact cases too, we hope. Thank you for your time and candor.

LORENZEN: You are welcome. ●

THE REALITY GAME

important thing is that the very biological and spiritual evolution of Earth may depend upon the establishment of equilibrium between us and our cosmic cousins.

I do not dogmatically rule out the extraterrestrial hypothesis, but I do lean toward the theory that UFOs may be our neighbors right around the corner in another space-time continuum. What we have thus far been labeling "spaceships" may be, in reality, multidimensional mechanisms or psychic constructs or our parapsychical companions.

I have even come to suspect that, in some instances, what we have been terming "spaceships" may actually be a form of higher intelligence rather than vehicles transporting occupants.

The UFO, the appearance of elves and wee people, and the manifestation of archetypal images throughout the world signify that we are part of a larger community of intelligences, a far more complex hierarchy of powers and principalities, a potentially richer kingdom of interrelated species—both physical and nonphysical—than we have been bold enough to believe. And the rewards of truly understanding the Reality Game are greater than we have dared to envision.

Once we have correctly fathomed the meaning of The Other and its total relevance to our lives, we will perceive how an evolved intelligence has been challenging us, teaching us and preparing us to recognize fully the "god-self" within each one of us.

Before I totally accepted the objective reality and the independent, external existence of The Other, I struggled for years with questions:

Is The Other actually an independent spiritual entity or is it somehow manifested by one's own "higher self?"

Could there be some unknown physical law that could at times activate (or be activated by) our unconscious minds? That law—or energy—might not itself be intelligent, but it would be able to absorb, reflect and imitate human intelligence.

At the same time, I was aware of the argument that all such entities might be dramatic products of man's collective unconscious, with an independent life-force which would sustain itself on our belief.

In his thought-provoking book, A Mile to Midsummer, Michael Talbot refers to phenomena such as UFOs, appearances of the Virgin Mary, fairies and so forth as "protean-psychoid." They are "protean" because they are all part of the same chameleon-like 9 Years of Suffering CURED IN TEN DAYS!

My Blindness, Paralysis and Epilepsy—and all pain—Vanished with this amazing secret YOU can use to CURE yourself of any ailment and astound your doctor!

Perhaps you've seen me on TV—or read about me in Time, Newsweek, or the National Enquirer. My name is Evelyn Monahan—I am not a doctor, but I have discovered a healing technique that has helped COUNTLESS THOUSANDS TO CURE themselves of seemingly hopeless ailments, when doctors said it couldn't be done!

This advertisement is going to shock and astound you, because I claim this secret brings cures to diseases and injuries which many doctors consider virtually "incurable!"

With this secret, I claim you have the power this very moment to experience A COMPLETE CURE FROM MANY DISEASES OR INJURIES—no matter how horrible their reputation—quickly end all pain and suffering! That goes for many ailments associated with great pain, like ulcers, arthritis, heart ailments, and many more. I mean to say you can experience absolute relief, often without medicines or surgery!

I'll go further than that—and state flatly—it is 100% effective in curing many ailments, when followed faithfully!

I Am Cured Of 3 Incurable Ailments And Vow That I Will Help Millions!

In 1961 I was involved in an accident which left me blind. Thirteen doctors said that my blindness would be permanent.

After nine years of feeling sorry for myself, I decided to do something about it—and try a method which I'd heard about (but never really believed) called "Metaphysical Healing," which was supposed to bring miraculous healings when doctors could offer no hope. In 10 days, my eyesight returned INSTANTANEOUSLY!

That's not all! The same injury which caused the blindness had left me with epilepsy. I suffered as many as 12 epileptic seizures a day. The same day my eyesight came back, I noticed I was not experiencing any epileptic seizures. I have not had a single one since that fateful day—5 years ago! Doctors who said it was impossible, ran tests and found I was cured!

Incredible as it may seem, in 1965—when I was still blind, with epileptic seizures—I was involved in another accident which left my right arm paralyzed. (And I am right-handed!) Eleven medical specialists, ranging from GPs to neurosurgeons told me I could not be cured, and I would never move my arm again.

WITH THIS SECRET, one week after the return of my eyesight, my right arm was free from the paralysis which had held it immobile for several long years! I was able to move my arm freely—without pain—and was COMPLETELY CURED!

What Worked For Me And Countless Others Must Work For You!

I vowed to make this secret available to every man, woman, and child on this planet. You may have already seen me on NBC-TV's "TOMORROW" Show or the David Susskind Program—or read about me in Time, Newsweek, Midnight or the National Enquirer. Now I've written down the exact method I used that has worked for countless others.

• ULCERS—This method will guarantee you and your loved ones freedom from ulcers. It will completely heal any ulcer no matter how severe it may be. It not only rids the body of pain associated with ulcers, but heals the ulcer itself!

• ARTHRITIS—If you or one of your loved ones happens to be one of the thousands suffering the pain and restriction of arthritis, you must not delay another minute, for you possess at this moment the power to rid yourself of all traces of the disease.

• HEART—Whether you use this miraculous technique for yourself or your loved one, it will restore perfect health and harmony to the heart and circulatory system. With it, you will be fully prepared to handle any emergency involving heart attacks! And it will also allow you to restore damage done by previous heart attacks and to return the heart victim to perfect health!

These are but a few of the unique benefits Metaphysical Healing has to offer. Bursitis . . . sinus problems . . . allergies . . . asthma . . . blindness . . . paralysis . . . epilepsy . . . alcohol and drug addiction . . . kidney disease . . . colds . . . headaches . . . upset stomach . . . insomnia . . . gout . . . menstrual cramps . . . and much more, ALL quickly yield to it!

Speeds Healing!

While not a substitute for qualified medical care, it can miraculously speed up the healing process so that injuries heal more quickly and sickness and disease vanish in what would be considered an amazingly short time!

For example, if you use this miracle method at the first sign of a cold, you will experience relief in TEN MINUTES!

Another dramatic example of the speed with which this method works is in the healing of broken bones. Normally, a broken bone—after setting—takes weeks and even months to heal. With this miracle method, you can accelerate the healing 25 and even 50 times!

It is especially useful in emergency situations. I've seen it heal cut eyeballs . . . severe heart attacks . . . and 3rd degree burns . . . and relieve all pain in a matter of minutes!

Emergency Cases Cured!

One woman I know fell and a piece of metal wire pierced her left eye. Doctors said she had a 95% chance of losing her sight in that eye. Metaphysical healing was used. The next day the doctor said she would not need surgery! Much of the damage had healed overnight! One week later, she was 100% okay. In another case, shattered glass had entered both of a woman's eyes. Metaphysical healing was used. Two days later, when bandages were removed, she could see clearly—the wounds were almost completely healed. She was soon sent home with 20/20 vision!

Breast Surgery Avoided!

Jean L. had just learned she would have to undergo breast surgery for the removal of a non-malignant tumor. Her husband asked me if Metaphysical Healing could help. I said, I only ask that you follow it three times a day. I didn't hear from him again until Jean's final examination. He called to tell me the amazing news—Jean's tumor had dissolved and she would not need surgery!

Heart Attack Relieved!

Phyllis C.'s husband suffered a serious heart attack (his second). Immediately, she began to use this secret, James regained consciousness. Soon he was removed from intensive care. The doctors and nurses were amazed at his recovery. He now had better than a 50-50 chance. Doctors said he might be out of work 4 months. He returned to work in 1 month.

"In my 15 years of practice in cardiology I have never seen anyone recover from a massive heart attack so quickly," said the doctor. Examination showed there was no heart damage due to his second heart attack and (strangely) much of the damage from his first one had also disappeared. The man was stronger than ever.

Cured Of Kidney Disease!

Patricia R. was suffering from polynephritis. There was no kidney machine available. "Teach me what I need to know to cure the 'incurable,'" she said. I showed her this method. When all her tests were done, the polynephritis was gone! "The doctor says I'm in excellent health—and there's no evidence of disease of any kind in my body," she reported. "I am in 100% perfect health!"

Burns Are Quickly And Miraculously Healed!

Bobby C., 15, had suffered extensive 2nd and 3rd degree burns in an auto accident. Large doses of drugs were needed, but had to be stopped to avoid addiction. He screamed in agony, begging phenomenon that changes to reflect the belief structures of the time. They are "psychoid" in that they are a parapsychical phenomena and are related to the psychological state of the observer.

Talbot feels the subjective and parapsychical aspect of UFOs shed the most light on their nature. If UFOs appeared to be totally a physical phenomenon, Talbot points out, it would be easier to deal with them as extraterrestrial or even ultraterrestrial.

An astronomer does not experience headaches, "strange voices," "visions" or "poltergeist phenomena" every time he discovers a reshifted galaxy. The phenomena with which an astronomer, and the majority of scientists, deals are objective and physical.

"The parapsychical nature of UFOs has always suggested that they are somehow 'less real' than reshifted galaxies," Talbot comments.

"In any case, three facts remain: (1) People are experiencing UFO phenomena and contacts. (2) The phenomenon strongly suggests an 'objective' nature. (3) The phenomenon also strongly suggests a 'subjective' nature.

"The fact that we have not been able to resolve the conflict between their subjective and objective natures indicates that perhaps the only conflict is in our assumptions concerning experience."

In an essay for Gods of Aquarius, Talbot goes on to observe: "UFOs can be tracked on radar; Virgins give their witnesses 'real' roses; the Men in Black make 'real' telephone calls; and UFOs and their occupants leave footprints and burnt circles in deserted fields. The 'objective' explanation for UFOs does not explain their parapsychical nature. Similarly, the folie a deux or shared hallucination simply does not explain their physical nature. A 'new view' of UFOs must take both aspects into account.

"Humanity's emotional need for a cohesive mythic structure, in one sense, generates the UFO phenomenon: We are creating UFOs on a collective level much the same as we create dreams on an individual level.

"That UFOs are omnijetive and are willed into physical existence seems to be the best explanation for the moment.

"But we cannot stop here.

"The belief that we generate UFOs still entails the categories of real and unreal. In dealing with the concept of omnijetivity, the belief that reality is plastic or ideational must necessarily transcend this notion as well.

"In considering UFOs with the idea that we generate them, it is implicit that we are somehow more real than UFOs. The myth that we generate protean-psychoid phenomena is only temporarily efficacious. Beyond this myth, beyond real and unreal, lies an absolute elsewhere that is presently being 'realized' by the two branches of science most concerned with 'consciousness' and 'reality.' In the study of human behavior and quantum mechanics, three 'new views' are materializing that will radically affect our position and role in the universe. These are:

"Consciousness and reality are a continuum.

"UFOs are part of our 'self-reference cosmology.'

"All possible realities 'exist' in an indefinite number of universes.

"The myth that UFOs are generating us is most assuredly just as valid.

"When 70,000 people witness the miracle of the sun at Fatima, we can greet it as an omnijetive occurrence. The faith of 70,000 anxious spectators is surely as potent as the faith of the Vajrayana yogin who does not believe in a metaphysical hierarchy and yet calls forth its deities.

"However, to believe that the 70,000 spectators are somehow more 'real' than the Virgin of Fatima is again simply an efficacious myth. Somewhere, somewhere, there is probably a Virgin of Fatima who believes that she generated the 70,000 followers!

I do believe, however, that numerous literal truths have been prompted by the UFO intelligences. I believe that, through the ages, they have been provoking mankind into higher spirals of intellectual and technological maturity, guiding men and women toward ever-expanding mental and spiritual awareness, pulling our species continually into the future.

Although these parapsychical, multi-dimensional entities have always co-existed with us, in the last thirty years they have been accelerating their interaction with us in preparation for a fast-approaching time of transition and transformation. This period, we have been told, will be a difficult one; and for generations our prophets and revelators have been referring to it as The Great Cleansing, Judgment Day, Armageddon. But we have been promised that, after a season of cataclysmic changes on the Earth plane, a New Age consciousness will suffuse the planet. It is to this end that the UFO is a transformative symbol.

Consider, for example, the essential message which lies in the basic shape of the UFO, which is most often reported as circular. In many cases, percipients have reported seeing a cross-like appendage or a cross-shaped design over the body of the UFO. In several instances, the UFO seems almost to have been mandala-like and, like the mandala (which is often used for purposes of meditation), has precipitated in the percipient a state similar to that of a trance.

It may be that the message of the UFO in the sky is a call to mankind to return to that original state of wholeness, that sense of oneness with the Cosmos. Surely the holistic view, which maintains that all life is one and each single cell maintains a signal link-up with every other cell, is becoming increasingly popular. Man is reawakening to the necessity of becoming truly and totally integrated with his environment.

I believe it is an integral part of the UFO phenomenon to lead us to a clearer understanding of our true role in the cosmic scheme of things and to direct us to a level of awareness whereby we might more readily attain that "state of oneness and self-sufficiency that is equivalent to deity itself."

Of one thing I feel certain: Although the UFO intelligences may often cast themselves in the role of tutors, they favor teaching by example rather than by direct intervention in our learning processes and overtly showing us the answers.

Throughout history it has seemed they are most often content merely to show us that the impossible can be accomplished. They have already demonstrated the possibility of air flight, radio communication, television and a host of technological extensions of our five senses. Today their maneuvers might be demonstrating the possibility of dematerialization, invisibility and rematerialization. Perhaps they are showing us that the best way of dealing with space travel over great distances is not to travel through space but to avoid it altogether.

But I do not believe that the UFO intelligences have ever promised deliverance from our ecological, sociological, biological sins. Their essential message may be that we must learn to manage our own affairs, that we must truly learn how to fashion our own reality construct, before we can effectively and productively join that larger community of which they tell us we are evolving members.

In Gods of Aquarius I asked David Spangler, a spokesman for the Findhorn community, if he felt that The Other (call them Devas, UFO intelligences, or what you will) was benevolently disposed toward us:

"I would say that they are benignly concerned about our welfare, at least the majority of them are. But, by the same token, there's an impersonality about that concern, too. I would say that what they are concerned about is the maintenance of harmony and wholeness, a synergistic state within the Earth, and they recognize that humanity as a species is a necessary and vital part of that synergistic state. Therefore, the health of humanity is their concern because it reflects the health of the planet. Also, humanity wields forces at the moment which bear directly on the health of the planet.

"In some sense, there's concern for us along the line of self-enlightenment, coupled with an awareness that if their kingdoms are going to prosper, humanity has to prosper in relationship to those kingdoms. At the same time, there's a definite impression given that humanity is important, but not indispensable.

"Sometimes we get the feeling they're saying, if humanity doesn't get it together, a whole different evolutionary cycle may take over—which will move us out of the picture, at least in our present state. On an individual level, as far as personal contact went, it certainly was interpreted as a benign, personal concern.

"But as the entities often pointed out, they weren't that concerned about Findhorn raising vegetables as much as they were concerned with getting across the point of their existence. They felt it was a real necessity that humanity alter its conception of reality so as to include their existence."

Dr. Andrija Puharich and his associates are concentrating extensively on working with the "Little Uri Gellers," the "super kids," who are manifesting paranormal abilities around the world. Dr. Puharich agreed with my contention that UFO interaction with our species is accelerating:

"In my view, the evidence is accumulating, very rapidly in the last few years, that more and more people are being turned on by powers they don't understand. Rather than being some evolutionary breakthrough, some freak genetic thing by cosmic ray induction or something, there does seem to be this thing where the people who receive these powers are able to communicate with some other source outside of themselves, perhaps some extraterrestrial source. So you have to make the assumption, or at least I do, based on the UFOs I've seen, the UFO photographs I've taken, the UFO landings I've seen, and a lot of concrete experience, that there is some kind of intelligent system that is aware of us and can override anything we do.

"We're pretty low creatures compared to the kind of stuff they're dazzling us with. So we ask questions like, 'Are they going to take us over? What the hell are they interested in us for? Who are we? There are billions of other planets, why don't they fool around with them? Is this for the good of mankind, or is it not for the good of mankind?'"

"Unfortunately, these kinds of questions too quickly deteriorate into theological arguments about Satan and who's running the world, which I think, in most cases, are rather sterile, because people don't really know what they're all about when they talk of these things. I would prefer to go to my own direct experience in looking at each of these space kids, these super kids, as individuals and in spending time with them and living with them and eating with them and exploring the farthest reaches of their consciousness."

In my introduction to Gods of Aquarius, I put forth my contention that the UFO provides contemporary man with a vital, living mythological symbol, an "affect image," which communicates directly to his essential self, bypassing the brain, evading acculturation, manipulating historical conditioning. I believe that the UFO will serve mankind as a transformative symbol that will unite our entire species as one spiritual organism, "... functioning through members who, though separate in space, are yet one in being and belief."

To suggest that the UFO is a living mythological symbol does not diminish its reality in an objective, physical sense. Indeed, the UFO may ultimately be more real than the transitory realities of computers, machines, associations, political parties or deities. Through the cosmic catharsis of dreams, visions and inspirations, the UFO will serve as the spiritual midwife that will bring about mankind's starbirth into the universe.

As part of the transformative process now under way, certain ancient archetypal forms are being reactivated and new archetypes are emerging. In discussing the return of the Great Mother archetype with Robert Masters and Dr. Jean Houston, Dr. Houston made the following significant observation:

"What is the aesthetic modality in America and in England, actually throughout Europe, that tends to be the projection of things to come? Films and science fiction as opposed to other art mediums. You have almost no decent female characters in films. You have almost none in science fiction. To me that absence is already the indication of a great explosion that's about to take place. When the female dies out that completely, that means something is in the womb being prepared.

"I think it's the rise of the female animal as an androgynous character who, I suspect, will join with the male, not to create an androgyne, but to create the cosmic person. The Perusia. The Cosmic Being. And it's never cosmic man. Cosmic person."

I asked Dr. Houston on what level she saw our interaction with the world of the archetype.

"I think that we are in a symbiotic process with it. I think it is effected; it is made efficacious; and we are made efficacious in the symbiosis. But do we have an apartness apart from this? Yes, as that has an apartness apart from us. Reality is very thick; it is immensely complex.

"I love the image that William James uses in pragmatism; he says, 'We are like dogs and cats who inhabit our drawing rooms.' You know, happy and thinking about the food and the nap and going bye-bye, but having no idea at all of the intricate and fascinating goings-on around the house or what's in the bookcases. I think that's our level of reality. We have a very, very tiny notion of what is... reality.

"I think we're going to have a brief spurt of a female period; it may last fifty to one hundred years. But remember, history is so accelerated that what might normally take two or three thousand years could be over and done with in a few decades. Then I think we're going to move into a new activating archetype, which I think is cosmic person—mankind in symbiotic relationship to the universe at large. We're going to have a much larger universe."

It is my contention that UFOs

constitute a transformative symbol which is leading us toward that larger universe.

In his prepublication assessment of Gods of Aquarius, professor William A. Tiller of Stanford University stated:

"In this book, Brad Steiger has gathered... a remarkably widespread account of individual experience with either direct UFO phenomena or closely related phenomena. It is a chronicle well worth reading! Its thesis, that extradimensional beings with greatly advanced awareness and technology over humankind, are serving benignly to jog, spur, and prick the consciousness of humanity out of its present 'world picture' or 'reality rut' into a more cosmic self-image that is essential for species survival, is worthy of serious attention.

"The body of growing data which supports this thesis is so vast and differentiated that, taken as a whole rather than quibbled with in part, it merits a wise humanities consideration. I strongly affirm this new transcendental image of man, rejoice in man's future capacities and self-awareness, and applaud those honest workmen whose valiant efforts are bringing man awake!"

After Dorothy, the Tin Woodsman, the Scarecrow and the Cowardly Lion had endured the tribulations and torments along the Yellow Brick Road and in the Wicked Witch's castle and had learned to manage their own affairs, they saw at last the Wizard of Oz as he really was, a kindly charlatan. Not a bad man, just a bad wizard.

It may be that one day mankind will be able to see the UFO intelligences as they really are, free of all psychological mechanisms and telepathic projections. That day, though, will not come until we have learned to manage our own affairs and until we have realized the liberating truth that we, too, can literally become as gods under God. ●

ture. Numerous fragments of iron meteorites with a clear-cut crystalline structure have been found near its rim. But neither drill holes nor magnetometer surveys have revealed any big meteorite mass that can correspond to a chunk of iron 10 to 30 meters in diameter and weighing 100,000 tons could produce the Arizona crater.

The destructive action of the impacts of crater-forming meteorites on the face of our planet is few. But for other planets and their satellites which are not protected (like the earth, with an atmosphere), the results of meteoritic impacts should be considerably greater. The surface of the moon with its multiplicity of craters, partly volcanic and partly meteoritic in origin, has been shown by Sytinskaya to be covered with a thick layer of dust. This may be inferred from its color and its reflectivity (both as regards light rays and radio waves). This dust originates from meteoritic bombardment. The surface features of other bodies in the solar system should also be affected by the destructive action of collisions with meteorites and/or other celestial phenomena (anti-matter, comets, cosmic dust, mini-asteroids).

In 1938-39 aerial photographs were taken of the devastation in the area of the Tungus explosion site and have been minutely studied by the Soviet scientists in the meteorite committee. Further work was halted by the war when Nazi Germany invaded the U.S.S.R.

Kulik volunteered for front-line service and a year later was killed in action near the city of Smolensk.

UFOs Documented As The Source For The Nuclear Explosion Mystery

In The Tunguska Taiga By The Joint Institute Of Nuclear Research (In The Science City Of Dubna).

The data collected by Alexei V. Zolotov and his scientific team led the Joint Institute of Nuclear Research to "consider the possibility that the Tungus explosion was of a nuclear nature." In 1945, the world heard about Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The first atomic explosions, with the flash and mushroom-shaped clouds, bore a striking similarity to the Tungus catastrophe.

A few months later the Soviet magazine VOKRUG SWETA (Around the World) carried a science fiction story called "The Explosion," in which Alexander Kazantsev (the author) presented in popular form the following amazing idea:

"The Tungus body (object) was a nuclear-powered spaceship from another planet, which exploded while trying to land in Siberia. The explosion was nuclear in character, and so left no debris. It occurred in the air and not on impact with the earth, and for this reason no crater could be found.

"This also explains the existence of the denuded upright trees in the ground zero area: the tree trunks directed perpendicularly to the front of the air shock wave offered little resistance, and lost only their boughs, while trees that stood at an angle to the blast were swept away within a radius of some 25-odd miles."

There were naturally very few people who accepted this concept. Its adherents included the noted Moscow astronomer Dr. Felix Y. Zigel (Associate Professor at the Moscow Aviation Institute). At the same time, there were many celebrated scientists who vehemently opposed this new theory.

"It was certainly a meteorite, and not a spaceship," wrote Vassili Fesenkov, academician, and Yevgeni Krinov, a scientific secretary of the Meteorites Committee, in 1951. "The explosion of the Tungus meteorite occurred not at an altitude of several hundred yards above the earth, but on impact with the earth's surface. The crater thus formed was quickly filled with water. And so there is no enigma of the Tungus meteorite and the nature of its explosion leaves no one in doubt."

Strangely enough, the non-scientific speculation of a fiction writer was much more in accord with the results of observation than a strictly scientific hypothesis.

Discussions flared up anew. Beginning in 1959, more expeditions were undertaken. Their members, mainly young people from Siberia, the Urals, Moscow and Leningrad, went to the central Siberian forests, often at their own expense and during their holidays. And they made discoveries which called for a re-examination of old concepts.

One of these groups, headed by Gennadi Plekhanov and Nikolai Vasiliev, was of the opinion that the Tungus body (object) was a giant clot of cosmic dust. Another group, headed by Alexei V. Zolotov, supported the "nuclear" explosion hypothesis.

The Meteorite Committee of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, headed by its chairman academician Fesenkov and scientific secretary Krinov, did not remain unmoved. In 1959, Kulik's trail was followed for the first time by a team of experts headed by Kyrill Florensky. He began a thorough scientific examination which lasted for several years. The results were set forth in lengthy reports, which concluded:

"The members of the expedition are satisfied that a meteorite exploded in

Citizen's Radio UFO Network

Under Paragraph 87, Part 95 of the Federal Communications Rules and Regulations, the International UFO Registry (IUFOR) has been licensed for the use of short distance radio communication facilities for the purpose of coordinating the investigation and reporting of unidentified aerial phenomena. The unofficial UFO reporting frequency is CB channel 5.

Under the Citizen's Radio UFO Network (CRUFON) this channel will be used for UFO reporting and investigation activities within 150 miles of the sighting.

Initial sighting reports are evaluated and forwarded by CRUFON members over the UFO Hotline (800-348-4057) or HAM Radio Relay to a UFO Registry Center, which in turn catalogs the sighting and decides proper follow-up procedure.

The Citizen's Radio Network is operated by the International UFO Registry and is open to any licensed CB or HAM radio operator. Members receive CRUFON operating information, identification, and are listed in the CRUFON Directory. There is no charge for this service, although members are required to submit their call-letters and a list of their equipment. Identifying bumper and equipment stickers are also available.

Losing Your Hair Hair Thinning Do You Have Dandruff Itchy Scalp?

THE COMATE HAIR AND SCALP TREATMENT
MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN SAVING YOUR HAIR AND LOSING THE REST OF IT.

Baldness is simply a matter of subtraction. When the number of new hairs fail to equal the number of falling hair, you end up minus your head of hair (bald). Why not avoid baldness by preventing unnecessary loss of hair? Why not eliminate needless causes of hair loss and give Nature a chance to grow more hair for you? Many of the country's dermatologists and other foremost hair and scalp specialists believe that seborrhea, a common scalp disorder, causes hair loss. What is seborrhea? It is a bacterial infection of the scalp that can eventually cause permanent damage to the hair follicles. Its visible evidence is "thinning" hair. Its end result is baldness. Its symptoms are dry, itchy scalp, dandruff, oily hair, head scales, and progressive hair loss.

So, if you are beginning to notice that your forehead is getting larger, beginning to notice that there is too much hair on your comb, beginning to be worried about the dryness of your hair, the itchiness of your scalp, the ugly dandruff — these are Nature's Red Flags warning you of impending baldness. Even if you have been losing your hair for some time, don't let seborrhea rob you of the rest of your hair.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of the great majority of causes of baldness and excessive hair loss. In such cases neither the Comate treatment nor any other treatment is effective.

Note To Doctors
Doctors, clinics and hospitals interested in scalp disorders can obtain professional samples and literature on written request.

HOW COMATE WORKS ON YOUR SCALP

The development of an amazing hair and scalp medicine called Comate is specifically designed to control seborrhea and stop the hair loss it causes.

"My hair had been coming out and breaking off for about 21 years and Comate has improved it so much."
—Mrs. J. E. Lisbon, Ga.

"It really has improved my hair in one week, and I know what the result will be in three more. I am so happy over it, I had to write!"
—Mrs. H. J. McComb, Miss.

"I've used a good many different 'tonics.' But until I tried Comate, I had no results. Now I'm rid of dandruff, and itchy scalp. My hair looks thicker."
—G. E., Alberta, Canada

"I used to comb out a handful of hair at a time. Now I only get 4-6 on my comb. The terrible itching has stopped."
—L.H.M., Los Angeles, Cal.

"My hair has improved. It used to fall out by handfuls. Comate stopped it from falling out."
—D.M.H., Oklahoma City, Okla.

It offers the opportunity to thousands of men and women losing their hair to bacterial infection to reverse the battle they are now losing on their scalps. By stopping this obstacle to normal hair growth, new hairs can grow as Nature intended.

This is how Comate works: (1) It combines in a single scalp treatment the essential corrective factors for normal hair growth. By its rubifacient action it stimulates blood circulation to the scalp, thereby supplying more nutrition to still-alive hair follicles. (2) As a highly effective antiseptic, Comate kills on contact the seborrhea-causing scalp bacteria believed to be a cause of baldness. (3) By its keratolitic action it dissolves ugly dandruff. By tending to normalize the lubrication of the hair shaft it corrects excessively dry and oily hair. It eliminates head scales & scalp itch.

In short, Comate offers you in a single treatment the best that modern medicine has developed for the preservation of your hair. There is no excuse today except ignorance for any man or woman to neglect seborrhea and pay the penalty of hair loss.

COMATE IS UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED

To you we offer this UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE. Treat your scalp to Comate in your own home, following the simple directions. See for yourself in your own mirror how after a few treatments, Comate makes your hair look thicker and alive. How Comate ends your dandruff, stops your scalp itch. How Comate gives your hair a chance to grow. Most men and women report results after the first treatment, some take longer. But we say this to you. If, for any reason, you are not completely satisfied with the improvement in your own case — AT ANY TIME — return the unused portion for a prompt refund. No questions asked.

But don't delay. For the sake of your hair, order Comate today. Nothing — not even Comate — can grow hair from dead follicles. Fill out the coupon now, and take the first step toward a good head of hair again.

the air." And these words belong to scientific secretary Yevgeni Krinov, who in 1951 had utterly refuted the "wild theory of the aerial explosion."

Later, chairman academician Fesenkov himself abandoned his previous meteorite theory in favor of the "comet concept," and held that the Tungus explosion could not have been caused by "an ordinary" or even a large meteorite. Thus, "no one has any doubt any longer about the comet nature of the fall."

The words "no doubt" were used again. But this time they referred to a comet. So was it really a comet, or something else again?

The End Of The Tungus Explosion Mystery

A comet entering the earth's atmosphere might disintegrate by evaporating in the air in a split second as a result of atmospheric friction. But according to Professor Kyrill Stanyukovich, such an explosion would be possible only if the Tungus body (object) had hurtled through the air at a speed of not less than 18.75 miles per second.

This means that even with almost instantaneous evaporation, the body (object) would have had to fly (fall) several miles before its disintegration. But the map of the devastated area drawn by the Meteorite Committee shows that almost all the felled trees lie in radial lines coming from one point. This means that the explosion was not linear in its nature.

True, the position of some of the trunks deviated from the strictly radial. Such dispersal is due to a combination of two air shock waves. The first, the ballistic wave, originated before the explosion, when the Tungus body (object) pierced the atmosphere like a projectile. The second was produced by the explosive disintegration of this body (object).

After all this data had been processed by an electronic computer, it became possible to calculate the speed of the flight in its last stage: between a half and one and one quarter miles per second. This is not nearly fast enough for the sudden evaporation of a comet head.

Perhaps the atmosphere was pierced by a clot of cosmic dust (anti-matter?) On meeting celestial matter (atmospheric gases) it would have caused the mutual annihilation of both matter and anti-matter, with an accompanying discharge of energy.

This hypothesis was put forward by American scientist La Paz in 1948.

In 1965, he was supported by American physicists and Nobel Prize winners Willard Libby and Clyde Cowan, and also by K. Atluri, who made a careful examination using the carbon testing method.

The publication of their work in the British magazine NATURE quickened scientific and public interest in the Soviet Union. The weekly NED-ELYA followed up with an interview with the Soviet geologist Kyrill Florensky.

K. Florensky described the anti-matter as "more fantastic than scientific." He said at the time:

"The information and hypothesis of the Americans about the Tungus meteorite are not very convincing...."

"U.S.S.R. expeditions have, over recent years, established that in 1908 the level of radiation in the ground zero area did not increase. It could well be considered proved that there are no grounds for speculation about a nuclear explosion.... It is quite possible that for the first time in human history we are dealing with a fallen comet and not a meteorite."

The NEDELYA interview was headlined, "The End of the Tungus Mystery." But was it the end?

JINR Staff Meets To Hear K. Florensky and Alexei V. Zolotov

The Academic staff of the Joint Institute of Nuclear Research met one day in 1965 to hear a written answer by Kyrill Florensky to Libby, Cowan and Atluri.

The conference was also addressed by Alexei V. Zolotov. He refuted Florensky's arguments. For example, it was found that the annual concentric circles in those trees in the Tungus area which had continued to grow since 1908 were much thicker than those rings that had grown before the explosion. Possibly their growth had been stimulated by some radioactive substances.

A barogram of the explosion obtained at Greenwich Observatory in 1908 led Alexei V. Zolotov to believe that it looked very much like the barometric readings from atomic explosions in the air at an altitude of slightly under four miles.

This data collected by Zolotov and his scientific team led Boris Konstantinov to "Consider The Possibility That The Tungus Explosion was Of A Nuclear Nature."

Now radio-chemists are carefully examining the ashes of the Tungus trees to obtain more facts. If it turns out that the explosion was set off by the fission of heavy nuclei (as in an atomic bomb), or by the fusion of light nuclei (as in a hydrogen bomb), it will then be almost proved that the event involved the participation of intelligent beings—extraterrestrial designers who made an interplanetary flying object. A natural explosion of this nature is inconceivable.

And what about the mutual annihilation of matter and anti-matter?

The Tungus explosion had a power-yield of a 10-megaton thermonuclear bomb. This would require an "anti-meteorite" of about 300 or 400 grams only. But what about the terrible ballistic air wave? This certainly could not have been caused by so small an object. Its energy was about one-thousandth that of the explosion wave. But even then the air shock wave could have been only precipitated by a very large body (object).

In addition to this, our solar system is not likely to have these clots of cosmic dust (anti-matter), and it is highly improbable that they could have reached the earth intact from some far-off galaxy.

All Of This Suggests Another Possibility: Perhaps It Was The Annihilatory Engine Of Some Starship That Exploded Over The Tungus Taiga Area?

In the summer of 1967, the Joint Institute of Nuclear Research published a scientific paper by Vladimir Mekhedov. It confirmed that one of the direct results of the Tungus explosion was residual radiation retained by the trees in the area. Mekhedov drew the following conclusions: "And Again We (Fantastic As It May Sound), Come Back To The Hypothesis That The Tungus Catastrophe was Precipitated By A Spaceship Powered By Anti-Matter."

Until recently it was considered that the Tungus body (object) had moved in the atmosphere from south to north. That was what eye witnesses had said. But the trunks of the fallen trees indicate that the body (object) reached the point of its destruction from the east.

Soviet scientists Igor Zotkin and Mikhail Tsikulin re-enacted the catastrophe under laboratory conditions. A long fuse with a detonator at the end imitated the movement and explosion of the Tungus body (object).

With the fuse in certain positions, the miniature trees fell in a pattern that resembled the pictures taken by aerial photography and land surveys. This gave Zotkin and Tsikulin reason to believe that the body (object) had followed the easterly trajectory.

In 1966, Dr. Felix Y. Zigel insisted that neither of the two trajectories could be ignored. Both are accounted for if one assumes that the original course of the Tungus body (object) changed twice. This complicated maneuver could have been executed only by a piloted flying machine and/or by remote control.

So Perhaps Our Planet Was Visited From Outer Space In 1908. The Purpose Of This Visit Is Unclear; Its Outcome Disastrous, And Its Scientific Implications Enormous.

The hypothesis outlined herein calls for a great deal of further substantiation, both logical and, especially, experimental. One of the first questions that suggests itself is:

Why Haven't The Hypothetical Tungus Astronauts Revisited Us In The Last Sixty-Eight Years?

A first visit to any planet is, obviously, largely a fortuitous event. Hence, the frequency of such visits is determined solely by their probability, which is very small indeed. A rough estimate would suggest the possibility of a "first visit" about once every 10,000 years. Thus, if we assume that our planet was visited by extraterrestrial beings five or six thousand years ago, we should expect another visit from somewhere else several thousand years hence.

Repeated visits are, of course, another matter. If other-worldly astronauts have ever been here we may expect them to plan subsequent trips, their frequency being much greater than that of "first visits."

Why Then Haven't The Tungus Astronauts, Who We Say Have Been Here Once, Come Back Again In The Sixty-Eight Years Since Then?

An answer to this question would require a number of additional, highly improbable assumptions were we to assume that the visitors must necessarily have come from another planet of a solar system, and/or a nearby family of planets in an adjoining system. As far as inhabitants of distant parts of the universe are concerned, the earth (and the solar system as a whole for that matter) is in no way better than a great number of similar systems and they present no special interest to warrant repeated visits.

Another possibility is that the Tungus astronauts came from some very distant world and are still on their way home. Remember that in a moving starship time passes much slower than on our "stationary" earth and the Tungus astronauts and the "natives" they took with them may not be much older than they were when they departed. Depending on their speed, only a few decades or even years may have passed according to their clock. On earth thousands of terrestrial years will have to pass before the distant astronauts or their crews come back for a second visit.

The Question Of Whether Or Not Inhabitants From Other Worlds Have Ever Set Foot On Earth Can Be Answered Only By The Joint Effort Of Historians, Archaeologists, Astronomers, Physicists, Chemists And Other Experts.

In this article I have merely set forth some more or less convincing facts known to me which offer an idea of the problem and which, I hope, may prompt some serious young investigators of UFOlogy to investigate and research.

The Question Can Be Answered Definitely Only After Experimental Research Carried Out Under A Comprehensive Program Embodying The Most Up-To-Date Methods Of Analysis Is Carried Out.

To conclude, if astronauts from other worlds ever visited our planet, they must have left some deliberate evidence (the Tungus nuclear explosion) of this. Whatever it is should surely contain information about the universe and many fields of knowledge and about the activity of intelligent beings.

This Information, Possibly Together With Samples Of Technological Know-How, Could Not Be Handed Over To Comparatively Primitive Earthmen, Unable To Comprehend Their Significance.

Still, some clever men could well have made use of the information and exploited it as proof of their superiority.

We may assume that the astronauts took special care to preserve the evidence of their visit for the benefit of future, more enlightened generations of the human race. Knowing that time could completely obliterate all traces of their visit, they would naturally erect some conspicuous structures which would not be likely to disintegrate too soon.

These would be designed so as, on the one hand, to lead people to the idea that extraterrestrial visitors had been here and, on the other hand, to serve as a landmark (the Tungus nuclear explosion over central Siberia) to facilitate the discovery of the detailed evidence of their visit. Thus, in addition to the purely scientific interest of establishing the fact of a visit by extraterrestrial beings, the material proof of this could affect the whole of human civilization and give momentum for the great leap forward in our progress.

It Does Not Matter So Much Whether The Extraterrestrial Visitors Were Here Sixty-Eight, One Thousand Or One Million Years Ago. The Important Point Is To Analyze Any And All Pertinent Facts, However Remote They Might Be In Time.

In This Connection Attention Should Be Given To The Recent Reports In The Soviet And Foreign Press Concerning Facts And Finds Which Could Be Regarded As Proof And/Or Evidence Of A Visitation Of Extraterrestrial Astronauts.

It goes without saying that the first thing to do is to check the authenticity of the relevant data and then subject it to a thorough analysis.

An Assumption Of Extraterrestrial Origin Of The Tungus Nuclear Explosion Could Well Be Taken As A Working Scientific Hypothesis. ●

taneously, there was a high then low pitched sound—WHO-O-O-P—WHE-E-E! Incredulously, Bob saw the object lift off the ground about a foot, stop in midair, swing around in a clockwise motion and settle down on the ground again! This maneuver took about four seconds. The boxlike object had risen with a perfectly vertical motion in an unwavering, mechanical-like manner. It was now all too obvious to Bob that this object had nothing to do with his neighbor's experiments. The thought that it must be some kind of Air Force hovercraft briefly raced through his mind as encroaching fear turned to pure terror! He thought of running but was frozen to the spot as strange electriclike sounds came from within the "box."

At this juncture, the witness found himself facing the intermittently humming object just about broadside, i.e., with its longest side parallel with him. He got a good look at this side of it. On the upper left side, which was higher, there were two round black holes, which seemed to be just under an inch in diameter. These appeared to be definite openings, not just markings, and were recessed into the object about an inch. They were spaced about six inches apart and centered in the upper left portion—appearing like eyes watching him. He saw nothing inside these holes. Centered and attached to the middle of the object's underside was a round-appearing section protruding downward that looked like a dishpan or flattened dome. It was about two feet in diameter and had three two-inch openings spaced around that part of the circumference facing him. These holes were more egg-shaped than round—like an egg standing on end. Bob never noticed if there were similar holes continuing around the perimeter of this domelike protrusion.

The color of the boxlike part of the object was a brownish hue that blended well with the trees. Its surface was somewhat like that of unevenly rusted steel but looked more like the pitted surface that cork displays. Bob commented to me that it looked more nonmetallic than metallic. He also noted that the object had definite sharp edges, i.e., its extremities were not rounded. The domelike undersection appeared to be made of similar material but darker and metallic-looking. The tripod legs were square shafts about one inch in diameter. Each appeared to be about one foot long and was attached to the bottom of the object around and slightly away from where the dome was attached. Each leg angled out and had a pad attached on its end. The pads were about one foot long and about two inches square. The legs were attached approximately three inches inward and about nine inches of the pad toed inward, forming vee shapes relative to one another. They appeared to be constructed of a very dull, nonshiny metal.

Petrified, Bob again heard a series of humming sounds coming from within the object. A humming was as close as he could describe these intermittent sounds, although he felt this was not a fully satisfactory description. The unearthly sound stopped and started three to four times in a random, rather than in an evenly, timed fashion, for about a minute. The longest of these humming periods was estimated to be about 15 seconds in duration when I timed the witness' reenactment of the event on-site.

Suddenly, another huge blast of air rushed out from the domed underside of the object sending dust, twigs and pine needles flying about in all directions! Bob said that it was like the blast of air one feels when standing near moving helicopter rotors. Concurrent with this air blast was the same sound he had heard when it had briefly ascended before, except it was much louder. The loudness and pitch increased as Bob unbelievably watched the box-shaped craft smoothly ascend. He saw no lights, flame or exhaust and smelled nothing unusual. Still paralyzed with fear, Bob watched the object rise in a perfectly straight vertical fashion until it reached an altitude of about 10 feet. It then stopped and hovered for a split second (the loudness and pitch of the whining sound leveled off at this point) and then moved quickly on a perfectly straight horizontal course for about 24 feet. As it moved, the pitch and loudness of its whining noise remained the same.

Small saplings located directly under the object's flight path swayed as if the downward blast of air were still continuing. The witness saw and felt nothing that would indicate a sideward propulsion blast. Then, as the object moved out from under overhanging tree branches, it again stopped in midair and swung around clockwise for about 90 degrees before abruptly accelerating straight up and out of sight behind tree branches. Bob described its speed as being as fast as a solid fuel ground-to-air missile that he had seen in a movie. Simultaneously with its final ascent was a tremendous increase in the pitch and loudness of the whining sound. He could hear the sound from above getting fainter, as if the object continued its vertical ascent into the distance.

On-site witness reenactment of this final vertical-horizontal-vertical maneuver, from start to stop (before final ascent) took only 2.5 seconds. This is important, as the sound associated with this maneuver was heard by the witness' mother and sister, who were at a distance of about 800 feet away! Total reenacted sighting duration was two minutes.

Upon the object's spectacular departure, Bob immediately turned and ran, shouting for his mother as he plowed through thickets to reach home as fast as possible. An on-site timed reenactment of his run along the identical route took just about two minutes.

In the meantime, during the boy's encounter with the UFO, his mother was talking through an open window to her daughter, who was skating on some ice near the house. This window was facing in the general direction of the sighting area but was obstructed by trees that blocked a clear view of the sky. Suddenly, both mother and daughter heard a piercing whining sound fill the air! They told me that it sounded like the very much amplified sound of "an elevator which started up, stopped at the second floor to pick up a passenger, and then restarted and moved nonstop all the way to the top floor." Their description coincided with the sound associated with the final maneuver of the UFO. Then, they told me, they could hear Bob's voice yelling from up in the woods. When he came bursting into the backyard, he was so out of breath and excited that he could hardly talk. His mother told me that when he finally blurted out what he had witnessed, she warily followed him back to the sighting area.

Upon arriving at the place where the object had been, they found a circular impression seemingly blown out of the heavily matted area of pine needles. It was about two feet in diameter, about four to six inches deep at the center, and shaped somewhat like a large shallow bowl. Elongated impressions were clearly visible around and outside of the depression's circumference. Mrs. Johnson told me that they resembled the impressions that a ruler might make if laid flat on the pine needles and pressed down into the ground about one inch. They then returned to the house, where she asked her son to draw a sketch and write out a verbal description of what he had seen. She told me that Bob's hands were literally shaking as he sat down at the kitchen table with pencil and paper.

Her husband arrived home from work soon thereafter and found his son still at the table 45 minutes after the sighting. After being briefed on what had happened, he grabbed a Kodak Instamatic camera with flash attachment and went up to the site with his son and daughter. He took three photographs, which turned out to be very poor, as the three-dimensional hole is hard to make out.

Mr. Johnson made the following observations about the physical traces and sighting area: (1) The center depression was perfectly smooth and rounded and had to be "mechanically made." (2) He saw no traces of foreign substances or scorching. (3) He sniffed around the markings but did not smell anything unusual. (4) The round impression appeared to have been smoothly blown out of four inches of pine needles and two inches of earth. (5) He found a freshly broken twig about two feet long and about the diameter of a pen on the ground under the horizontal flight path of the object. (6) The object had been sitting under a near-solid canopy of white pine. It could not have come down from the sky through them but would have to have been intelligently guided down through, in and under these pines, in just the reverse of the way it had left the area. (7) He, as an engineering manager, expressed some dismay as to how an object of that size and corresponding weight could be lifted up by a reaction type engine. There was no residue or scorched area and no violent markings such as would have been made by a jet engine.

Four days after the sighting occurred, the family's Saturday paid handyman was shown the markings. During my investigation, I questioned him. He confirmed the markings and told me that he had checked the area over a period of two years and that during this time, nothing grew in the disturbed area.

In close encounter cases such as this, one can easily rule out a misinterpretation of natural phenomena or misidentification of a man-made object. A hallucination does not leave physical traces behind in its wake nor does it exhibit multi-witnessed sound. This only leaves the possibility of a hoax. A thorough character check of the principals indicates that members of this family are hard-working and honest people who are certainly not the type to perpetrate a hoax. The physicist neighbor denied having any experiment on the Johnson's property. The performance of the craft described certainly indicates advanced technology.

In order for Bob to perform such a hoax on his family and the handyman, he would have had to prepare the "physical traces" somehow prior to the incident and would somehow have had to produce a "whining sound" loud enough to be heard from his house and hope that his mother and/or sister would hear it. Then, he would have to put on a very convincing act by appearing to be frightened out of his wits—breathless, barely coherent and literally shaking. This is not the type of boy that Bob's school teachers portray. To describe what was reported would take a vivid imagination, i.e., an l-shaped, "box-shaped" object on tripod landing gear with toed-in landing pads (rather than the typical "flying saucer" shape) and its location under trees rather than in an open field.

Repeated cross-questioning and examination of original material gave me the strongest of impressions that Bob and his family are telling the truth in this matter. A search of National

Investigating Committee on Aerial Phenomena (NICAP) files revealed another report of a similar box-shaped object. It was seen from a distance sitting in a wheat field at Hubbard, Oregon. Corresponding with investigating Marion County Deputy Sheriff S.H. Davidson revealed that the witness stated that the object "went up slow until it got to about the height of a telephone pole. Then it shot up just like a rocket..." It, too, had a domelike protrusion, but on its side. It, too, was sighted in a rural area and left a blown-out area with three impressions. It, too, had legs. It made a B-E-E-P sound. It is possible that the same type of object might have been sighted at Hubbard, Oregon, and that distance prevented the witness from giving an accurate description. A most thorough investigation indicated that a hoax or misinterpretation would have been next to impossible under the overall circumstances, and I concluded in a 53-page report to NICAP that "It is my opinion, taking all known data into consideration, that this landed/flying object report should be placed in the significant unknown category."

A human witness had observed in great detail the intricate maneuvers and take-off of an alien remote-controlled space probe from a measured distance of about 24 feet! ●

tion personnel carry their identification in a special billfold.

But this was just the beginning.

Both men wore tan trenchcoats which they kept buttoned from knee to collar. The taller of the two, who, according to the family's testimony, did all the talking, was described as having blond hair, green eyes, was thin and deeply tanned. The other was shorter in stature and heavyset with dark hair, piercing blue eyes and also deeply tanned.

Mrs. Kushner explained to our investigating team that although both men were for the most part very polite, they were extremely insistent about one thing: they wanted every shred of information about the girls' experience.

I was told that these two characters did still another somewhat curious deed. They moved about the house with apparently total knowledge of the whereabouts of the rooms, furniture, objects, etc. As an experiment, and being a total stranger to the Kushner residence, I thoughtfully tried to duplicate the trick. Believe me, I'll never go through that again!

When asked how the Air Force had learned of the UFO sighting, the taller one responded to Tanya's question with a cold "We know a lot of things, a lot of things."

Unsure of their footing by this time, the family felt that cooperation with the "officers" was their only option. Although compelled to accept the situation for what it was worth, something seemed off center, something they couldn't quite put their finger on.

Sue noted that their clothes looked as if they had purchased them in a clothing store ten minutes before and their shoes were unwalked on in appearance. The cigarette pack held by the taller man was unopened and even his wallet was brand new! (These facts may seem trivial or even confusing now, but I will explain shortly.)

While the taller of the two showed his apprehensive audience a loose-leaf

notebook with professionally printed schematic diagrams and photos of both the interior and exterior views of various types of UFO-type craft, Sue watched the shorter "officer" secretly write something in an elongated notebook not unlike those used by stenographers. Catching him off guard, she was amazed to see him writing strange symbols in vertical columns, starting from the left, going down one column, up the second, down the third, up the fourth, etc. Being accustomed to shorthand, Sue had no idea of the graphic's origin.

Meanwhile, Blabbermouth continued to mystify his audience, telling them that UFOs were nothing more than secret U.S. experimental craft which have not harmed persons or property and that public disclosure of seeing one up close could result in federal prosecution.

When Tanya asked how she could get in touch with them, the tall one parried the query with a stunning, "I can find you anywhere, anytime!"

By this time, to say that the Kushners were thoroughly confused would be the understatement of the year. But the best was yet to come. No study of this case would be complete without an honorable mention of the agents' actions prior to the fall of the curtain. When the mystery men left, they backed out onto the roadway, turned off their headlights and powered down the road. (It was well after dark by this time and it is against Pennsylvania commonwealth traffic laws to drive one-half hour after sunset without suitable lighting.)

One fact is clear. These two men had absolutely no connection with any government agency.

I stumbled onto this bizarre case strictly by accident. All of you know how—a friend of a friend who knows a cousin of a friend. It is important to note here that I had to work diligently to gain their confidence, and they impressed me as being a no-nonsense, sincere and closely knit family unit.

During the course of the initial investigation, it was readily apparent that the witnesses were not only totally unaware of certain basic UFO "lore" but were fully ignorant of the MIB situation altogether. They kept referring to their visitors as "government men," and were, to say the least, quite perplexed over the agents' illogical behavior.

Remember, these events occurred in January of 1967, long before Watergate and the subsequent public release of evidence regarding apparent abuses by federal and military intelligence groups. In 1967, when a government agent told you something, you listened! And if this same agent told you to shut up, you didn't argue. Any other course of action was at that point in time simply unheard of.

It was all there. The dark-complected mystery men, who appeared as if from nowhere, overwhelmed the witnesses with impressive identification, then proceeded to confuse and confound even the most logical of persons. These characters all looked alike. And the patterns displayed by their M.O. were readily visible to all who had taken the time to carefully and seriously inspect those reports. Consistency was the name of the game—even to the "just purchased" clothing, unwalked on shoes and spanking new wallet. (I know a great many people, many of them in the military and most of them in the upper-income bracket, and let me assure you that eighty percent of them carry haggard, beat-up wallets while the other twenty percent display billfolds that show moderate wear. A billfold is like a pair of shoes—it must be broken in to be appreciated. On this point, I am sure I will find no disagreement.)

Yes, the Kushner case fit the pattern perfectly. "Men In Black" reports began increasing in number during the summer of '66 and increased to fever tempo up until the fall of 1968. But it wasn't until the fall of 1968 that even a handful of researchers was able to accumulate and document enough of these cases to even catch a glimmer of these patterns so obvious to us today.

So what are we to believe? Are we to believe that the Kushners had the foresight to create a hoax so precise that it would parallel other reports of MIB encounters gathered by eager investigators eighteen months later?

Again I say, nonsense!

These individuals honestly and without embellishment related to me the events that had transpired.

However, we will always be strangled by men who cannot see beyond the tips of their noses or who find it uncomfortable to think for themselves.

It is very true that in 1969 there appeared to be a lot of prestige in being a ufologist, and even more prestige in being a ufologist threatened by the notorious "Men In Black". Also, at about this time many shoddy MIB hoaxes were being placed in the limelight. Of course all of this is true! The hoaxers had acquired enough data to make their supposed incident fit into the framework. Such is not the case with those poor families who had never even thought about UFOs, endured the frightening and sometimes painful aspects of a UFO encounter, and then when the family was trying to forget the whole damn thing, up pop the "Soap Opera Silencers" to give the witnesses a final kick in the proverbial teeth. These families didn't rush to send in their reports to their local UFO letterzine. If anything, the MIB encounter threw their initial sighting into such a bizarre light they told no one at all. They were silenced. And what a beautiful way it was accomplished.

If what little we know and half of what we suspect is close to the truth, we are up against one hell of a complex and fantastic phenomena. Isn't it about time that we quit trying to bring these "outsiders" down to our level and finally stop telling them what they should be like.

Logically, it should take but one genuine case to prove the reality of the Mystery Men.
